Saxbe concludes Patty not reluctant in robbery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General William B. Saxbe said today he has concluded that Patricia Hearst was "not a reluctant participant" in the San Francisco bank robbery Monday by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Saxbe told reporters he reached this conclusion from "the way she behaved, the number of people in the bank who observed her behavior, the testimony of witnesses and actions within the bank."

"It would appear to me she was not a reluctant person in this robbery," Saxbe said.

"It is my personal conclusion that she was not a reluctant participant," he said.

Saxbe said the SLA members are "common criminals." Asked if he believed Miss Hearst is also a common criminal, Saxbe continued, "and Miss Hearst, as a part of it."

Saxbe noted that some witnesses believed Miss Hearst, kidnaped by the SLA three months ago, was under the guns of other SLA members during the bank holdup but Saxbe did not agree that she was being forced to participate.

"It would appear to me she was not a reluctant person in this robbery," Saxbe said.

Saxbe said he was not giving any signals or orders to the FBI but he believed that if the FBI knows where the SLA members are hiding they should go in and get them.

Saxbe recalled that he had said shortly after the kidnaping that if the FBI knew where the SLA was holding Miss Hearst they should go after her.

Saxbe noted that after he made that statement, Miss Hearst's father, newspaper editor Randolph Hearst, said Saxbe's comment, "bordered on the irresponsible" and possibly endangered her safety at that time.

"As you know Mr. Hearst took a violent reaction when I said he shouldn't deal with the kidnapers," Saxbe said. "My reaction hasn't changed."

RAID NETS ARMS CACHE

Fourteen persons were arrested Tuesday when police raided a house occupied by members of the Black Panther party in Oakland in response to a complaint from a young man who said he was beaten with a pistol and bat. Shown is the large cache of weapons also seized during the raid.

Another Zebra shooting in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A black gunman shot and killed the son of a DuPont Corp. executive Tuesday night in the latest in a series of racial killings on the streets of San Francisco.

The 12th white person to be killed since November in what police call the "Zebra" shootings was Nelson T. Shields, IV, 23, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson T. Shields III, of Greenville, Dela., a Wilmington suburb.

As in the other slayings, police could give no motive.

Shields, who graduated from Hobart College in June and spent the winter working at a ski resort near Denver, came to the San Francisco area to visit family friends two weeks ago.

He was arranging athletic equipment in the back of a borrowed station wagon when he was shot outside a house in the Ingleside district near the Pacific Ocean.

With a friend, he had gone to the house to pick up a recently purchased rug.

A witness told police he had been shot by a black man who was 5 feet, 11 inches tall and wore blue trousers and a jacket and a knit watch cap.

The witness said she had seen the man hurrying away, while zipping the jacket.

At the scene police found a shell casing from a .32 caliber pistol' the same type weapon used in 18 other such shootings.

Six persons have been wounded and the others slain.

Bank guard tells of Hearst girl's foul, abusive orders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A guard who witnessed Monday's daring bank robbery by the Symbionese Liberation Army says newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst left little doubt she would use her gun, despite reports she appeared reluctant.

His eyewitness report appeared to conflict with statements by the FBI that Miss Hearst may have been forced to take part in the robbery. The FBI reports were based on photographs taken by hidden bank cameras.

The bank guard, Edward Shea, 66. told UPI that Miss Hearst "was pretty wild, giving out vindictives and orders and all that, saying she would shoot the first guy that moved, calling everybody an m.f. and everything else."

"There was no doubt in my mind she would shoot," Shea said in an interview with KRON television. Asked why, he said, "It was her stance. Her position. It was so, uh, so tough. I heard her say she would shoot the first s.o.b. that moved or did anything out of line."

Asked whether Miss Hearst acted naturally during the robbery, Shea said, "Well, it was natural as far as a holdup is concerned, yes.

Asked whether she talked to any of the other bank robbers, Shea said, "I don't think she spoke to anybody as far as I could see."

Bank Manager James Smith said he witnessed the holdup from a tiny window in a second-floor vault in the bank.

He said he saw "these two gals with what I thought were machine guns." He said Miss Hearst "was pointing her gun in the direction of the people on the floor." Either of the women, he said, appeared to be "ready to shoot the guns."

Miss Hearst's parents returned Tuesday from a 10-day vacation in Mexico.

Asked his reaction to the holdup, Hearst said: "I feel like any father would react ... I think it's the most vicious thing I've ever seen or had happen to me.

"Up to 60 days ago, she was a lovely child, and now —60 days later —there is a picture of her in a bank with a gun in her hand. How do you think any father would feel?"

But Steven Weed, Miss Hearst's fiance, said he was certain she was "coerced" into participating in the robbery. "If ever people should sympathize with her, it is now," he told reporters outside the Hearst mansion in nearby Hillsborough.

Weed, a University of California graduate student, said his fiancee "is sick, is exhausted and humiliated by a group of people determined not to let her out of this alive."

The SLA, he said, believes "it is nothing without Patty Hearst." He added that a close look at the pictures showed she had lost weight. "It looks like she can hardly hold the gun," he said.

Pair convicted in 1972 slaying of CIM guard

LOS ANGELES — Robert Seabock was convicted of first degree murder and his co-defendant, Jean Hobson, was convicted of second-degree murder Tuesday in the ambush-slaying of a California Institution for Men Prison guard in Chino on Oct. 6, 1972.

The eight women, four men Superior Court jury returned the verdicts after nine days of deliberation. The verdicts were read by Superior Court Judge Charles C. Stratton.

The jury convicted Mrs. Hobson, 45, mother of five children, of second degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner.

Seabock, 22, of Palo Alto, identified by prosecution witnesses as the man who pulled the trigger of a gun that killed CIM guard Jesus Sanchez, was convicted of first degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner.

Mrs. Hobson and Seabock, according to testimony, participated in the ambush with Benton Douglas Burt, 31 and his wife, Andrea. The Burts were convicted last year in San Bernardino of second-degree murder.

In the ambush, prosecution witnesses, including Ronald Wayne Beaty, the CIM inmate who escaped in the ambush, said that two cars forced the state car driven by CIM Guard George Fitzgerald off the road on Edison Avenue near Euclid Avenue in Chino. The ambushers ordered Fitzgerald and Sanchez, who was in the back seat of the vehicle with Beaty, out of the car. Beaty was freed and the two guards herded back in the car. Beaty and another witness said that Seabock then fired into the car killing Sanchez and wounding Fitzgerald.

According to Seabock's and Mrs. Hobson's attorneys they will make a motion for a new trial on May 7 in Los Angeles where the defendants will be sentenced.

Currently a number of other persons, some belonging to a Maoist-revolutionary group called Venceremos, are on trial in federal courts charged with aiding and abetting and harboring Beaty.

Mrs. Grove easy winner

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — A housewife running for her first public office easily captured the First Councilmanic District post in Tuesday's special city election with more than 72 per cent of the vote.

The final, semi-official vote totals from the city's 27 special precincts are: Mrs. Georgia Grove, 3,905; Carl F. Jackson, a General Dynamics administrator, 1,108; and Thomas Fisher Hughes, a Realtor, 407.

Voters also approved a minor City Charter revision changing the date of city primary elections.

The voter turnout of slightly more than 17 per cent of 32,043 registered voters was the lowest for a city election in decades.

Larry B. Thomas, city clerk since 1955 and a city employe since 1946, said he could not recall a city election where the turnout was that poor.

When the votes are canvassed and Mrs. Grove is sworn into office next Monday she will begin an unexpired term vacated last December with the resignation of R. T. French. The four-year term expires next April.

Mrs. Grove will become the second woman in the city's history to serve on the City Council. Mrs. Elaine Hopkins represented the same district from 1961 to 1965.

The city's computer was not used to tabulate the vote tallies. Counting went smoothly and was done by hand with the first precinct returns made public about an hour after the polls closed at 8 p.m. The final returns were in before 10 p.m.

Mrs. Grove and her husband, Marvin, an insurance man, live at 1785 Yorba Drive, and have two daughters.

Mrs. Grove led the field from the earliest returns and won 59 of the 87 absentee ballots cast. She finished ahead in votes in all but three of the 27 precincts.

Jackson out-distanced Grove and Hughes in Precincts No. 4 in northeastern Pomona, No. 9 which takes in the Ganesha High School area, and No. 23 in the southwest section.

The lowest turnout of slightly more than seven per cent was in Precinct No. 8, generally northwest and southwest of the General Dynamics plant, excluding Westmont. Precinct No. 6, with a polling place at the Yorba School, had the highest turnout with more than 31 per cent.

Councilman-elect Grove said this morning she had a feeling she would win, but not with that large a plurality, one of the highest if not the highest for a city candidate in recent years.

"I just had a lot of people working for me and they worked hard and they believe in what I believe in," Mrs. Grove said.

Jackson and Hughes, both blacks, saw racial overtones in the election. Mrs. Grove is white.

Jackson, who made his second, unsuccessful bid for public office, said today he was "hurt," not because he lost but the way he lost, adding, "I'll be back."

"I think the conservative element voted to maintain the white structure," said Jackson. He criticized minorities for not turning out to vote in larger numbers.

Hughes issued a statement saying he was disappointed and felt "the race was run on a racial basis more than anything else. I think the whites were scared of Jackson and myself, although I tried to take a middle approach."

Election of Mrs. Grove appears to have lessened the possibility of the City Council's adopting residency requirements for city employes.

Mrs. Grove said during the campaign she would be opposed to residency requirements for present city employes. A similar position has been taken by Mayor Ray J. Lepire. Councilman Charles W. Bader is believed to hold a similar view

Passage of the City Charter amendment means that the dates of city primary election will be changed to coincide with the dates of some school elections, resulting in less elections in the city at a savings to taxpayers.

Oil firm will cut wholesale price

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Increased gasoline sales in April will allow the Atlantic Richfield Company to reduce the wholesale price of its gasoline by one-cent-per-gallon in order to meet Federal Energy Office price control regulations.

Odd-even gasoline plan ends in L.A. Co. today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline restriction plan dies today, after less than two months in effect, killed by increases in gas supplies.

The plan was in effect in nine California counties at one point, covering almost 70 per cent of the vehicles in the nation's most populous—and most car dependent—state.

Officials of the only two counties remaining, Los Angeles and Ventura, voted Tuesday to pull out. Governor Ronald Reagan planned to sign the order at noon today.

The plan was imposed by the state, under the governor's emergency powers, on a county-by-county basis, at the request of county supervisors.

The main provision was a regulation that vehicles with license plates ending in odd numbers could only be fueled on odd numbered days of the month, and those with an even last digit on even numbered days of the month.

State and county officials, and the Automobile Club of Southern California, exprssed concern that motorists will think the gasoline shortage is over because of the lifting of restrictions. The other seven counties pulled out of the plan over the past two weeks.

The auto club said it may have been wise to keep the restrictions in force "since there are indications that we will have shortages this summer and it could carry us through."

Los Angeles County Supervisor James Hayes said major oil companies are now delivering to service stations from 95 to 102 per cent of the fuel they delivered in the base period of April, 1972, a "dramatic change" for the better from the time the plan was imposed.

But he said that demand is expected to run 110 to 120 per cent above the base period, and so shortages will continue.

The end of the plan left 11,384 motorists in Los Angeles County with "C" stickers identifying them as commercial vehicles exempt from its provisions. Doctors, salesmen and others paid $5 apiece for the stickers. Since the county paid $5.31 to process each application, County auditor Mark Bloodgood said, there will be no refunds. He advised the motorists to keep the stickers in case the shortage grows worse and they need them again.

Kent St. suits OK, says court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today families of students killed and wounded in the 1970 Kent State shootings can press federal damage suits against Ohio officials and National Guardsmen.

Two lawsuits had been dismissed in lower courts on the grounds that the state of Ohio was the real defendant and the 11th Amendment to the Constitution banned suits by individuals against a state.

But the high court, in an 8-0 decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, said the amendment does not prohibit in all cases a defendant seeking damages on the grounds of being deprived of a federal right by a state official under state law.

Nixon taps Simon for Shultz's post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today nominated William E. Simon to succeed George P. Shultz as Treasury secretary.

Simon, 46, a former Wall Street investment banker who now is federal energy chief, will be succeeded as head of the Federal Energy Office by his deputy, John C. Sawhill, a White House announcement said.

Soviets may intervene in Mideast hostility

By United Press International

Soviet involvement in the Syrian war effort against Israel deepened today, and the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said the Kremlin was prepared to intervene directly if necessary to halt Israeli military activity on the Golan Heights.

Western diplomats in London said the developments could threaten Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts.

Egypt and Syria both hardened their lines against Israel as the fighting on the Golan Heights entered its 37th consecutive day. Israeli sources in Tel Aviv accused the Arabs of complicating Kssinger's efforts to end the explosive war of attrition on the Heights by rejecting Israeli proposals for a U.N. buffer zone between the two sides.

Further complicating the issue was a joint Soviet-Syrian communique issued Tuesday shortly after Syrian President Hafez Assad returned to Damascus from a five-day visit to Moscow. It said "any agreement on disengagements of troops must be part and parcel of a general settlement of the Middle East problem, a step on the road to a radical and universal general settlement."

UPI correspondent Gordon F. Joseloff reported from Moscow that the statement reflected Soviet annoyance with Kissinger's personal diplomacy in the Middle East. A Syrian delegation has been in Washington discussing with Kissinger a Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement agreement on the Golan Heights.

Damascus Radio said Assad would make an important speech tonight but gave no clue as to its contents. The occasion is Syrian national day marking the 28th anniversary of the evacuation of French troops from Syria.

The joint Soviet-Syrian statement also said the Soviets have "laid out measures for further consolidation of the defense capacity of Syria." It gave no details, but Arab newspapers said the Russians were preparing to give Syria long-range missiles and more advanced MIG23s and possibly MIG25s. Egypt used such missiles sparingly in the October War but now threatens to use them against Israeli cities if the situation worsens.

In London, UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler quoted western defense experts as saying any efforts by Russia to regain lost influence in the Middle East by giving such long-range weapons to Syria could have extremely serious consequences.

"The move underscores Moscow's determination to entrench itself in the Middle East at all cost and to use the allout backing of a Syrian hard line against Israel to enhance the Soviet role in any final Middle East settlement," Thaler reported.

Further evidence of the deepening crisis came Tuesday in a speech by Egyption President Atwar Sadat. He said Egypt has an "astounding" number of tanks ready to cross the Suez Canal immediately and is still aiming its longrange missiles at three of Israel's principal cities.

Sadat said the rockets would be fired if Israel attacked Egyptian cities on the Suez Canal's west bank. Egyptian newspapers warned of Egyptian rocket attacks if Israel continued its "aggression" in the Mdle East and spoke of the possibility of opening a second front in the Sinai.

In the actual Golan Heights fighting, an Israeli military source said battling erupted overnight on the strategic peaks of Mt. Hermon and that an Israeli soldier was wounded. The source said Israeli forces fought off a Syrian helicopter and a patrol.

In Tel Aviv a decision by the ruling Labor party's leadership to nominate a replacement for outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir instead of calling new elections threatened today to split party ranks.

By a 31-13 vote Tuesday, Labor's top leaders skirted new elections and decided to try to form a government from the same three-party coalition led by Mrs. Meir until she resigned last week.

The climax may come Sunday when the party's 614-member central committee, the policy-making body, votes on a new prime minister despite support for elections from powerful elements within the party.

Michigan Democrat winner in Republican stronghold

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — Riding the Watergate morality issue hard, J. Bob Traxler scored a solid victory Tuesday in a congressional district that has elected only one other Democrat in this century.

"We're going to Washington with a message —throw the rascals out," Traxler told about 3,000 campaign workers who greeted him with chants of "impeachment, impeachment."

"If I was a Republican," he added, "I would not want the Nixon albatross around my neck in November."

Final unofficial figures in the seven-county 8th District gave Traxler 59,918 votes to 56,898 for James M. Sparling Jr., who was endorsed in person by President Nixon last week during a barnstorming campaign visit.

The White House did not comment immediately, although a spokesman said Nixon would issue a statement later.

Reaction ranged from elated Democrats who said they were now eying opportunities elsewhere to glum Republicans, including Vice President Gerald R. Ford, a longtime Michigan resident, who said Democratic election victories posed dangers of a "legislative dictatorship."

The loss was the fourth in five special congressional elections this year by the GOP.

Ford, whose "safe" seat in the western Mchigan 5th District fell to a Democrat earlier this year, said in Palm Springs, Calif., that Traxler's victory was a bad omen.

"The trend as I see it," he told a CBS interviewer, "is for the Democrats to end up potentially with an overwhelming majority which leads to further legislative dictatorship and I don't think that is good for the country."

This election caught national attention because Nixon chose to enter it directly and personally in his first such political foray since Watergate. He spent five hours campaigning for Sparling one week ago.

This, in turn, intensified Traxler's allegations that the President was a crucial issue — a point he emphasized in his victory speech.

Lt. Gov. James H. Brickley, a Republican who once called for Nixon's resignation, agreed that Watergate was an issue and that the 8th District campaign was a referendum on the President.

"We have a crippled President," he said. "People don't feel they have a president and this is caused by the effects of Watergate."

But he said he believed the send a-message-to-Washington theme of Democrats is wearing thin.

Gov. William G. Milliken did not comment directly but told newsmen it was a complicated race that requires further study. GOP state chairman William McLaughlin said he could not understand what happened in the district, which last elected a Democrat in 1932.

Russian long-range missiles: perilous new factor in Mideast

LONDON (UPI) — Russia has agreed to supply new advanced weapons, including long-range missiles to Syria in a move to recapture its lost influence in the Middle East, according to Moscow reports. Western defense experts said the consequences could be extremely serious.

Russian spokesmen indicated Moscow has removed curbs on their use as had been Moscow's policy in the past.

This new escalation on the part of the Kremlin has emerged from its latest deal with Syria and is said to provide for the supply of long range missiles and the latest-type supersonic Mig 23 or Mig 25 jets for possible use against Israel.

The move underscores Moscow's determination to entrench itself in the Middle East at all cost and to use the all-out backing of a Syrian hard line against Israel to enhance the Soviet role in any final Middle East settlement.

Western defense experts view the latest developments with considerable anxiety because they appear to reflect the Kremlin's determination to go to almost any length to secure its hard-won foothold and weaken America's influence in the area. Some have expressed serious doubt of Russia's interest in a final settlement of the Middle East conflict because it might erode Russia's influence in an essentially anti-Communist Arab world.

The Russian line is clear: Soviet arms have been the key factor in Moscow's strategy for influence in the region ever since it first decided in 1956 to begin supplying arms to Egypt through its ally, Czechoslovakia.

Even though Russo-Egyptian relations were severely strained after the expulsion of the Soviet military experts in 1972, Moscow supplied fresh arms to Cairo during and after the October war, evidently to ensure an active role in future developments.

Western defense experts say the advent of long range missiles in the Middle East introduces a dangerous new element of unpredictable proportions.

Chino council urges county action on equestrian trails

CHINO — The City Council Tuesday night urged San Bernardino County to move forward with development of a regional network of equestrian trails to serve the many residents here who own horses.

Officials propose to connect the valley, mountain and desert areas with a series of these trails.

In a report to the council, the city staff said it had met with regional park officials and "it appears this project has a rather low priority.

"With the large amount of equestrian activity taking place both within the city and adjacent county areas, it would be a benefit to all concerned to have this project moved ahead as rapidly as possible," the staff suggested.

The City Council directed the mayor to send a letter to the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors indicating the importance of the project and urging it be completed at the earliest possible date.

Such a letter, however, may be delayed until after the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) conducts its regular meeting. That group of elected city and county officials have been involved in the proposed project.

In other matters, the City Council:

—Endorsed state Proposition 1, a $250 million parks and recreation bond.

—Proclaimed May 1-5 as Mexican American Week which will commemorate contributions of the Mexican-American people to society.

—Proclaimed April 22-28 as Western Week for the annual Chino Rancho Ride.

—Directed a call be given for bids to reroof the city hall. The city's budget includes $4,700 for this expenditure.

Innocent of rape, but did 14 years

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI)—The Florida House voted Tuesday to pay M. Pearl Eisentrager $8,000 for the 14 years her son served in prison for a rape he did not commit.

On Monday, the House had voted to pay her son, Jesse D. Daniels, $75,000 for his incarceration.

Ehrlichman disenchanted with Nixon, to make deal?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Ehrlichman is disenchanted with President Nixon, feels Nixon's effectiveness is ended, and is angry at H. R. Haldeman for not telling him that even their talks with Nixon were tape recorded, a news source reported today.

Ehrlichman may be ready to make a deal with the Watergate special prosecutor, the source said.

The source quoted associates, neighbors and close friends of Ehrlichman. The newspaper said Ehrlichman would not comment.

"Ehrlichman is said to have confided that he resigned his White House post last year after reaching what he thought was an understanding that Mr. Nixon would follow up Ehrlichman's and Haldeman's resignations with a complete statement and admission of everything that he knew about the Watergate case and its handling," the source said in a report from Seattle, where Ehrlichman now lives.

"Not only is Ehrlichman reported by friends here to be extremely disappointed with what he views as Mr. Nixon's failure to follow through with such a statement, but he has also told them he was shocked and surprised by the revelation of the existence of tape recordings of White House conversations.

"Ehrlichman is said to have told friends that he resents that Haldeman never told him of the existence of the tapes."

Ehrlichman feels that while Nixon is not getting the credit due him for some achievements, particularly in foreign policy "his effectiveness as a President has ended," it was reported.

The report said most of those who know Ehrlichman, or have dealt with him recently, feel that he is set against making a deal with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, under which he would plead guilty to a lesser charge and be available as a witness for the prosecution.

According to the source, Ehrlichman "gave serious consideration in February to accepting a written Jaworski offer" to plead guilty to one reduced count in the Ellsburg burglary. He reportedly decided not to because he feels strongly that he did no wrong in that incident.

But if Jaworski offers Ehrlichman a chance to "plead guilty to a lesser charge in the Watergate coverup . . . Ehrlichman might well agree to settle," the source quoted the Ehrlichman associate as saying.

Calley eligible for parole in 6 months as sentence reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although there's "no reasonable doubt" that Lt. William L. Calley murdered at least 22 Vietnamese civilians in the massacre at My Lai, the Secretary of the Army has cut his sentence in half —from 20 to 10 years.

The case is now before President Nixon for review.

It never was determined exactly how many civilians died at My Lai. Estimates were between 300 and 400 and ranged as high as 500.

Calley was accused of either personally killing or directing the killing of 102 civilians, and a six-man court-martial board found him responsible for "at least" 22 of the deaths.

"There is no reasonable doubt in my mind that he perpetrated the act for which he stands convicted," Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway said Tuesday.

But he reduced the sentence, an Army spokesman explained, on the basis of an opinion by a military clemency board that the 30-year-old officer has been a well-behaved prisoner with a reasonable prospect for rehabilitation.

The action makes Calley eligible for parole in six months.

(At Ft. Benning, Kenneth Henson, an attorney for Lt. Calley said, "I think that the sentence should bave been reversed and Lt. Calley totally and completely exonerated. We are greatly disappointed that the secretary of the Army confirmed his sentence and conviction, although remitting the sentence to 10 years."

(Henson said that Calley's personal reaction to Callaway's action was that he was "disappointed and a little upset, but grateful." He said he would continue to appeal the case until Calley is fully exonerated.)

President Nixon said nearly three years ago he would personally review the Calley case when military reviews were finished. The Pentagon sent the case documents to the White House Tuesday.

Cllaway said in a statement:

"These acts of murder and assault against unarmed civilians are so abhorrent to those who accept the fundamental legal and moral basis for this republic that they cannot be condoned or forgotten."

He said that while there were "mitigating circumstances" indicating Calley might have sincerely thought he was only following orders, he agreed with the courts that Calley should have known any such order would have been illegal.

Kahane quits as head of JDL

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Rabbi Meir Kahane resigned today as head of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL), an organization he founded in New York City, saying it cannot succeed because its bold actions frighten the Jewish community.

"With deep regret and after careful and long consideration, I announce my retirement from the JDL," he said in a written statement. He said he will run a new center for Jewish consciousness, the Jewish Identity Center.

"Never was there a greater need for a thing like JDL, and because of this I leave the organization of that name," the Brooklyn-born rabbi said.

McGovern to run

MITCHELL, S.D. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, the unsuccessful 1972 Democratic presidential candidate, Tuesday returned to his hometown of Mitchell to announce that he is seeking a third, six-year term in the U.S. Senate.

McGovern, 51, who is unopposed in the June 4 primary, said he would stand on his record as a senator and rejected arguments that he no longer represents the majority of South Dakotans.

McGovern told a news conference in Mitchell, "While it is easy to be angry at government, we know that government will not go away. So the real question is not how angry we are at what is wrong, but how can we set things right."

Birthday for Hope

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope will have a hometown celebration here for his 71st birthday May 29.

The national USO will salute Hope and his work with American servicemen overseas at the birthday party at the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel.

John Wooden Ave.?

PLACENTIA, Calif. (UPI) — Placentia city administrator Ed Powell wants the city fathers of this small Orange County community to name a street after UCLA basketball coach John Wooden.

Bob Boyd, the University of Southern California coach, has lived here since last June.

"They'll probably want me to cut the ribbon," said Boyd.

Trial for fighter

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Former featherweight contender Frankie Crawford will go on trial in Superior Court June 4 on charges he used threats to attempt to collect an alleged debt from actor Robert Conrad.

Crawford, who is free on $1,500 bond, was arrested at his home in Burbank, Calif., Jan. 22. He pleaded innocent Monday.

He is accused of using the telephone to threaten Conrad with "underworld characters" to collect $7,000. Conrad, the star of the TV series "The D.A." and "Wild, Wild West," has denied owing the money.

Conrad reportedly told police Crawford called his home and mid-January and demanded payment of the alleged debt.

Crawford has a pro record of 39-15-5 with 18 knockouts. He fought for the world title in 1970 and 1971 and lost both matches.

Ex-POW will run

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bernard Talley Jr., a prison of war in Vietnam for seven years, announced Tuesday that he is preparing to run as an independent this fall against Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., in an attempt to fulfill a prison camp dream.

"I was a supporter of the war, but I used to think how I'd run it if I was in charge," Talley, who said he thought of running for public office while he was a POW, said. "I think I would have been home seven years sooner if they did it my way."

In order to get his name on the ballot, he will need to collect 55,000 signatures on petitions.

Talley, a 35-year-old ex-Air Force pilot, said he has few qualifications to run for public office except that he is honest and is a dedicated American.

Literary award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vladmir Nabokov, author of "Lolita,""Pnin," "Pale Fire" and other works of fiction was named this year's recipient of the National Book Committee's National Medal of Literature, committee officials announced today.

The award, a bronze medallion and $10,000, is given each year by the committee to "a living American writer for the excellence of his or her total contribution to the world of letters."

Council delays action on 2nd OMS concert

ONTARIO — After extensive discussion on the possibility of a second rock concert at the Ontario Motor Speedway, the City Council voted to adjourn its meeting Tuesday to a meeting on April 25 when members will receive a more complete report on the April 6 "California Jam."

The adjourned meeting on April 25 at 7 p.m. will be adjourned immediately to a personnel session in which a report on the "California Jam" will be made by Ontario Police Chief Lee Kolbreck.

Council members indicated they could not make a decision Tuesday on whether to allow future concerts at the speedway without a full report on the previous concerts.

A petition against the concerts with 13 names signed to it had been filed with the city clerk's office prior to the Tuesday meeting. No further petitions were presented at the meeting and no residents in the audience spoke on the speedway matter.

Trial ordered in death of man in Valley field

SAN DIMAS — An 18-year-old who reportedly admitted killing his brother accidentally and then setting him on fire to prevent officers from identifying him was bound over for trial in Compton Municipal Court Tuesday after a preliminary hearing.

Ronald Alex of Compton will be arraigned in Los Angeles Superior Court on the murder charge April 29, but Deputy Dist. Atty. Ronald Abrams said the charge may be reduced to a lesser included offense.

Sheriff's deputies testified Tuesday that Alex admitted killing his brother, Charles, 26, but contended it was an accident.

According to the testimony, Ronald and Charles were examining a handgun at their Compton home, when it went off in Ronald's hand. The bullet struck Charles in the ear, killing him almost instantly.

Ronald then panicked, deputies quoted him as saying. He stuffed his brother's body into the trunk of his car, drove to an abandoned field in San Dimas and set him on fire with gasoline, according to the testimony.

Chino taxpayers facing 84-cent hike for 1974-75

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — The first preliminary draft of a $10.5 million budget was presented to the Chino school board Tuesday night, projecting a tax rate increase of about 74 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Adding the 10-cent community services tax, which the board has previously indicated would probably be levied in the 1974-75 fiscal year, Chino property owners will pay approximately $4.43 per $100 of assessed valuation the school district. The tax rate for the current year was $3.59.

There was some good news for local property owners, however, as Al Searfoss, assisting superintendent, predicted the tax rate would drop back to the present level for fiscal year 1975-76.

The estimates used to prepare the first draft of the budget, said Searfoss, included a 7.4 per cent growth in assessed valuation and a 3 per cent growth in district enrollment.

The current budget totals $9,654,528 with the new budget projected at $10,556,969, for an increase of $902,441. Much of the growth is attributable to an 8.5 per cent cost of living adjustment for all certified and classified employes.

Most of the added burden on the local property taxpayer, Searfoss explained, is due to the district's conversion to the year-round school program.

Because of the staggered enrollment under the year-round program, the district has suffered a temporary decline in average daily attendance (ADA), which is the base figure used by the state in computing state support to the district.

As the ADA figure increases with a full cycle under the year-round program, income from the state will rise. It was on this basis that Searfoss predicted that the local tax rate would drop next year.

Anger over the district's decision to implement the year-round program at all schools, except Chino High School, surfaced again as Rudy Gomez, chairman of the district Certificated Employes Council (CEC), stated that the board and administration were disregarding earlier agreements with the CEC.

It is the CEC's contention, explained Gomez, that Supt. Royce Lapp agreed in June of 1973 that only those schools where overcrowding occurred would go onto the year-round program at the end of this year.

Because the district is now changing that Policy, Gomez continued, many teachers are faced with insufficient time to revise lesson guides and plans to meet the year-round schedule.

"Frankly, we feel that this was their intention all the time," said Gomez. "We wish that they had been more open and honest with us from the beginning."

Gomez said that the CEC would continue to look at the matter, but did not indicate whether further action will be taken.

In other business, the board:

—Accepted a bid of $91,433 from IBM for data processing services to the district. According to Lapp, the services will save the district some $45,000 in salary costs while providing the district with increased efficiency at administrative levels. The vote to accept the bid was 3 to 1, with board Member Al McCombs dissenting and Pete Vander Poel absent.

McCombs said that he could not justify the added expense to the district based on the figures provided the board.

—Approved the purchase of 10 quonset huts to be used as storage space at various sites in the district. Total cost will be $9,500.

Plan to build new prisons is set aside

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Reagan administration proposal to build two new prisons has been set aside indefinitely by an Assembly subcommittee following opposition from prisoners' groups.

Spokesman for the inmates' groups argued the new prisons would perpetuate the existing state penal system which they deplore. They asked that no new prisons be constructed at least until Gov. Ronald Reagan leaves office.

The administration last month dropped plans for a remodeling of San Quentin's notorious south block and revived its $140 million proposal to build two new prisons to replace San Quentin which would be closed.

If the legislature approves the plan, institutions of 2,400 convicts would be built near San Diego and Vacaville. They would be ready for occupancy late in 1978.

After two hours of testimony, the Assembly Ways and Means budget subcommittee shelved the administration plan for $1.1 million in planning funds with no indication when it might be considered again.

"It is criminal if we don't get some action from the legislature as soon as possible," said Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections.

"San Quentin is an impossible place in which to live," he said. "I'd close it down tomorrow but I have no place to put them (prisoners)."

But Assemblyman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, one of the three subcommittee members, responded: "I'm not going to give you a single penny until you spell out your program."

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, added: "This plan perpetuates what we have been doing in the past which has been a total failure."

Frank Smith, a psychologist connected with the Prisoners, Union, said he was "skeptical" that San Quentin ever would be closed, but felt it would continue to be used along with the two new prisons.

"I don't know of any state prison that has been dismantled," he added.

Smith blamed the recent rise in prison population on the Reagan administration's new "get tough policy" on paroles, and added: "It would be a grievous error to saddle the next governor with two $70 million white elephants" that would not be needed if parole policies are relaxed.

Salle S. Saoladay, a San Rafael attorney who represents prisoners, said the administration proposal put inmates in a dilemma: They don't like conditions at San Quention but they do not want to perpetuate the system by erecting outmoded prisons.

"This locks us into this terrible system for how long — another 100 years?" she said.

"I think it would be better to wait for [illegible] administration and [illegible] we can come up wi[illegible] prison system.

Education's end to sex barrier OK'd

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation aimed at eliminating sex barriers from California education requirements has won narrow approval from the Assembly.

The bill (SB1466) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, approved Monday on a 41-19 vote, the minimum needed, and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Under the measure, if students of one sex were required to take certain classes in public schools, the same requirement would be imposed on students of the other sex.

For example, if boys were required to take wood shop, girls would be forced to take the course. And if girls were required to take a homemaking course, it also would be required of boys.

The exception would be in physical education classes. If a boy was required to take baseball, for example, then girls would be given the option to take the class—but not required to.

Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales, D-Bakersfield, floor sponsor of the bill, said the measure may encourage schools to reduce the number of required courses.

Hormone can double IQ of newborns?

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — A team of South African doctors have injected an expectant mother with experimental hormones which they say could double the I.Q. of babies and revolutionize the science of obstetrics.

"The hormone helps placenta efficiency in the last four weeks of pregnancy when the baby's brain cells develop," said Dr. Peter Baillie, head of the obstetrics department at Cape Town's Groote Schuur hospital where Dr. Christiaan Barnard pioneered heart transplants.

The hormone —human chronionic gonadtrophin (HCG) —in the past has been used to determine pregnancy and in slimming experiments.

He and a team of three administered HCG to Susan Rosenkowitz before she gave birth to sextuplets in January. All the infants survived.

"Because the placenta was in any case overworked, her babies will not be superintelligent, but they should be of normal intelligence, which is unusual in multiple-birth cases," Baillie said.

Keep firm grip

When climbing an extension ladder —or descending — maintain a firm grip at all times and step on the center of the rungs. Use both hands, and climb hand-over-hand, grasping the steps or rungs. Never grasp the side rails for climbing purposes.

Caution for overbidders

By Oswald & James Jacoby

As we have said many times, "If you want to overbid you should learn to play the dummy well."

South's jump to four spades was a slight overbid. It should have been apparent to him that the ace of clubs would be right in back of his king.

Still South should have made his contract barring a really impossible defense. That impossible defense, would start with West leading his eight of hearts. East would win and return a club. West would take two club tricks and lead a third club. East would ruff with the 10 of trumps and there would be no way for South to avoid the loss of a trump.

West did open the ace of hearts and continue. South ruffed and indulged in the luxury of playing his ace of spades. Then he led a diamond to dummy's king; a second diamond back to his ace and a third diamond to be ruffed low in dummy. Then he cashed dummy's king of trumps and led a club. East played the nine. South's king lost to the ace and West led back a low club to East's jack. East played a third heart and the hand collapsed.

South had three lines of play to make the hand. The simple one was to leave trumps entirely alone until after three rounds of diamonds. The other two are quite complicated. We will explain them to any reader who sends us a stamped addressed envelope.

To kiss or not to kiss

By JEAN ADMAS

KISS HER?: (Q.) I am 17 years old and go with a very mature girl of 14. She says she likes me a lot, but I'm not sure. I like her a lot, and am dying to kiss her. But because I'm not sure of her feelings toward me I can't get up enough nerve.

Should I ask her first, or just go right ahead and kiss her, taking my chances? —Uncertain in New Jersey

(A.) If a male desires to kiss a female and if the circumstances are proper and conducive to this, he should kiss her, not talk about it.

COOL AT SCHOOL: (Q) Carl often comes over and we watch TV and hold hands. Then when he has to go he gives me a goodnight kiss.

But he never speaks to me in school or even acknowledges that we are friends.

What I want to know is should I drop my thoughs of him or should I give him time? —14 in Connecticut

(A.) Give him time.

He is probably very shy at school and feels more comfortable with you when the two of you are alone.

You should not hold this against him.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. All letters are read and considered but, because of the great number received, Jean Admas cannot send personal answers.)

Lion's teeth grow wild

The dandelion got its name from the fact that the jagged edges of its leaves were said to resemble the teeth of the lion. Dandelion is an English corruption of the French "dent de lion", lion's tooth.

THE EASY WAY TO SELECT INVESTMENTS

Top Investment Advisers don't talk to people with less than $20,000 in their hands. I didn't have that much extra money. So, I had to advise myself, which meant months of research. Then, I invented an INVESTMENT SELECTOR that would help everybody select the investment best suited to their needs. I did it, and it works! Now, I've printed it up, and I'm offering it for sale on a "money-back-if-you-don't-like-it" basis. Just 11 pages long, it only costs $4.00 (36c a page). Almanac

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, April 17, the 107th day of 1974 with 258 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American financier J. P. Morgan was born April 17, 1837.

On this day in history:

In 1917, New York Sen. William Calder introduced a bill establishing Daylight Saving Time. It was defeated.

In 1961, a force of anti-Castro Cuban rebels began what was to end as the ill-fated "Bay of Pigs" incident.

In 1964, Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, became the first woman to make a solo flight around the world.

A thought for the day: American humorist Mark Twain said, "Work consists of whatever a body is obliged to do. Play consists of what a body is not obliged to do."

Living sardine doesn't exist

There is no such thing as a living sardine. The sardine, named for Sardinia in the Mediterranean where the fish were first caught and packed, is really the cured and preserved young of a species of pilchard.

At Wit's End

No friends without I.D.

By ERMA BOMBECK

When you stop to think about it, most of us go through our lives proving we are who we say we are.

When you cash a check, make a purchase, pay a bill, claim a letter, order a drink, withdraw money or borrow a book, you have to come up with the proper I.D. On a given day, I whip those I.D.s in and out of my billfold so much I have credit card burns on my hands.

Sometimes I get the feeling if American Express doesn't have you on record, you never were.

Granted, we're stuck with all this red tape because more than a few dishonest people ruin it for everyone else, but the absurdity of check cashing can best be illustrated by a story of a local columnist whom I will call Ralph Rakemucker.

Ralph was a legend in his own city. There wasn't a day that his column wasn't read by men, savored by women and quoted on the airways.

One day he went into a department store and was mobbed by clerks and customers alike. They ripped out blank checks and crumpled Kleenex for him to autograph. They touched his sweater and yelled into his ear, "My favorite column is . . . "

Finally, a sales clerk rescued him and shoved him behind a cash register where she proceeded to ask him about his wife, Marie, (whom he mentioned frequently in his column) and to tell him she pasted him daily on her refrigerator for the family to read.

The columnist smiled indulgently, thanked her, and made out a check for his purchase. The saleswoman stiffened into a stranger and said, "I'll have to call my supervisor. Do you have two I.D.'s?"

I have had to produce proof of my birth to enter school, get married, have babies, get a job and leave the country.

I wouldn't be surprised if, after death, a gatekeeper somewhere met me and asked, "May I see your driver's license and an accredited credit card? Is the address on this card correct? Have you ever been arrested for a felony or been dishonorably discharged from the Army? Do you have a budget, deferred or regular account with us? Would you stand over here in front of this camera and hold your card directly under your face? Last week, we had a person slip in who couldn't prove he was born."

If you think that sounds silly, a woman came up to me in an airport and asked, "Are you who I think you are?"

"I'm Erma Bombeck," I said.

"Are you sure?" she asked her eyes narrowing.

"Trust me," I whispered.

Rosenberg case exhibits missing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Several key exhibits from the government's case against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are missing, according to a suit filed in federal court.

The exhibits were found to be missing when attorneys for Morton Sobell, a co-defendant of the Rosenbergs in the 1951 atom secrets trial, sought the material for an attempt to overturn his conviction.

The Rosenbergs were executed in the electric chair in 1953 on conviction of heading a spy ring which conspired to give the atom bomb secrets to the Soviet Union. Sobell, who served almost 18 years of a 30-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction, is now a medical electronics engineer required to report to the U.S. Board of Parole until 1981.

Burt Neuborne of the American Civil Liberties Union, lawyer for Sobell, said in the suit that government lawyers told him last month that 10 exhibits he sought "could not be found."

Getting insurance action is like pulling teeth

My wife is in dire need of dental treatment.

I am employed in a company that has dental insurance in its benefit package.

My wife made her initial visit to the dentist's office more than three months ago. She had the usual examination including X-rays and paid for her visit.

She was then told by the nurse that she would have to wait for the insurance company, in San Francisco, to approve the paper work for continuation of treatment.

The doctor's office has called twice apologizing for the delay. She mentioned that she has continuous long wait problems with applicants from the insurance company in San Francisco.

Can you assist me in understanding this inconsiderate, inefficient performance?—R. R., Montclair.

We wrote to the insurance company. A few days later we receive a memo that your claim had been authorized and returned to the dentist's office for signatures and dates of service.

We checked with the dentist's secretary, who said she had not received the papers from San Francisco.

Our second letter to the insurance company brought copies of papers marked "in lieu of lost original." They were mailed to us instead of to the dentist and we mailed them to him.

You announced your intention of calling the dentist to make appointments for your wife's treatment.

I am a cat fancier and wish to know if there is an all-breed cat club in the Pomona Valley area.

We could find no club closer than the Hacienda Cat Club. A member who lives in Hacienda Heights told us that membership is by invitation.

She offered to tell you more about the organization and also urged that you attend the next large cat show and talk with breeders.

A cat show will be held April 27 and 28 at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, 270 E. Seaside, Long Beach.

I am writing in regard to my Social Security benefits and a burial payment.

My husband passed away last October. All I have received each month since then is $92.80.

I reported his death a week after it occurred and have called, written and visited the Social Security office several times since then.

First I received a short statement to the effect that my claim was being expedited.

Then a man at the office told me that increased payment should begin in about two weeks. It did not.

The next person I talked with gave me an approximate date when I should get my money. I called yesterday two different times. The second time I was told a wire had been sent to the payment center in San Francisco.

I asked about how long I would have to wait. The answer was 10 days. I decided to go ahead and write to Action Line as I had intended.—Mrs. L.W., Pomona.

The people at the Social Security office told us that your case had been classified as critical two days before you wrote to us.

You received a check for $844.50, representing the retroactive increased payment and the burial fund, 25 days after the date of your letter to Action Line.

Board deadlocked 2 to 2

Two principal reassignments fail

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Efforts of administrators to reassign two elementary school principals failed Tuesday night.

School board members voted twice on the matter, once on a motion by Roy Day to reject the recommendation and again on a motion by Don Donnelly to approve the recommendation.

Each time the vote was 2-2, resulting in no action.

The result is that Bruce Shyer remains principal at Madison School and Rudolfo S. Flores remains principal at Westmont School.

Eight persons addressed the board, each asking that the principals not be reassigned.

"The last four years we've had darn good leadership at Westmont," said Mrs. Nellie Crockett. "We have a good program. Under the circumstances, it would be disastrous to our community to move our principal at this time."

Joyce Lewke of Madison School presented 150 letters from Madison families asking that Shyer not be moved. Sally Harnruff of Westmont asked the school board, "Do you want to cause a divorce in our school family? That is what would happen if you take Mr. Flores out of Westmont. Help us keep our family together. We don't want Westmont added to the list of statistics on divorce."

Westmont teacher Mary Ann Kingsbury said the Westmont teachers and staff are 100 per cent behind Flores. Jeannette Mulligan described Flores as an outstanding principal.

"Please don't move Mr. Shyer. We need him at Madison," pleaded Julia Thomas. Melvin Thomas said to take Shyer from Madison where he has had eight years experience in the Comp Ed program would be unrealistic and uneconomical.

Dolores Lopez, Westmont liaision, presented petitions bearing 222 signatures asking that Flores not be reassigned. "Transferring principals leads to more parents fleeing Pomona," she said.

"I've listened and looked at faces, and I cannot in good conscience go along with this recommendation," said Day. His motion to reject the proposal was seconded by Ken Pine. "I cannot go along with it either," said Pine.

Board chairman James Bell asked for a roll call vote. Day and Pine voted to reject; Bell and Donnelly voted to approve the recommendation. Board member Philip S. Wessels was absent.

Then Donnelly, remarking that the board hired a chief executive to run the district as a professional and to make recommendations best for the total district not individual schools, made the motion to approve the reassignment. It was seconded by Bell.

Another 2-2 vote followed.

"Does this mean we keep our principals?" asked a woman from the floor.

"Yes," said Bell. There was loud applause from the capacity audience.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of personnel services, has recommended that Shyer be transferred from Madison to Golden Springs School in Diamond Bar to succeed Willard Weiser who is retiring the end of this school year, and that Flores be moved from Westmont to Madison. The moves were to have become effective July 1.

Strong optimism for steel industry cited by executive

POMONA — Citing strong gains in capital spending and employment, a top executive of the nation's second-largest steel producer expressed strong optimism for both the nation's economy and the future of the American steel industry in remarks here before members of the Los Angeles chapter of the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers.

"Id have to go back more than a dozen years to recall a time when I've been as optimistic about prospects for our industry," C. Thompson Stott, senior vice president, steel operations, Bethlehem Steel Corp., said at Monday's meeting at Orlando's restaurant.

The overriding reason for his optimism, Stott said, is that "the demand is there. I don't mean just for the first half — I mean for the whole year. And there's no end in sight."

Stott's optimism is based on a series of important "ifs," including: imports which must be kept at reasonable levels; soaring costs of raw materlas that must be slowed; and necessary price reliefs for the steel industry.

In spite of the "ifs" Stott said there are "powerful indications that the financial community and the academic community and members of Congress are suddenly very interested in the steel industry. What's even more important is that they're willing to listen to us."

Fremont classes seek employment

POMONA — The Career Planning classes at Fremont Junior High School are beginning an employment agency titled "The Fremont Youth Employment Agency."

The students will perform such tasks as baby-sitting, cleaning house, cutting grass, weeding, raking leaves and washing cars after school and on weekends.

Anyone interested in employing a student is asked to call Larry Rubin or Mrs. Mildred Taylor at 623-5251, extension 389. They teach the classes which are initiating the agency.

Principal Rafael Estupinian is hoping the community can respond "with meaningful experiences for the students. Remember," he said, "The young people of today will be the citizens and leaders of tomorrow. We need your help. We hope you need ours."

Library records: you fill in blank spots

ONTARIO — "Music Minus One" recordings, new at the Ontario City Library, allow the listener to participate in the music as a member of the band or orchestra.

The recordings have one part of a musical selection missing to permit the listener to fill in the missing part.

In addition, the library also has new recordings with musical accompaniment for those wishing to sing or to play the guitar.

The recordings may be reserved by calling 984-2758, extension 32.

Abandoned houses a symptom Demo candidate claims

POMONA — Congressional candidate Robert Stafford told members of the Northeast Side Enterprise here that "abandoned housing is a symptom" and his real concern is the people who have left the houses because of the loss of jobs.

Stafford, Claremont attorney seeking the Democratic nomination in the 35th Congressional District, said the solutions to the situation are the Urban Homestead Act, buyer counseling and the new sales plans.

Members of the Northeast Side Enterprise, a nonprofit, self-help corporation in Pomona, complained to Stafford at the meeting that their "frustrations grow when neither city hall nor the federal government will listen to their problems."

Mrs. Byrdie Reddick, president of the organization, said large-scale city projects have been accomplished while residential area problems have been ignored.

"The people feel they have a low priority at city hall," she said.

MSAC marks 28th year with its first open house

WALNUT — The story of Mt. San Antonio College has been 28 years in the making. But since the college opened in 1946, there's never been an opportunity for the public to see the full scope of the college's facilities and programs.

This Sunday, all that will change as the entire faculty, staff and hundreds of students will be on hand to welcome visitors for the college's first open house from 1 to 5 p.m.

Visitors on "MSAC Day" will be able to see the well-equipped Study Skills Center, watch instructional closed circuit television, and visit with the staff and counselors in the Career information and Guidance Center and the Center of the Handicapped, all in the college's library.

Drama students will put on playlets to delight younger community residents, and some of the children will be the subjects for MSAC make-up artists as they turn young, smiling faces into colorful clowns.

Computers and office machines will be demonstrated all afternoon, as will ceramics, lithography, batik and other art methods.

The Mini-Mountie Nursery School will present a slide show on training techiniques for nursery school teachers and administrators.

And home economics department Personnel will explain the metric system, which is scheduled to be adopted nationwide in the early 1980s. Metric sticks (39.37 inches) will be give to visitors so they can begin learning and using the system.

A complete program, listing times and room numbers, will be distributed to each campus visitor during open house.

Aeronautics and transportation will feature a slide show of last year's Classroom in the Sky flight, "Around the World in Fourteen Days," as well as demonstrations of the flight training simulators, instructional television used for instrument flight training, and air traffic control procedures.

Ceramics, sculpture, design, graphics, batik, printmaking and advertising students will present continuous demonstrations in the college's new art center. The Art Gallery exhibition, "Word Works," will be open featuring more than 60 paintings and drawings, all using works within the art work. The exhibition includes art work by internationally known artists such as Andy Warhol and Ed Keinholz, and new, young talent such as Lyn Horton and Walt Gabrielson.

Physical science faculty and staff will demonstrate photography methods in the darkroom lab while visitors actually watch the prints develop, and a special raw egg drop from the roof of the building onto four inches of foam rubber will demonstrate energy absorption and impulse. Visitors are also invited to bring their unknown rocks, minerals and maps for identification by geology faculty.

Welding lab students will torch cut and weld various metals, and display their metal art works in copper, brass and steel.

Color television, high voltage and ultrasonic burglar alarm electronics will be demonstrated on the Technology Center's fourth floor, and machine tool procedures and airframe and powerplant demonstrations will be given in the center's fully operational laboratory shop on the main floor.

Lawn concerts will be presented in front of the Music Building featuring the band, under the direction of David Wiggins, at 1 p.m.; the chorale, under the direction of Hayden Blanchard, at 2:30 p.m.; and jazz, under the direction of Ralph Tancredi, at 4 p.m. Demonstrations of the electronic piano and quadraphonic sound will run continuously in the department's choir and band rooms.

Slide presentations will be given periodically in modern language, history, public safety and services departments, and the film, "Future Shock," will be shown in the psychology department.

All areas of the college have been preparing presentations and setting schedules for months to show community residents just what the college has to offer each one—not just the recent high school grad, or the person upgrading in one of the many evening division classes—but residents of all ages.

As a special feature, an 85-foot hot air balloon will be on display all afternoon manned by owner-pilot Fred Krieg. Krieg, a multi-rated senior pilot with United Air Lines, and his crew will demonstrate the assembly, inflation and ascension of hot air balloons, and explain some of the theories of flight to visitors of Open House. The tethered balloon will be on the athletic field at the corner of Temple and Grand Avenues from 1 to 5 p.m.

Ray Bradbury, science fiction writer and playwright, will open the afternoon programs with informal discussion on "Creative Writing" in the Social Science Center lecture hall at 1 p.m.

Visitors will also have an opportunity to meet Bradbury during an autograph party in the college's book store following his talk.

Tours will be guided through the 10-acre Wildlife Sanctuary all afternoon and the many units of the college farm.

General education termed essential

That's the opinion of Claremont University Center Chancellor Howard R. Bowen, who challenges the doctrine that every high school graduate should have a marketable skill.

In a paper delivered before a meeting of the American Educational Research Association today in Chicago, Bowen questioned the doctrine's underlying assumption that employment should be automatically increased.

"Employment is determined more largely by aggregate demand based on the decisions of investors and consumers, and by governmental monetary and fiscal policy, than it is by the distribution of the skills of workers," he noted.

Employers are very good at training unskilled workers, when there is a need, and can probably do so far more effectively than a high school, he said. Where the need for additional manpower does not exist, vocationally trained graduates might simply displace other workers.

The skills most important for being productive on a job, in Bowen's view, "are those derived from general education, namely the ability to read; to write clearly; to converse coherently; to calculate; to know something of history; geography, literature, science and public affairs."

The personal qualities, in part similarly derived, include self-discipline, persistence, self-confidence, initiatve, the ability to function in interpersonal relations, high standards of personal conduct and posseession of moral and religious insights.

Emphasis on vocational training would short-change general education and deprive vast numbers of students of the chance to develop these "skills" which provide the foundation for good careers, responsible citizenship and well-rounded lives, Bowen stated.

"I would rather take a chance on some congestion in the labor market for youth than to cut back on general education. I believe that in the long run general education will have higher returns on both employment and income than vocational education."

EDITORIAL Opinion

Hardly the greatest show on earth

Of all the arguments that have been offered in favor of President Nixon's resignation rather than his impeachment, the one with the most doubtful merit is the one that holds that the President's trial by the Senate of the United States would be too circuslike, too unruly, too inflamatory of popular passions — simply too much for America to endure.

No one has yet topped the picture painted by New York Conservative Republican Sen. James L. Buckley, who used these words in his recent impassioned appeal to the President to resign to spare the nation the spectacle of an impeachment trial:

"The ruler of the mightiest nation on earth would be starred as the prisoner in the dock. The chamber would become a 20th-century Roman Coliseum as the performers are thrown to the electronic lions. The most sordid dregs dug up by the Watergate miners would inflame the passions of the domestic audience and provoke the guffaws, prurient curiosity or amazement of the outside world."

Very colorful. An X-rated impeachment, no less. Maybe the Supreme Court would have to ban it because of all that prurient interest.

But to get back to reality. If it comes to Richard Nixon's impeachment by the House of representatives and his subsequent trial by the Senate, the President will be nowhere near Capitol Hill during those fateful deliberations. His presence is not required by law, nor would good defense tactics require it.

Far from being a "prisoner in the dock," more likely than not Mr. Nixon would be commanding almost nightly appearances before the American people on prime time television, reciting his administration's accomplishments and telling of his plans for America and the peace of the world, in a last-ditch attempt to win friends who might write letters or send telegrams to influence senators.

That is the real television spectacular that the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon would occasion.

Speaking of television, Buckley and others seem to assume (1) that the all-seeing electronic eye will be present during the trial, which is assuming quite a bit at this stage and (2) that its presence must necessarily and inevitably be baneful.

Even if the worst of Buckley's nightmare became reality and 100 gladiators — er, senators — fell all over themselves trying to upstage each other on camera and entertain the folks back home by spearing a Christian — oops, witness — or two, what would this say about the intelligence of the American people if they tolerated it? More accurately, what does it say about Buckley's estimate of the intelligence of the American people (not to mention that of his colleagues)?

The "Nervous Nellies," as Lyndon Johnson would have called them, can conjure up all kinds of frightening impeachment scenarios. What would really happen, however, has been stated calmly and matter-of-factly by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana:

"If and when the issue comes to the Senate, there will be as little partisanship as possible and, as far as I am concerned, there will be none. The Senate itself will be on trial. . .There will be no circus. There will be nothing in the way of hanky panky because I anticipate every senator will act with the greatest dignity and circumspection. There will be no hamming by any part of this body."

Or to borrow Nelson's words at Trafalgar: Should it befall the 93rd senate of the United States to be called upon to sit in solemn judgment of the 37th president as provided for in the Constitution of the United States, America expects every man to do his duty.

Nothing more and nothing less.

About weather

Man has been taking a lot of criticism for polluting his environment, especially the atmosphere. But he may not be such a villain after all.

That, at least, is the contention of a University of Virginia professor of environmental science, Dr. Fred Singer. Singer's thesis is that until persuasive new evidence comes to light there is no basis for claiming that man's activities are responsible for air pollution and have influenced the world's climate.

"About 10 percent of the air turbidity is manmade," he acknowledges, but "the rest is natural, the result of volcanic eruption, forest fires, blown sea salt and desert sand, land erosion."

The former assistant secretary of the interior and official in the Environmental Protection Agency denies that particulates from auto exhausts, and manufacturing residues are important enough to affect world weather. "Most of the particulate matter is dust from natural sources and in about the same amount as there was 2000 years ago."

In addition to his cabinet and EPA service, Dr. Singer's environmental credits include setting up the U.S. Weather Service satellite weather program in 1962. He says that if we really want to control our weather we could do it in 10 to 20 years by sending into fixed orbit over given spots on earth that we wanted to cool a sunshade similar to, but immensely larger than the one used to save the Skylab program.

Such a weather control system, he estimates would cost only about $2 trillion, approximately twice the Gross National Product of the nation.

JACK ANDERSON

Patty Hearst may be outside U.S.

WASHINGTON—A marked man, who inadvertently helped found the Symbionese Liberation Army but is now in its death list, believes the kidnapped Patricia Hearst is still alive but is being held outside the U.S.

This is the opinion of Colston Westbrook, a black linguistics instructor who knows the SLA members and how they think. He became acquainted with them during visits to California's Vacaville prison, where he coordinated the activites of the Black Cultural Association, the forerunner of the SLA.

The SLA has now issued a death contract on Westbrook, calling for him to be shot on sight. My reporter Ed Tropeano arranged to meet him behind the locked doors of a motel room.

Westbrook discounts Patty Hearst's statement that she has joined the SLA. The language she used, he said, sounds like his former friend. "It was too much like the way they talk for me to believe she said it out of her own free will, he told us, adding:

"They like to do the unexpected just to mix people up. Besides, Patty Hearst isn't the type of person they're looking for to join."

Westbrook believes Patty is too useful to the SLA to be killed. He's "sure" she is alive, probably in a hideout in a foreign country. FBI agents have been on the heels of the kidnappers and probably have scared them across the border.

It was Westbrook who brought Donald DeFreeze into the Black Cultural Association at Vacaville prison. Westbrook wanted to break the influence of white radicals on the black society and thought the strong-willed, white-hating DeFreeze could do it.

The group evolved into the Symbionese Liberation Army, with DeFreeze as its purported leader. He now calls himself "General Field Marshal Cinque."

But Westbrook claims he has learned from his contacts that DeFreeze, an escaped convict, is merely a figurehead and that the SLA is still run by the white radicals.

Westbrook says there has been racial dissension, however, within the SLA. "It's the same old thing," he said "These people claim they're working for the good of the black community when really all they care about is their own ego."

FOOTNOTE: As evidence of his close former ties with the SLA, Westbrook showed my reporter considerable documentation including his own detailed diary.

MILK MONEY: The Watergate prosecutors are secretly bargaining for a guilty plea for the president of a $100 million-a-year milk cooperative, which unwittingly supplied "hush money" for the Watergate conspirators.

The official is Richard Allison, who began as a candy clerk, worked his way through night school and is now the $55,000-a-year president of the Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers of Allentown, Pa.

Proud of his accomplishments in building the co-op into a major American milk power, Allison wanted President Nixon as his speaker for the group's 1972 conference. LeHigh's Washington lobbyist, Frank Carrol, was called on to help with th arrangements, say sources close to the case.

Carroll could not land Nixon but settled for Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz. Thereafter, LeHigh coughed up a $50,000 contribution.

The donation, which is illegal under federal law because corporate gifts are outlawed, was clandestinely passed to the President's campaign committee in two $25,000 bundles, one of them in a car, say our sources.

J. Curtis Herge, a medium-level campaign official who accepted the cash for the committee, claims he was acting under orders from former Attorney General John Mitchell, and Mitchell's chief sidekick at the time, Jeb Magruder.

The $50,000 reportedly wound up in the slush fund from which "hush money" was drawn to buy the silence of the original Watergate conspirators. This, of course, set the prosecutors on LeHigh.

Carroll, who reportedly transmitted the money to Nixon headquarters, could not be reached. Through his lawyer, he declined to comment. Herge refused to return our repeated phone calls. Allison's lawyer conceded only that the plea bargaining was going on.

ALLUMINUM HAZARDS: The moguls of aluminum have met secretly in their shiny New York headquarters to try to counter federal hearings this week on deaths and home-burnings caused by aluminum wiring.

At the meeting, officials from Kaiser, Reynolds, Southwire, Alcoa and others agreed that a "motherhood" package concealing the dangers of aluminum wiring was the best way to deal with the hearing of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Los Angeles.

From inside sources, we have also learned that "the industry is frightened to death" that studies showing 400 recent fires from the wiring will lead to reinspection of all aluminum-wired homes. At least two million homes, each with dozens of fire hazards, have been built.

The tin gods of aluminum privately decided at their meeting not to do their own survey, for fear it would prove how dangerous aluminum wiring actually is. Instead, they decided to discredit surveys now being done by others.

The aluminum industry, is was also agreed, would try to line up politicians, willing safety inspectors and even utility companies to back the dangerous aluminum wiring.

RAY CROMLEY

Do bureaucrats call the shots?

WASHINGTON—Much has been written on the growth of presidential power. What may have actually occurred is a major decline in that power, especially as it applies to domestic problems.

That power has not gone to Congress. But Congress has been responsible for the whittling away of the president's prerequisites, a whittling that has been keenly felt by Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon, and by prior occupants of the White House.

This whittling began almost immediately after President George Washington's terms ended. Washington, according to reports, had complete authority over all federal officials and their duties. But Congress, in 1799, began a practice, enlarged in the years since for vesting statutory powers in Supreme Court decisions, one as late as 1935, have confirmed this right of Congress to vest powers in agencies to be exercised on their own responsibility-except for some military and foreign affairs and domestic matters of high policy.

Additionally, so much of the budget is fixed these days the changes any president can make are minimal, even with Congressional consent.

Its no wonrer that presidents spend much of their time in foreign affairs, sometimes to the neglect of economic and domestic problems. For it is only in foreign and related military matters that presidents have their power and perhaps increased it. This tendency may account for the poor record of most recent presidents in dealing with economy.

There has, over the years, been a parallel strengthing of the power of the civil service and the positions of senior civil service employes. The objective has been to prevent the corruption, inefficiences and inequities of the spoils system. The result has been, in essence, to create a fourth branch of government, almost partly independent of the president and Congress.

Department heads are, in considerable measure, prisoners of their permanent staffs. The man at the top ordinarly must work with what the permanent officials give him. Proposals they disagree with can take endless months to carry out, and in the process, can be so changed that the original purposes may be smothered. We thus have in essence a multitude of built-in "courts" thoughout the executive, presided over by high-level civil service employes who act as judges, approving or censoring programs pushed by the president and his cabinet and voted by Congress.

Even as able an administrator as Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard quit because he came to the conclusion he couldn't get a handle on the bureaucracy.

Department and agency chiefs, and the politically-appointed assistants they bring in, frequently don't begin to understand the ropes until their short tenures have ended. (One learned study, as a corrective measure, recommends that political officials pledge to stay a minimum of two years!)

By contrast, many civil service employes are on the job 20 to 30 years and more. The able ones, during that period, gain an encyclopedic knowledge of their areas and build loyalties and a priceless understanding of who can do what and who can't. This makes the difference between failure and success in many operations.

Not surprisingly, these men come to believe that no one understands their job and its objectives as they do and that outside interference only muddies the waters.

Some of these permanent staffers have built strong alliances with powerful groups in Congress. The legislators, by working directly with civil servants, have been able to circumvent more than one President.

We are not talking about the crafty empire builders or inefficient men perpetuating themselves, through both exist in numbers in some department. Rather, we are talking about men with ability who believe sincerely in what they're doing-but who are unwilling to shift their actions and their objectives to meet the wishes of men they regard as short-term politicial officials and whose objectives they frequently believe are wrong. (At best, they regard these transients as ignorant.)

The situation is made more difficult by the fact that too many of the supervising officials appointed by any president are unqualified. Some are political hacks, being paid off for work in presidential campaigns. Others are able men unable to adjust to the complicated ins and outs of the bureaucratic system.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Zig zag defense RMN's best bet

WASHINGTON — While official findings of "no fraud" in President Nixon's 1969-72 federal income tax returns may keep this issue out of a possible House impeachment decision, he will not thereby avoid new public damage. Treatment of his case makes him out to be a strong gainer from high privilege.

He is being saved from charges of fraud by the generous grace accorded him as President. Moreover, he has won unwarranted compliments from top lawmakers Rep. Wilbur Mills and Sen. Russell Long for making belated payments on his 1969 returns.

Let's start with a couple of basics. Where the Internal Revenue Service suspects Fraud (intent to misrepresent) in tax returns, no statute of limitations applies at all. The IRS can go back as far as it wishes.

Secondly, the law specifies that when a citizen fails to report items of gross income adding to 25 per cent or more beyond the gross income he does cite on a given return, the statute of limitations does not run a mere three years (the figure commonly cited in nearly all comment on the President's case), but extends a full six years beyond final filing time.

On its face, a key document prepared by the joint congressional committee which examined Mr. Nixon's returns at his invitation would seem to involve his 1969 returns in this provision of the law. Yet a twist in the regulations seems to salvage him in this instance.

For 1969, the committee found the President had added gross income amounting to $142,367, more than a third above the $328,162 he formally reported as gross income.

The twister comes into play in the way the President for 1969 handled the sale of his New York apartment. He did not conceal the sale or its proceeds, but declared on his return that he was deferring payment of a capital gains tax on the transaction because he was investing the monies in the purchases of San Clemente as his "principal residence."

Such practice is both legitimate and very common. Except that in this instance, the committee decided San Clemente was not Mr. Nixon's chief residence. It found that the Nixons spent just 49 days there in the 12 months after sale of the New York apartment.

Furthermore, as is now well known, he did not at any time pay California state income taxes as would a normal resident. One would think that, for consistency's sake, he would have done so to underscore his claims about San Clemente.

But here's the hooker: In an obscure IRS regulation, believed by one tax analyst to have been added after U.S. Tax Court rulings in such cases, his New York apartment sale income can be considered exempt from calculations about "added gross income" for 1969.

The regulation says that, if a taxpayer supplies on his return "information sufficient to apprise the District Director (of Internal Revenue) of the nature and amount" of monies gained but not rated by the payer as "income," this simple act of disclosure frees him from having the sums figured as part of a possible 25 per cent excess.

So what, in the end, do we have here?

We have the President, no less, selling his New York apartment for a handsome profit, noting it on his 1969 return but saying it wasn't "income" because he used it to buy a "principal residence" at San Clemente, yet doing nothing else to establish the legitimacy of that asserted residency.

The IRS doesn't pick up the discrepancy, so the normal three-year statute of limitations runs out in 1973 on what is then taken as a proper transaction. Belatedly, the deal is checked and redefined as "income." The little hooker about "disclosure" saves him from the six-year rule. Mr. Nixon says he'll pay up on 1969 "voluntarily" and wins plaudits from supposed tax experts in Congress. Marvelous!

County accepts deeds

Civic Center in Chino advances

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — Development of Chino's Civic Center has moved a step closer as grant deeds for three additional parcels of land were accepted Monday by the Board of Supervisors, entailing an expenditure of $155,000.

The land is located at the northwest corner of Central and D streets in Chino, the project being a joint venture by Chino and the county. Supervisor Robert O. Townsend has been a prime mover in the development. The county is depending on revenue sharing and Chino looks to the Civic Center for funds.

Townsend said it was most important to him and "I am certain it will be to the people in the Chino environs. I am looking forward to more purchases in the future." Two more land purchases are now in preliminary stages.

The county has scheduled occupancy in 1975 by the following departments: agriculture, assessor, building and safety, health, supervisor's office and conference room and general conference rooms. Already occupied is the $10,600 library dedicated last year.

The master plan also provides for criminal court justice facilities: attorneys' rooms, district attorney's office, marshal, municipal court, municipal court clerk, probation, public defender and sheriff.

Total square footage amounts to 61,-675. The county's space requirements are starting to level off and there will be ample room for Chino city offices.

Library fines waived for a week in Upland

UPLAND — Library patrons who have overdue books on hand can relax and save their fine money during the "Fine Free Week" next week at the Library.

Throughout the week, overdue books may be returned without being subject to a fine and according to librarians, "with no questions asked."

Chino High to have arts, crafts exhibit

CHINO — Chino High School will hold its annual Festive-All starting Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the school's gymnasium.

The arts and crafts exhibit will also be open Tuesday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon.

YTS' No. 2 man will head unit at Paso Robles

CHINO — Ronald Lopez, 43, now assistant superintendent at the California Youth Training School here, has been appointed the superintendent of the California Youth Authority's Paso Robles School soon to be reopened.

Lopez will take charge of the Paso Robles School within the next few months, along with another YTS officer, Roy Ottoson, 42, who will be appointed assistant superintendent, said Allen F. Breed, director of the CYA.

According to Breed and Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, an agreement has been reached between the county and the CYA that will place 200 Los Angeles County juvenile offenders at YTS in return for $1.19 million in funds and equipment for the now closed Paso Robles School. The agreement also calls for the CYA to house an additionnal 50 Los Angeles County offenders in the Ventura CYA facility.

The Paso Robles School has been vacant for the past two years. It was closed because of declining Youth Authority institution populations, said Breed. Two hundred CYA wards will be moved from YTS to the Paso Robles School to make room for the Los Angeles juvenile offenders.

Schabarum said the agreement with the CYA was the county's "only option." He said, "Recognizing it is expensive, we must acquire the use of these quarters for the next fiscal year in order to alleviate overcrowding at the juvenile facilities in Los Angeles County."

The county has had space problems for detention of juvenile offenders since the 1971 earthquake destroyed the San Fernando Valley Juvenile Hall.

Help wanted: German spy

When I was a small boy, what I wanted to grow up to be was a spy— or at least a voyeur. I never made it, spy-wise.

My chance has come. West Germany's Federal Intelligence Service, Bundesnachrichtendiesnt is now advertising for espionage agents, offering an exciting job, with travel, fringe benefits and good pay. Not strong on security.

But fancy putting out want ads for spies! How demeaning. Us romantics have long lamented the demise of glamor, melodrama, and chivalry from that most basic of human activities, war. But this is the livin' end. Or dead end.

Even as late as World War I a certain code was observed, a rigid pattern of gentlemanly conduct. Eric Von Stroheim, the Boche, with his monocle and saber scars, saluted gallantly as he shot down the American ace, Richard Dix, with Fifi D'Orsay's white scarf flying from the fuselage of the Spad. Gosh, they don't MAKE movies like that anymore!

It is the passing of these same noble traditions from the field of espionage that distresses me. The old-time spy, from whom we got secret plans, military data and a thousand adventure stories, is a thing of the past.

Today governments can obtain more information from an IBM machine in Kansas City than from a perfumed Mata Hari in a Vienesse boudoir.

And the things these espionage agents are curious about today! When I was Frank Hardy, Boy Spy of Budapest, the Allies wanted to know a few basic things — how many troops the King of Austria had, how far the Kaiser's cannon would fire, and such.

Today's espionage plums are the structural design of the new Contraves-Oerlikon LSD-58 expellerator, the tensile strength of the supersecret Gesundheit IX, the floor plan of the Bundesnachrichtendienst. Frank Hardy couldn't even pronounce them, much less steal them.

Your proper spy of the old days wore a broad-brimmed hat and black cape to be inconspicuous. He had dark glasses, a mustache, a poisoned dagger and a bottle of invisible ink. His orders were printed on rice paper which he would swallow if anyone looked cross-eyed at him.

The spy of today is a clean-limbed young man trained in law, languages, electronics and other esoteria. He wears conventional business suits, drinks sparingly and is hopelessly dull.

Frank Hardy (X-24) would drug the guards of the bulgarian embassy at Trieste, pick a lock and rifle a safe. He would turn over the stolen plans to a blind flower peddler, who would leave them in a bouquet of asphodels on the third table from the window of the Cafe Exelsior. Then a little old lady—you'd never DREAM she was an agent!—comes in for her afternoon vermouth cassis. . . well, you get the idea. Exciting.

Nowadays, Lee Cameron Stephens (probably not even an alias) checks into a hotel in Berlin, beams his ultraray spectophotometer at the Yugoslavian headquarters a mile away, adjusts the radio-chromatograph, turns on the tape recorder and picks up Playboy magazine.

Next morning he jets back to Washington with the stolen secrets and a jar of sauerkraut.

COMEDIANS

You repeatedly hear in TV commercials the distinctive voices of dead comedians. W. C. Fields, especially. But Hugh Herbert, Bert Lahr, and Ned Sparks, too. They were pretty stylish those old boys. Relied more on their individuality than on their material. It's just the opposite with today's comedians, mostly. A client asks if the heirs of the bygone wits could possibly sue their imitators. All I know is you can sue anybody for anything.

The doctor comments

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son was in the Air Force in Vietnam for approximately one year. At the end of this time he became sick and was sent to a hospital in Japan. He had some kind of infection in the lymph glands which was cleared up but the main problem was with his left arm which kept going to sleep when held in a certain position. After many, many tests it was diagnosed as "Thoracic Outlet Syndromebilateral." He was sent back to the States to a medical center where he went all through the same tests again.

He was told there that his top rib was very high and a vein was being pinched between his collarbone and top rib, interfering with the circulation. One doctor told him he should have it removed (the top rib), and another told him it was something he could live with and he was sent back to duty. He is now in the National Guard.

This condition still bothers him, and I think he is worried that he has something more than he was told. I would really appreciate your opinion on this matter.

Dear Reader — It sounds to me as if your son has had some pretty smart doctors. Your description of the problem is a fairly typical one. Sometims a person has an extra rib, off the last neck vertebrae (a cervical rib) that acts this way. Soldiers were noted to have this problem when carrying a backpack. The straps around the shoulders to the pack would pull the shoulders back under the weight of the pack. This would pull the collarbone back compressing the arteries and sometimes the veins and nerves in this area.

Another way this can happen is for certain muscles in the neck to be pulled taut over an artery or nerve and cause problems in the arm. Some people have obstructive compression from muscles or tendons in the arm. The only way to define the problem and what is causing the obstruction is by careful examinations.

When the symptoms are marked or there are problems in the function of the hand or arm, the obstruction can be relieved. This eliminates the problem. If the obstruction is not severe and the symptoms are not all that troublesome, then one can ignore the proble mwithout surgery. Incidentally, the surgery isn't all that difficult or dangerous. It is a fairty simply procedure.

I'm inclined to think, from the complete description you have made and what your son has been told, that neither he nor you have anything to worry about. I'm confident he has been told a fairly complete story regarding his health.

DEAR DI. LAMB — I read your piece about the man who used electricity to cure arthritis, and you said it was no good. I just wondered about using heating pads. I have done this often.

Dear Reader — That's a horse of a different color. Heat, if used properly, will help relax the muscles and prevent muscle spasm. It is very useful. It will not cure arthritis, but with a sore joint from osteoarthritis (the wear and tear kind) it can help give you relief. Some of the soreness in wear and tear arthritis is from associated muscle soreness.

A delightful place to visit

Article No. 2

By: Donald W. Reynolds

VIENNA, Austria—The Austrians have a happy faculty of being able to accept things they can't change, so more than seven million of them live in this pint-sized country about the size of the state of Maine.

This is all that remains of an empire that once extended from Naples to the North Sea, from Hungary to Portugal and included the Spanish possessions in the Americas.

In 1918 the six-hundred-year rule of the Hapsburgs ended and the fifty-one million population was cut to seven—and Vienna dropped from more than two million to its present one and three-quarters million.

Following the first World War Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and parts of present day Romania, Poland and Italy were all carved out of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Small wonder that for the last half century Vienna has been accepted as a capital city in search of a country! As one Austrian journalist has expressed it, "If Austria has a future it is as the National Park of Europe."

Definitely a delightful place to visit. The Hotel Imperial in Vienna, now entering its second century of operation, has been modernized with a deft had and is accepted as one of the ten best hotels in the world.

The Austrian generally attaches greater importance to making an art of life than to the mere fact that in order to live well, one first needs money. Memories of the extravagant lives of the Austrian aristocracy of a few generations ago still dominate the desires of the average citizen.

If the Austrian can't make it on his own—and it is a nation of "unfinishers"—the easy answer seems to be nationalization. The wide spread inclination is to start major projects with vigor and enterprise—and then realize that the whole thing is considerably more attractive incomplete. Mozart never finished his Requiem nor Bruckner his last symphony. And Schubert's most popular symphony was also to remain the "unfinished."

As recently as 1946 the Austrian parliament agreed to nationalization of most of Austria's basic industries. Today, in addition to a huge government bureaurcracy more than a sixth of all industrial employees work for the government. Iron and steel; engineering and ship building; the electrical industry; oil and chemicals as well as coal production is all government operated with the workers having the right to occupy a third of the seats on the board of directors. Franz Joseph, the last of the strong Hapsburg Emperors, must still be spinning in his grave.

Neutral territory, a strategic geographical location between the iron curtain countries and the democracies of Western Europe, Austria is the perfect host. Certainly an ideal spot for a holiday!

All of this written before the calling of that most irritating of tourist problems—a taxi strike! It is astounding the longing nostalgia one has for the world wide average, "loud," "meter rigging," "uncouth," "short changing," "rude," "thieving" cab operator—as compared to no taxi driver at all! There really isn't much to be said for the semi-modern Viennese street cars when you are hunting for an obscure restaurant or shop!

AAA says gas easier to get, but price up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's motorists are finding it increasingly easier to purchase gasoline at service stations, but the cost is steadily climbing, the American Automobile Association has reported.

The AAA said its latest spotcheck covering 6,051 service stations in every state but Alaska showed that only 2 per cent were out of fuel, compared to 3 per cent last week.

The average price of a gallon of regular gas was 54 cents, the AAA said, same as last week. But the average price for a gallon of premium grade fuel increased to 58 cents, one cent higher than last week. Federal energy chief William E. Simon has said the price for regular might go as high as 70 cents a gallon.

A fuel cost breakdown by the AAA showed that California, Hawaii, Illinois, Mississippi and New York shared the highest average price for regular gasoline, 56 cents a gallon. New York, Illinois and Hawaii reported the highest average price per gallon for premium at 60 cents. Texas had the lowest average for both regular and premium —49 cents and 53 cents.

Bostonians mark Revere's ride

BOSTON (UPI) — Bostonians turned out by the thousands for Patriots Day celebrations Monday, commemorating Paul Revere's historic ride to alert Colonists that British soldiers were marching toward town.

Banks, schools and state offices were closed in Massachusetts and Maine, the only two states in the country to celebrate the holiday.

Nearly 100,000 persons attended Massachusetts parades in Arlington and Lexington. The day's festivities included the reenactment of Paul Revere's ride through Arlington and on to Lexington.

Supreme Court upholds Civil Service firings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A divided Supreme Court Tuesday upheld provisions for the firing of federal Civil Service employes when they make public statements which their bosses regard as harmful to the "efficiency of the service."

In its only other decision today, the court ruled that the end of a labor strike does not necessarily mean that all legal issues raised during the strike are moot and out of reach of the courts.

Five separate opinions, including two dissents, were handed down in the Civil Service case. None of the opinions can stand as the court's because none had support from at least five of the justices. But six justices agreed with each other enough to come up with a simple judgment that the Civil Service law is constitutional.

The case arose over dismissal of Wayne Kennedy, a nonprobationary employe of the Chicago branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Kennedy charged publicly that his boss had taken a bribe, although he presented no proof. Kennedy was dismissed under the Lloyd-La-Follette Act which provides for employe removal to improve government efficiency.

Kennedy went to court claiming that the notification provisions of the act and his chances to defend himself denied him proper legal procedures. He also said the law limited his free expression.

A three-judge federal court agreed with Kennedy, but the Supreme Court did not.

In the strike case, Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for a 5-4 majority, said that a New Jersey company could ask the courts to rule whether welfare benefits for strikers were illegal even though its own strike had ended.

The court did not decide the original issue of strike welfare legality, ruling only that lower courts have jurisdiction in such a case.

The case was brought by Super Tire Engineering Co. against New Jersey officials, but did not go to court until a six-week strike against the company had ended.

Blackmun said the lawsuit was still alive since the state law providing welfare benefits to strikers could easily influence contract bargaining and union strength in the future.

Blackmun also said that many labor issues could not be resolved by courts if the high court ruled otherwise. Strikes are often of short duration, he said, but should still be subject to judicial intervention.

Cranston cites inequities in S.S. payments

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Senator Alan Cranston today said Congress should force large corporations and high bracket tax payers to pay a larger share of the cost of social security.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the California AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, Cranston said a worker earning $13,200 in 1969 paid $374 to social security compared with $772 this year, a 100.6 per cent increase.

Cranston said corporate, estate and income taxes should be used to gradually offset increases in the costs of social security.

"Both the man making $13,200 and the man making $50,000 pay the same amount into social security—$722. But while that comes to 5.8 per cent of the income of the man making $13,200, it is only 1.5 per cent of the man making $50,000."

Campbell saves Twins

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Bill Campbell of the Minnesota Twins serves as a great example of never giving up.

The former Ganesha High and Mt. San Antonio College baseball player has developed into one of the better relief pitchers in the major leagues.

There was little indication in Campbell's early years he would ever develop his skills.

The Ganesha graduate of 1965 played only one season of varsity baseball and that was as a third baseman and outfielder. In his one year at MSAC (1966), he pitched only 16 innings.

But Campbell was a key man in leading the Twins to a 6-0 win over the Angels Tuesday night at Anaheim Stadium as he finished up for starter Joe Decker in a five-hit shutout to cool down the league-leading Angels.

Campbell, who stands 6-foot-3, has taken part in four of the Twins' five wins with one victory and three saves. In 9 2-3 innings of work, he still hasn't allowed a run.

"It has just been a combination of things," Campbell said in trying to explain his success. "I've been helped by our coaches and catchers. I listen to them."

Campbell, who signed a Minnesota contract following two years of Army duty after seeing his MSAC career interrupted by the military draft, came up from Tacoma (Pacific Coast League) last July. He compiled seven saves with a 2.11 ERA in relief.

"I didn't pitch until I got to MSAC," Campbell said. "I learned everything from my coach, Ron Squire." Thanks to the coaching, Campbell uses a screwball and slider with his basic fastball.

Squire, who is now a counselor at MSAC and scout for the Philadelphia Phillies, remembers Campbell well.

"It's a true Cinderella story," Squire said, "and all the credit must go to Campbell himself. He had to be discouraged with his lack of innings at our place but he stuck with it."

Decker, who struck out 11 Angels in his 6 1-3 innings of work, left the game when his elbow stiffened up. Campbell came on to retire seven of the next eight batters with only Mike Epstein getting on base with a harmless single.

It was a tight pitching battle most of the way between Decker and Nolan Ryan, who pitched his best game of the young season. Through eight innings, Ryan had allowed only four hits but was trailing 1-0 because of leadoff hitter Sergio Ferrer's opening triple in the first inning and Rod Carew's run-producing ground out.

But the Twins broke the game open in the ninth inning with five runs — four unearned — as Larry Hisle ripped a three-run homer. After singles by Ferrer and Carew opening the inning, Ryan hit Tony Oliva with a pitch to load the bases. Bobby Darwin hit a sacrifice fly which was dropped by rightfielder Lee Stanton when he collided with Mickey Rivers to enable two runs to score.

Ryan got the next two batters without any damage but Hisle cleared the bases with his shot into the leftfield bullpen.

"I made a couple of bad pitches, especially that hanging curve to Hisle," Ryan said, "but I thought it generally was a pretty good performance."

Ryan, who had his biggest strikeout performance of the campaign with 11, came within one out of pitching his first complete game without a walk. Glenn Borgmann drew a free pass after Hisle's homer.

"I threw a few changeups, which I've tried to develop this spring to take the strain off my arm," Ryan explained.

"Those five runs helped me relax," Campbell grinned.

After being a starter in his minor league days, the Pomona native has adjusted to the bullpen. "I've accepted it," he said, "because it looks like that's what I am going to do."

ANGEL ANGLES — Bill Stoneman, another former Mt. San Antonio College pitcher, will make his Angel debut on the mound tonight against Dick Woodson. Frank Tanana will face Bert Blyleven in Thursday's 1 p.m. contest . . .

Lee Stanton's 10-game hitting streak came to an end. Prior to Tuesday's shutout loss, the Angels were hitting .302 at home and were averaging 7.2 runs per game . . .

Ryan has started 156 games in the major league. It took Sandy Koufax 154 starts to pitch his first walkless complete game.

Desperate shot eliminates Kings

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "desperation shot" by Jim Pappin put the Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup semifinals for the 15th straight year in which they have competed for hockey's most prized trophy Tuesday night.

Pappin's shot, with 4:37 left in the game, went into the Los Angeles Kings' net "like a knuckleball," giving the Hawks a 1-0 victory and a 4-1 triumph in games in the best-of-seven quarterfinal series.

Hawks goalie Tony Esposito had to protect the margin in the waning minutes and his teammates gave him so much help that the Kings got only three shots on goal in the final 20 minutes and only 18 in the game.

Esposito wound up with his second straight shutout over the Kings and a string of 155 minutes, 37 seconds in which he held the Kings scoreless.

Until Pappin's shot, it looked like Esposito might have to blank his rivals for an even longer span.

"It was a desperation shot," Pappin said. "The defenseman gave me a little bit of room over the blue line and I just thought if I could get a good shot away on net, maybe there'd be a reound or Dennis (Hull) would come in on the other side. It was strictly desperation.

"I just tried to get everything I had on the shot. My whole intent and purpose was to just get the puck in their end and try to get a good shot on goal. The defenseman got enough of a stick on it to change its direction and give it a little funny dip and that's what fooled the goaltender."

The puck bounced off goalie Rogatien Vachon and into the cage striking the bar in the back of the net. "It dropped quite a bit," Vachon said, "and I couldn't even get a glove on it."

The win put the Hawks into the next round, opening at Boston Tuesday, and none of the Hawks anticipated an easy road even though Boston failed to beat them in six games during the regular season, tying four times.

"I don't think we'll have any psychological edge against Boston," Hawks Coach Billy Reay said. "It's a new season now. We played well against Boston this winter but now you can't tell about these things."

Esposito, who will be playing against his brother, league-leading scorer Phil Esposito, in the Boston series, agreed with Reay that "everybody will have to give over 100 per cent because we know they're great."

Esposito praised his teammates for their performance against Kings because he said "you know, a team gets one goal and it's all over. Our team works harder. We just tried to keep it tight and finally got a break. I thought we had control of the game."

Walton may make choice by April 29

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sam Gilbert, the man who advises UCLA's Bill Walton, said Tuesday that the ABA will move a club here if Walton signs a contract with a league team.

"I have an offer from both the ABA and NBA," said Gilbert. "Both offers are about in the same ball park. If Bill consents to join the ABA, a team will be moved here. I expect Bill to make his decision April 29."

The Portland Trail Blazers and the San Diego Conquistadors have the NBA and the ABA draft rights respectively to Walton, college basketball's Player of the Year the past three seasons.

However, Gilbert said the Conquistadors would relinquish them if Walton agrees to play for a proposed franchise based in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

"I don't think the ABA and NBA will make any more offers," said Gilbert. "They're about the same although the ABA has thrown a few more things in like a territorial draft.

"Bill isn't leaning either way. He has been in Mexico three weeks and hasn't seen the ABA offer. We don't want any form of complex negotiating. When Bill returns, he'll sit down and quietly make his own decision. And all speculation now as to what he'll do is to no avail."

Gilbert negotiated Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's contract with the NBA Milwaukee Bucks in 1969.

Wynn starts rally which beats Reds

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jimmy Wynn was born in Cincinnati but he seems to have found a home in Los Angeles.

The 5-foot-9, 170-pound Wynn, swapped by Houston to Los Angeles during the winter, homered for one of two runs which enabled the Dodgers to tie the Cincinnati Reds in the ninth inning Tuesday night.

"Wynn's homer woke us up," said Dodger Manager Walt Alston.

A bases-loaded double by Bill Russell off Fred Norman with one out in the 11th inning put the Reds to rest as the Dodgers, wiping out an early 30 deficit, won the series opener 5-3.

"In a clutch situation," said Alston, "I would just as soon see Russell up at the plate as anyone on the club. It just seems to me that he kicks himself in the tail when runners are on base.

"I do consciously bear down more when runners are on base," admitted Russell. "I concentrate more ... don't swing at just anything they throw up at the plate."

Wynn's home run was his fifth. He also has three doubles and a triple among his 12 hits.

"Wynn sure amazes me," said Dodger batting coach Dixie Walker. "I look at him and wonder where he generates such power. He's like Hank Aaron, though. He will fool you when you see him in civies. That's because you don't see the strength he has from the waist up, in the chest, shoulders, and arms."

Jim Brewer, a long-time Red nemesis, pitched hitless ball the last three innings to gain his first victory. He took over after Mike Marshall put the Reds down in order in the eighth.

Reds starter Clay Kirby was working on a one-hit shutout with a three-run lead when Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith homered in the sixth. A stiff back forced Kirby from the game after seven innings.

It was then that Borbon, victim of the Dodgers' ninth inning uprising, entered the game.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Now to get back to business.

After spending a week out of conference competition during the Easter vacation, most of the valley college track teams will hop back into their conferences this week.

Mt. San Antonio College will host San Diego Mesa Friday in a battle for second place in the South Coast Conference, Chaffey will host Riverside and Citrus in Mission Conference competition Friday, Cal Poly faces Cal St. Fullerton in CCAA action, Claremont-Mudd hosts Pomona-Pitzer and La Verne visits Whittier in SCIAC competition Saturday.

So, as you can see, there will be plenty of track action this weekend — and this time it counts.

MSAC is still stinging from its first conference dual meet loss in six years against Fullerton.

"It was one of the finest meets at MSAC since I've been here," said Mountie assistant track coach John Norton at the weekly track luncheon held at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona Tuesday. "And now we battle San Diego Mesa for second place They (Mesa) feel they can handle us this week. It's going to be a very competitive meet."

Two school records were broken in the Mounties' meet with Fullerton. Scott Flox shattered the old mark by winning the shot put at 54-5, and javelin thrower Dave Krogh posted a record-breaking 226-2 throw.

Of course, next week the Mounties host their prestigious Mt. SAC Relays. "We have a lot of entries," stated Mountie coach Don Ruh. "It looks good in every area, and we should have a great distance field."

Meanwhile, Chaffey will be hosting a tough Citrus team which will be shooting for a tie for the lead in the Mission.

"Palomar goes against Grossmont (conference leader) this week," stated Citrus assistant coach Vince O'Boyle. "Grossmont should beat Palomar, but if it doesn't turn out that way, we'll have to beat Chaffey in order to get into a tie for first."

The Owls recently suffered a loss against Grossmont to throw the Owls into second place. "We feel some good breaks would have taken the event right down to the mile relay, but it didn't turn out that way."

Even though Citrus lost the meet, Owl sprinter Rick Wilmoth had an outstanding day. He not only posted a 9.4-second clocking in the 100, but also came up with a 21.0 second sprint in the 220.

For his superb performances, which are the best marks in the state, Wilmoth was selected the valley's junior college track athlete of the week.

The Owls somewhat made up for the loss to Grossmont by winning their division in the Southern California Relays last weekend. "We didn't take a lot of athletes to the Relays," said O'Boyle. "But we won with some blue chip athletes."

QUOTING THE COACHES:

Chuck Hicks, Chaffey: "It's going to be a difficult meet with Citrus and Riverside. Citrus won the SoCal Relays, while we placed fourth. Riverside is on an unusual vacation and will only field a partial team . . . Some of our top performers over the past two weeks include Richard Jimenez who broke the school record in the two mile (9:27.2), Tony Lewis who posted a jump of 48-0½ in the triple jump, and Matt Wagner who had his best pole vault of the season at 14-7.

Fred Jones, Cal Poly: "We enjoyed going to UC Irvine, where we won easily. It was kind of a relaxer . . . Our meet with Cal State Los Angeles was a real indicator. They are a real strong team. I used all the psych I could to get our guys up for the meet. The intensity was there. (Cal Poly lost the meet) . . . We face Cal State Fullerton this week, but they really don't have a lot of depth." Note: Cal Poly quarter miler Doug Dantzler was named the four-year college track athlete of the week.

Pat Mulcahy, Pomona-Pitzer: "We had a super meet against Occidental, and I don't think you could find a better small college track meet around. Even though we lost, I can't complain when we do that well. We face Claremont-Mudd this week, but they shouldn't be much of a problem. We'll do a little experimenting and basically get ready for the conference meet."

ONE . . . BUT NOT TWO

Chino's Paul Belmudes (16) slides into second base, but is forced by Montclair shortstop Pat Proulx. Proulx relayed the play to first in an attempted double play, but it was too late. (See story, C-3).

Lamonica, McKeever in fold

Sun gets quarterback

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Southern California Suns has its quarterback. But like other WFL teams who have signed NFL stars, it will have to wait for 1975 to get him in uniform.

Daryle Lamonica, all-pro signal caller of the Oakland Raiders, Tuesday signed a multi-year contract with the Suns. The 6-3, 215 pound veteran was the Sporting News Player of the Year in 1967 and 1969.

His best year was 1969 when he passed for 3,302 yards and 34 touchdowns. His career marks including 19,119 yards passing for 163 touchdowns and a 49 per cent completion rate.

Former USC and Ram star Marlin McKeever came out of retirement (a front office job with the league) to sign a player contract with the Sun along with Lamonica.

Lamonica will have to play out his option at Oakland this fall. Although refusing to divulge the terms of his contract except to say, "I'm very happy," Lamonica (according to Northern California sources) signed for a package deal that included deferred payments and incentives with the total in the $1 million range over a period of three of four years.

"This was a major decision for me," Lamonica said, "but one that is right for Daryle Lamonica. I'm excited about the WFL and very much impressed with the Southern California Sun. This is one of my biggest opportunities as a pro."

Lamonica lost his starting job to left-hander Kenny Stabler last year and hinted that the reason might have been because of his preference for the wide-open passing type of game.

"I think it might have been more of a political thing than talent," he said first, but later amended that to, "more of a misunderstanding over policy. I only know one way to play . . .wide open."

General Manager Curly Morrison revealed the Sun is in negotiaion with other NFL stars.

"We're going to try and sign six or seven futures from the NFL for 1975," he said. "We're going for specific positions, a wide receiver, a great down lineman to put pressure on the passing, and an offensive lineman are among them."

Lamonica, before he was whisked off by WFL founder Gary Davidson, remarked, "The WFL is more advanced than I realized."

Sun officials revealed that the day following the WFL signing of Larry Czonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield there was a long line outside the ticket office located in the lobby at Anaheim Stadium.

Some 7500 season tickets have been sold to date and it "has not been a hard sell" to quote one of the team officials. Tuesday's announcement should have brought out another line today.

Bucks, Celtics appear headed for NBA finals

By United Press International

The Milwaukee Express looks like it'll make a quick stop in Chicago before proceeding to Boston for the National Basketball Association championship playoff series.

Milwaukee romped past Chicago 101-85 while Boston flattened New York 111-99 Tuesday night to lead their respective series. The Bucks are 1-0 and the Celtics 2-0.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Dandridge each scored 25 points for Milwaukee as Chicago appeared to be suffering an emotional letdown after the trying seven-game quarterfinal series with Detroit.

"This is a thinking man's series but tonight we didn't think at all," complained Chicago Coach Dick Motta. "We were mentally and physically flat. If we don't get more intensity into our game, it's going to be a very short series."

Milwaukee's defense handcuffed high scoring forwards Chet Walker and Bob Love, holding them to a total of 30 points.

Abdul-Jabbar figures Chicago will be tougher as the series continues.

"I don't think the first game is any indication of how the series will go. Chicago is a good team and they're not going to lie down the rest of the games."

Boston, revving up for its first title series in five years, also used tough defense to shackle New York. The Knicks were held to 14 points in the third quarter while the Celts dominated the boards and scored 35 points in the session.

John Havlicek was high for the game with 27 points, including a sensational 19 in the first quarter that fell just three short of Elgin Baylor's record for one period in a non-final playoff game.

"I had the hot hand. I was the trailer on a few fast breaks and got lucky," Havlicek says. His "luck" consisted of seven straight baskets late in the opening quarter.

Walt Frazier, New York's leader with 21 points, claims "we just haven't played our game yet. They were gambling a lot, leaving guys open, while burning us on the break. We had to struggle for our points while it came easy for them."

Earl Monroe, faced with the prospect of four straight defeats, shrugged and said that "if you got to lose, you might as well lose quickly."

Coming back from a 2-0 deficit has been accomplished previously. The Knicks know that nobody has ever won an NBA title after trailing 3-0.

Kauffman first pick by the ABA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buffalo center Bob Kauffman was the first of an expected 50 players chosen by the American Basketball Association today in its first open draft of National Basketball Association players.

Kauffman, a rugged 6-8, 240-pounder who still has at least a year left in his obligation to the Braves, was selected by Virginia after the Squires won a coin flip with Memphis for the top pick.

Merenda drives La Verne to top of standings in SCIAC

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — For at least 24 hours, La Verne College was sure of having first place all to itself in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC).

Hank Merenda's two-run homer in the ninth inning Tuesday afternoon at La Verne, gave the Leos a come-from-behind win over visiting Whittier.

That moved the Leopards (6-1) a half game ahead of Claremont-Mudd (5-1) and Whittier (7-3) in the standings. However, the Stags could pull even today with a win over Pomona-Pitzer in a game that was scheduled for 3 p.m. on the Sagehens' diamond.

The Leopards got only six hits, five of them singles. A towering smash by Mike Alonso in the third inning was ruled foul by the umpire depriving the Leos of two runs since Merenda, who had walked, was on base.

Through six innings, Andy Castillo of the Poets allowed only leadoff singles in the second and sixth to Nick Leyva and Paul Flemming. Meanwhile, Whittier took a 1-0 lead on a leadoff home run by Nolan Ramirez in the top of the sixth.

La Verne tied it in the bottom of the sixth. But poor base running cost the Leos a possible big inning.

With Fleming on first and nobody out, Alonso hit a smash by third base which Ramirez flagged deep in the hole at at short. He threw to second but Sod Wilhelm dropped the ball and there were two on.

Wayne Redfearn hit a shot to center field, but it was flagged by Willie Norman after a long run, Flemming taking third after the catch. Leyva walked and the Leos had the bases loaded with only one out.

Art Sanchez hit a sharp grounder to third. Flemming scored, but Alonso was forced out on the play although the Leo third base coach didn't think so and told Alonso to stay there. Meanwhile the Whittier infield had whipped the ball to first trying for a double play on Sanchez. Leyva broke for third but seeing Alonso still there, became confused and tried to go back to second and was tagged out.

Randy Bisho's double and Matt Pinto's single put Whittier back in front, 2-1, in the seventh. The Leos tied it in the eighth when Redfearn singled in pinch runner Jeff O'Connor who had stolen second.

That set the stage for Merenda's fourth homer of the year in the ninth giving the win to Mike Ginocchio who had relieved Robb Mayhew in the Whittier ninth.

Poly, APC enjoy big baseball wins

Poly batters mauled Loyola pitchers for 18 hits in an 11-3 victory. Azusa Pacific defeated Point Loma 7-3 in a Division Three game.

APC now is 19-11 overall and 10-2 in divisional play. Point Loma, second in divisional standings, now is 7-5 and 12-15 overall.

Poly coach John Scolinos was a happy man after the game. "We hit the ball very well," he said. "It was our best hitting of the year."

The Broncos scored eight runs in the first three innings and broke the game open with a five-run third.

Doubles by Pete Alexander, Dennis Rogers and Dick Parkhouse followed by Dave Chapman's home run accounted for four runs. Nick Lusic singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Monty Cloward's single.

Cloward had four hits. Rogers, Parkhouse, Chapman, and Alexender two hits apiece. Poly (16-19) will meet SLO in a single game Friday and a twinbill Saturday at Poly.

APC got off to a good start in the first inning against Point Loma. Mark Rogers slammed a two-run homer after winning pitcher Mike Jones had singled.

The Cougars made it 4-0 in the fourth. Curt Mitchell walked and was forced at second by John Tully. Tully stole second and scored on Ken Nance's double. Ed Shaw drove in Nance with a single.

Three runs in the sixth sewed it up for APC.

Nance was hit by a pitch. Shaw and Monty Geary singled to load the bases. Bryan Stevens was the designated runner for Shaw. Jones hit a sacrifice fly to center scoring Nance. Stevens moved to third and Geary to second after the catch.

Mark Rogers layed down a swinging bunt that went for a hit scoring Stevens. Ted Dominguez singled in the final run.

APC faces Pacific Christian Thursday with Jim Donker on the mound.

ALTA LOMA — Chaffey College romped to an easy 9-3 victory over visiting Saddleback Tuesday afternoon.

Dave Bryant recorded his seventh win of the season against a single loss.

The Panthers again ran wild on the basepaths stealing eight bases in eight attempts. That gives Howard Lowder's thieves 121 for the season in 136 attempts.

Dennis Hawkins was the main culprit as far as Saddleback was concerned. The "Hawk" was 2-for-2 on the basepaths to bring his total to 36 steals in 39 attempts. Hawkins has stolen 30 of 32 in league games.

Chaffey now is 20-9 for the season and 4-1 in the second half of the split league season. The Panthers will play off the first half tie for the title with Palomar after the second half ends.

Next opponent is San Bernardino Valley College Thursday at San Bernardino.

Mounties set up showdown in SCC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

COSTA MESA — Mt. San Antonio College gets its chance to erase part of the three-game lead front-running Cerritos holds in the South Coast Conference baseball standings in single games with the leaders Thursday and Saturday.

The Mounties setup the key South Coast meetings with Cerritos with their 10th victory in a row Tuesday, a 6-2 thumping of last place Orange Coast.

It was MSAC's 24th win in 29 games on the season, giving coach Art Mazmanian's club the second best won-lost record in the state. Cerritos' 26-2 mark is tops, but the Mounties plan on changing that.

Sophomore righthander Charlie Fallon picked up the victory Tuesday, paving the way for freshman lefthanders Bobby Chaulk (6-1) and Jim Vallone (4-1) to face the Falcons Thursday and Saturday.

It was Fallon's fifth victory in seven appearances this year. In control most of the way — three hits in the first five innings — Fallon gave up three consecutive singles in the sixth, but pitched his way out of trouble.

Orange Coast scored single tallies in the second and third frames with the aid of MSAC errors.

Fallon finished up by allowing eight hits, while striking out eight Pirate batters.

The Mounties opened up with a single tally in the first inning and then put the Bucs out of contention with a three-run fifth inning.

Doubles by veteran centerfielder Pat Corcoran started the explosion in both frames. Corcoran scored twice and singled in the eighth to help push across MSAC's sixth run of the game.

In the fifth, Corcoran's two-bagger was followed by singles by Javier Fierro, Kevin Bell and Mark Bumstead.

The Mounties host Cerritos Thursday in a 2:30 p.m. game and then visit the Falcons in Norwalk Saturday for a game scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. In one previous encounter MSAC lost a 5-2 decision to the front-runners.

Iles leads Upland to SAL victory

By MARK GRIP
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — Steve Iles struck out 14 batters and allowed three hits en route to his fourth league win without a defeat as the Upland Highlanders beat the Pomona Red Devils 7-1, in San Antonio League baseball action at Pomona High Tuesday afternoon.

Upland allied four times in the fifth inning on two hits and two costly Devil errors to put the game out of reach.

Dale Arneson then singled home Bordato and Zamudio scored when Pomona catcher Mike Wooten couldn't handle the throw to the plate.

By the time the dust had cleared, the Scots had extended their lead to 7;0.

The Devil's only run came in the sixth inning. Jim Price led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Wooten's single to left.

Upland scored the initial run of the ball game in the second inning. Du Vall sliced a triple down the left field line and scored when Votaw followed with a double to center field.

DuVall and Votaw combined for two triples, a double, a home run, and three RBIs.

Upland rallied for two runs in the fourth on a Votaw triple, a Bordato double, and Schneekluth's single to left.

Pomona, haunted by errors, have committed 20 in the seven league games they have played.

Overshadowed by the hitting performances of DuVall (two for three) and Votaw (two-for-two), were Schneekluth (two-for-two) and Arneson (three-for-five).

Iles walked two and allowed six baserunners in picking up his fifth victory in six decisions overall.

The win keeps Upland in a tie for the SAL lead with Montclair who beat Chino, both boasting 6-1 records. Pomona's record now drops below the .500 mark at 3-4.

Damien beats vacation blues with 6-3 win

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — To save many marriages from total dissolvement, psychiatrists often recommend split vacations for husbands and wives. But split vacations for high schools are not recommended by baseball coaches as they can lead to the total dissolvement of a team.

Damien coach Matt Kolodge was expressing these same sentiments Tuesday as he watched his team get off to a sluggish start before topping Garey 6-3 on the loser's diamond.

The victory kept the Spartans right in the thick of the San Antonio League race with a 5-2 mark, one game behind co-leaders Upland and Montclair. Garey is still seeking its first league win.

Damien is the only school in the SAL that is having its Easter break this week instead of last and the Spartan players were letting their minds take a break for much of the game.

After taking a quick 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning on singles by Billy Karr, Bob Alexander and John Pignotti, in addition to two walks, Spartan starter Frank Pastore experienced some shaky fielding behind him, plus some untimely walks.

Garey's Robbie Franklin stroked a one-out triple in the bottom of the first and scored on Jerry Loftis' single. After Damien added another in the second, the Vikings tied it up with two unearned runs in the lower half of the third.

Rod Rodriquez started it off with a walk and then Franklin, by far the best Viking ball player, executed a perfect hit-and-run single to right. When the ball got past Stan Backer, Rodriquez sped home and Franklin went to third. Loftis then hit a deep drive to center to tie the game up.

But then Damien, and especially Pastore, came alive. Benefitting by a two-base throwing error by Loftis at shortstop, the Spartans scored one in the fifth and then added two more in the sixth, without getting a base hit.

Pastore really bore down after the third, giving up just three hits in the final four innings and winding up with 10 strikeouts for the game. John Pignotti had two hits and two RBI's for the winners while Alexander was also 2-3.

Damien has a tough time Friday in trying to come back from its vacation blues to host Claremont while Garey is home with Chino.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Montclair High's young head baseball coach Tom McFadden is learning not to look a gift horse in the mouth.

The Cavaliers finished the first round of San Antonio League play Tuesday afternoon tied for the lead with Upland (a 7-1 winner over Pomona) but some shabby Chino fielding aided the cause.

San Antonio

	W	L	Pct.	GBL
Montclair	6	1	.857	—
Upland	6	1	.857	—
Damien	5	2	.714	1
Chino	3	4	.428	3
Claremont	3	4	.428	3
Pomona	3	4	.428	3
Ganesha	1	6	.142	5
Garey	1	6	.142	5

Tuesday's results
Upland 7, Pomona 1
Montclair 6, Chino 0
Damien 6, Garey 3
Claremont 6, Ganesha 0

Friday's games
Pomona at Montclair, 3:15 p.m.
Claremont at Damien, 3:15 p.m.
Chino at Garey, 3:15 p.m.
Upland at Ganesha, 3:15 p.m.

Montclair played spiritless ball but the Cowboys committed seven errors and the Cavs wound up on the top end of a 6-0 unearned decision.

All six Cav runs came as the result of Chino miscues.

Montclair and Upland each improved their league slates to 6-1, while Damien, a 6-3 winner over Garey, remains a game off the pace at 5-2.

"Our attitude was really poor today," said McFadden. "I don't know if it had anything to do with our loss to Bonita in the Elks Tourney or not."

"Jim (Rawls, Chino's coach) and I were talking and we agreed that we both played like two last place teams. We're going to be in trouble if we don't get straightened out.

"It's good to win but we're going to have to get with it or we'll be in trouble," concluded McFadden.

Chino righthander Keith Mundee (1-3, 0-1) and Cav hurler Bret Jetton (5-2, 4-1) were locked in a pitcher's duel for four innings.

Mundee had allowed just two hits while Jetton had yielded a pair of infield singles to the Cowboys.

But in the fifth, Mundee was struck by the Tuesday blues.

Mike Pittman's long fly to center scored Brown with the first run of the game and Gary Baker singled home the second tally. Mike Medeiros hit a ground ball through the legs of second baseman Manny Delgado, an error, for a run. And when centerfielder Tim Derryberry threw the ball over third base the fourth run of the inning came home.

Montclair added two more unearned runs in the sixth on a walk, Larry Wallace's third straight single and two errors.

Jetton, using his fastball as a change-of-pace, kept Chino off stride and didn't allow a hit after the third. The junior southpaw, while hurling his best game of the season, allowed just two infield hits — while picking up the complete game victory.

In fact, after the third frame only two Cowboys reached base, one coming on a walk and the other via a hit batsman.

Huddleston fires Pack past Giants

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — John Huddleston hurled a three-hitter and Claremont High took advantage of five Ganesha errors to post a 6-0 win over the Giants Tuesday afternoon in a San Antonio League baseball contest.

Huddleston set the Giants down without a run, fanning five and walking only two. The Wolfpack defense backed him with an errorless effort afield.

In contrast, Ganesha had its problems on defense, as five Giant errors led to four unearned runs.

Claremont got all the runs they were to need on the afternoon in the top of the first.

After Todd Ervin grounded out, Harry Brown, Dave Poling and Tony Janusz struck for consecutive singles which, combined with two Ganesha miscues, accounted for two runs.

The Pack scored again in the second, as Kent Stalwick singled, stole second, and scored as Giant hurler Paul Madrigal threw wildly on a pickoff attempt at second base.

Huddleston survived the only real Ganesha offensive threat in the second. Tracy Cowger and Paul Madrigal led off the frame with singles, but Huddleston bore down to retire the next three Giant batters. The only other Ganesha hit in the contest was Jerry Ankeny's double in the sixth.

Claremont picked up another unearned tally in the fourth to take a 4-0 lead and send Madrigal to the showers.

Mark Allen drew a two-out walk, and went to second as Madrigal also issued a walk to Ervin. Brown then singled to left, and Allen scored when Cowger dropped the relay throw from the outfield.

Huddleston's RBI single made it 5-0 in the fifth, and the Wolfpack closed out scoring on Ervin's booming triple to right and Brown's sacrifice fly in the sixth.

The win gets Claremont back in the winning track in SAL action, as last year's defending league champs are now 3-4 in loop play. Ganesha sags to a 1-6 SAL mark.

Both clubs have tough assignments Friday. Claremont will travel to Damien while Ganesha plays host to Upland.

By JOHN KEEPERS
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — Bill Bumstead allowed only one hit in five innings and reliever Steve Aguilera allowed two in the final two innings as Bonita High shut out Ontario 11-0 Tuesday at the Bearcat's home field.

Bumstead has now been scored upon only three times in the last 43 innings he has pitched, all of those coming against Cabrillo in the Elks Tournament.

Bonita scored its 11 runs on 10 hits for their seventh league win. They received a little help from the Ontario defense, though, as the Jaguars committed eight errors causing four of those 11 to be unearned.

Lead-off man Richard Ortega had a busy afternoon as he got on base three times on a single, an error, and a fielder's choice and came around Drake walked, advanced to to score all three times for Bonita. In the first inning, he stole second and after Harold third on an attempted pick off on Drake, which was dropped by the first baseman. He scored on Jay Lacheur's ground out to start the romp.

Lacheur was one of three Bearcats to pick up two runs batted in, his second coming in the next inning when he squeeze-bunted in Ortega. Matt Covington picked up his two on one single which he stroked in the wide-open fourth with the bases loaded. Marty Schroedter got one in the first on a sacrifice fly and in the sixth on a single.

Bumstead, who helped his cause with a double and a single and scoring a run, looked as if he would have another no-hitter until the fifth when Tim Vacario looped Ontario's first into center. But that was all they were able to do against the Bearcat ace as he averaged 10 pitches an inning.

Bob Fry got the Jaguars' second in the sixth after two outs but saw the inning ended by a looking strike-out. Mike Phelps, who pinch hit for John Koopman, got the final tag in the next inning, but the superb Bonita defense ended the game with a double play to keep them atop the Hacienda League — one game ahead of Alta Loma who has a 6-2 record after their victory over Gladstone.

The Bearcats will hit the road Friday to meet the Braves in a crucial game. H.P. Drake is scheduled to start.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It doesn't look like Ganesha High will have any trouble winning its second consecutive San Antonio League track title this year.

The Giants have only one SAL meet left on its regular season schedule, and that will be next week against Claremont.

Pomona High removed any thoughts that Claremont might upset Ganesha by handing the host Wolfpack a convincing 72-46 defeat Tuesday afternoon.

The Red Devils strengthened their hold on second place in the league with a 5-1 record, while Claremont dropped from third to fifth and evened its record to 3-3 in SAL action.

The Devils kept their distance throughout the meet, never really being threatened.

Since Ganesha already Faced Damien before the Easter vacation, the Giants and Spartans are taking this week off in SAL competition. Meanwhile, two more track meets are scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

Chino will be hosting Upland in what should be an interesting battle between the two West End schools, while Montclair will visit Garey. Both meets are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. starts.

Over in the Hacienda League, defending league champion San Dimas will host Gladstone, Walnut will travel to Alta Loma, and Bonita will head for Sierra Vista. Those meets are also scheduled to begin at 3:15 p.m.

There were some interesting confrontations in the Pomona-Claremont meet.

The first one appeared in the first event of the day when Pomona's Andre Hall and Claremont's Bruce Abraham battled in the 120 high hurdles. Hall held the top mark in the highs in the valley at 14.3 seconds, and won with ease against Abraham with the same time.

They met again in the 180 lows, but this time Abraham gave his opponent a little tougher time. They finished in a dead heat for first place in 20.0 seconds.

The other big confrontation came in the distance events, where Pomona's Ed Davila went up against Claremont's Gary Ardrey. They first met in the 880, where Davila came out on top with a winning time of 2:06.9.

They met again in the two mile run, and again Davila won the event ahead of the Claremont distance man — posting a time of 10:04.9.

One of Claremont's bright spots was in the pole vault, where Jon Powers topped his best height of the season at 14-4. He took a shot at the school record (14-9), but failed to clear it in his three attempts.

Although it was somewhat of a romp, Pomona could only sweep one event — the long jump. The Red Devils' Garry Honest captured the event, with teammates Art Hodges and Jerome Holliman taking second and third.

To top things off, Pomona coasted to an easy victory in the mile relay when Claremont failed to field a team for the final event of the day.

The winner of Thursday's Chino-Upland matchup will claim sole possession of third place in the SAL with a 4-2 record behind Pomona and Ganesha.

Chino should be tough in the sprints, highlighted by sophomore Jayson Law and senior Don Cossey. But Upland, behind Steve Scott, should dominate the middle distances and the distance races. The distance men from Upland to watch should be Steve Lucero in the mile and Frank Guevara in the two mile.

San Dimas could cinch the Hacienda League title Thursday, providing the Saints win and Ontario upsets Royal Oak.

Some of the San Dimas athletes to keep an eye on will be quarter miler Dan Hitchens, half mile Jim Ratcliff, miler Frank Diaz, two miler Kevin Kellogg, hurdler Shelley White and pole vaulter Tony Atkinson.

SPATULA SPOONBREAD

Bit of this, bit of that in this stew

In the days of make-do-or-do-without, women faithfully saved, collected and traded scraps of fabric from the makings of the family's clothing. Then they worked meticulously piecing together these patches of gingham and calico to make decorative quilts and pillow coverings. Hence, this dexterous crafts was called "patchwork."

Since women have been adept at dovetailing chores for a long time, often a stew simmered while this sewing was done. This hearty dish also represented a patchwork of sorts reflecting the cook's creativity in combining bits of this and that with a personal touch to make a pleasing product.

Patchwork artistry lives on in both needlecraft and cooking. Stews, like those patchwork quilts, are in again. They're especially popular these days when frugal cooks look for both old and new ways to keep food costs in line. For a stew can mean eating well without straining the budget.

Here's the recipe for an especially savory stew — a culinary patchwork of cubes of beef and pieces of turnips, onions, radishes and beans. Just as in pieces needlework, the colors of beef and vegetables fashion an eye-catching combination, while flavors blend in delicious harmony. The piquant gravy that sauces the garden cluster is the result of fortifying that great beef flavor with a bit of soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and caraway seed. Dredging the beef cubes in flour and browning them makes for full color and flavor development.

With generously ladled servings of stew, little else is needed. Noodles accompanying the stew will utilize the tasty gravy fully and satisfy hearty appeties. A salad of fresh greens and warm bread make fine stew companions. Try whole wheat or, for another show of culinary creativity, make your own pumpkin bread. Coconut custard pie completes the meal with complimentary texture and taste.

PATCHWORK BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef for stew, cut in 1½-inch pieces
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1½ cups water
2 medium-sized onions, diced.
6 medium-sized turnips, pared and halved
12 radishes
¾ pound green beans
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teasapoon caraway seed

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge beef in seasoned flour, reserving any extra flour, and brown in lard or drippings in a Dutch oven. Pour off drippings and sprinkle meat with any reserved flour. Add water and onion, cover tightly and cook slowly for 1 hour. Add turnips, radishes, green beans, vinegar, soy sauce, sugar and caraway seed. Bring to boil, reduce heat and cook slowly 45 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: 1 can (16 ounces) green beans, drained, can be substituted for fresh beans, if desired.

Spatula Spoonbread could be a favorite

Putting all your eggs in one basket is wise planning when the result is a one-dish meal like Brown 'n Serve Sausage Topped Spatula Spoonbread. Only syrup and your favorite fruit sauce or compote need to be added to make an easy brunch or supper menu.

Variety is easy since there are many flavors of Brown 'n Serve Sausages. You can choose from original, country kitchen, bacon and sausage, smoke, Italian, seasoned hot or maple. Each has the added seasoning characteristic of its flavor name.

When making the spatual spoonbread, you may want to combine two flavors of sausage. Place one flavor on half the batter and another flavor on the other half; or alternate the flavors so that each 2-sausage serving combines two flavors.

Sausages of all of the flavors have the same convenient preparation and only need to be browned and heated through since they are fully cooked before packaged. The frozen links take about 7 minutes, while the thawed ones need only 5 minutes. Each 8-ounce package contains 10 links.

SPATULA SPOONBREAD

2 packages (8 ounces each) brown and serve sausage links
4 cups milk
2 cups yellow cornmeal
½ stick (¼ cup) margarine, melted
1 ½ teaspoons salt
6 eggs, separated
4 teaspoons sugar
Maple flavored syrup

Lightly brown sausages. In a double boiler, heat milk to boiling point. Gradually add cornmeal, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add melted margarine and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Blend some of hot cornmeal mixture into egg yolks then return all to the cornmeal mixture. Beat egg whites with sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold beaten egg whites into cornmeal mixture Pour into greased 15-½ by 10-½ by 1 inch jelly roll plan. Place browned sausage links on top. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with maple flavored syrup.

Sal soda takes off the finish

A good way to remove old finish from furniture, including antiques, is to scrub first with a strong solution of sal soda concentrate. Then scrape or, if it's soft wood, use steel wool.

Window cleaner shines shoes

Meatless; still tops in protein

A meatless main dish seems to be the order of the day in many households. One that has plenty of protein oomph to it is a Cheesy Tuna Pie. This is a stretch dish that goes a long way when served with a hearty green salad and fresh fruit or a baked fruit dessert.

CHEESY TUNA PIE

1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
4 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
2 cans (about 7 ounces each) tuna, well-drained and flaked
9 -inch baked pie shell
Tomato wedges
Parsley

In bowl, combine soup, eggs, milk, onion and hot pepper sauce. Stir in tuna. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Garnish with tomato and parsley if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Quickie lunch nice enough for company

"Please join us for lunch."

If this invitation has slipped from your lips before you realized what you were doing, don't panic, because there is something to serve! That something is an elegant looking platter of asparagus pears, either fresh or frozen. They're served with poached eggs and an elegant cheese sauce.

Preparation time for this treat is under 30 minutes. The result is a delightful spring-like combination of egg, cheese sauce, bread and vegetable, a meal by itself. Should you like, add a salad, as easy-do combination of orange and grapefuit segments topped with cottage cheese or sherbet.

All of this offers a light-hearted combination ideal for Lent, be it for guest or a light supper for the family. It's a well-balanced meal with all four of the food groups represented to give a satisfying meal in a minimum of flurries for getting it all together.

ASPARAGUS WITH POACHED EGG AND CHEESE SAUCE

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon onion salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
4 eggs
4 slices buttered toast
1 pound fresh asparagus or 1 package (10 ounces frozen asparagus spears
Paprika or minced parsley, if desired

In a 1-quart saucepan melt butter; blend in flour, salt, pepper and onion salt. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Add prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Remove from heat; stir in Cheddar Cheese until melted. If necessary, return to low heat to finish melting cheese. (Do not boil.) Keep warm. (Yield: 1½ cups.)

Poach eggs. Cook asparagus. Top each slice of buttered toast with ¼ of the asparagus spears. Arrange poached egg on asparagus. Cover with ¼ cup of cheese sauce; sprinkle with paprika or minced parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Fix-ahead dessert has prune taste

A light, fix-ahead dessert comes in the colorful form of a Prune Marmalade Mold. the combination of prune juice, orange marmalade and lemon juice with whipped cream gives this just the right tartness to offset a heavy meal, leaving the sweet tooth satisfied in a most refreshing way.

PRUNE MARMALADE MOLD

1½ cups prune juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
1 package (3 ounces) lemon gelatin
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Heat prune juice with lemon juice and orange marmalade. When just at boiling pour over gelatin. Divide gelatin mixture and pour 1-3rd in top of 4-to-5-cup mold. Cool remainder until mixture mounds on spoon. Divide gelatin in 2 parts. Whip 1 part and fold into whipped cream and add to mold. Add remaining gelatin mixture to form final layer. Makes about 6 servings.

Keep pie crust makings cool

Your pie crust will be easier to roll and will be crisper if you always chill all ingredients before using.

Steak stew saves time and energy

COLORFUL BEEF STEAK

2 pounds beef top round steak
½ pound green beans
½ pound carrots
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon each sugar and salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 (10 ¾-ounce) can condensed tomato bisque soup
½ soup can water

Have butcher cut steak into 3 thin slices. Cut these in pieces the length of a whole green bean. Snap ends off beans. Cut carrots in strips the size of the beans. Blanch vegetables tender crisp in boiling water and cool quickly in cold water.

Arrange bundles of carrots and beans in center of beef. Sprinkle with lemon peel mixed with sugar, salt and pepper. Roll up and secure with picks. Brown on all sides in butter. Add soup and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Slice rolls into thirds and arrange vegetable side up on Brown Rice. Spoon sauce over. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Lemon keeps odor down

You won't get as much smell from cooking salmon if you first cover the fish with lemon juice and refrigerate it for about an hour.

Remove tops before storing

Radishes won't go soft on you so quickly if you cut off the tops before storing.

Want to Know the Honest Truth About Ground Beef?

IT'S THIS:

Nobody can guarantee its exact fat content.

There's been lots of talk lately about the fat/lean ratio in ground beef. So why not label each package. Contains X% of fat? Let us tell you why.

We've been making ground beef just about as long as anyone and we know there's no way to make two batches that are exactly alike. Two samples taken from the same batch (or even the same package) can differ in ratio of fat to lean. Even with meticulous care in selecting ingredients, there are variations in fat/lean ratio. Even with our moist modern grinding and mixing equipment. Even with use of the best available fat-measuring devices.

Yet we know our customers want and expect us to provide them with a choice of ground beef products to meet their varying preferences, tastes and budgets. After long and careful consideration, we have concluded that we can best meet our customers need for variety by offering just two ground beef products—REGULAR and PREMIUM. We make both kinds from fresh chunks of beef. We prepare both kinds with equal care to maintain the top quality which has helped earn our fine meat reputation.

Our REGULAR is made the way we believe most families prefer their ground beef. It contains enough fat to assure full juiciness in the cooked meat. It makes marvelous hamburgers, meat loaves, meat balls, spaghetti sauce, Salisbury steak and other delicious dishes.

Our PREMIUM is made to please families that want a leaner ground beef. It shrinks less in cooking and makes wonderful ground beef dishes of all kinds—plain and fancy.

Why not try both kinds and see which is preferred by the folks at your house? (You might even want to make a mix with some of each.) The famous Safeway money-back guarantee applies, of course, to our ground beef as to all of our other products.

As Selma sees it

Let mirror decide if you're too heavy

DEAR SELMA:

I am a size 40 but don't feel fat even though I know I'm overweight. I am being urged by friends to diet as I'm only 21 years old, quite pretty, popular, with a good sense of humor. When I look into a full-length mirror, I really think I look good. With this attitude, should I diet? I do love cookies and ice cream.—Miss R.V.

Dear Miss R.V.:

I have found that in the life of every overweight person there is a moment of truth. A time when the excuses for being fat have worn out, when all the delays in shedding pounds have been exhausted and when there is no recourse but to lose weight. The thin person inside of you is waiting for your moment of truth to arrive. Do yourself a favor. The next time you indulge in cookies and ice cream, eat them standing nude in front of a full-length mirror. If you still think you look good, forget dieting.

DEAR SELMA:

I really watch my food intake all week and do beautifully. Then comes the weekend and I really have food orgies and gain whatever I've lost plus. Any words on weekends? — Miss L.E.

Dear Miss L.E.:

I used to say Saturday and Sunday were "dirty words." However, weekends are a wonderful opportunity to get thin. They come in little two day packages and two days of proper food intake can make a difference on the scale. More than that, you know you've had a good weekend which gives you the courage and desire for the rest of the week. Try for seven perfect days.

Heart hints

Slim down teen-ager with his favorites

Help your overweight teenager reduce by giving him pizza, says the Los Angeles County Heart Association (LACHA).

Your child is more likely to modify his eating habits if he can have some of his favorite foods, including tacos, pizza, milk shakes, and cakes, says LACHA.

Who knows, you may be so successful with this approach that the whole family may start thinking slim.

Here are some trimmed down recipes that are low in saturated fat and cholesterol to meet Heart Association recommendations.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIZZA

TO MAKE SAUCE: Put contents of one 1-pound can (No. 303) stewed tomatoes with 1 medium chopped onion and 2 stalks celery sliced crosswise in a saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon soft margarine and ½ teaspoon ground oregano and stir. Cook slowly until it is of spreading consistency.

TO MAKE PIZZA: Split English muffins and spread each with margarine. Spread with pizza sauce. Add mushrooms. Add cottage cheese and bake in oven until cottage cheese is melted at 375 degrees.

Tacos and tostadas are favorites with many Southern California families. Your favorite recipe for tacos can be modified with the following changes to reduce the calories and saturated fats: Simply substitute a part-skimmed milk mozzarella cheese for the topping and use very lean ground meat for your filling. Brown the meat in a teflon pan without fat. Instead of frying the tortillas in fat, dip them lightly in oil and hang them over the rack in oven. Brown for ten minutes at 375 degrees. Don't overcook or they will be too brittle.

BEEF TOSTADAS

Beef mixture

1 onion, chopped
1 pound lean ground beef
2 whole canned tomatoes, drained
oregano, chili powder and garlic, to taste

Saute onion in 1 tablespoon of oil. Add ground beef and cook until meat loses its red color. Drain off the fat that accumulates. Add tomatoes and seasoning, and cook for minute or two. Cover tortillas with ground beef mixture, top with grated mozzarella and grill under broiler. Serve with shredded lettuce and taco sauce.

When preparing the tortillas for these tostadas dip them in oil and bake at 350 degrees until slightly crisp.

Here is a milkshake that could be included in any reducing diet. You can eat this one with a spoon if you beat it longer in the blender, and you can freeze it to make ice cream.

MILKSHAKE

2-3rds cup powdered nonfat milk
4 ice cubes
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1 capful vanilla
6 tablets sucaryl (use sugar substitute to taste)

Mix all ingredients in a jar and shake well until foamy. Remove ice cubes and enjoy. If you have a blender, place all ingredients in blender and mix until foamy.

STRAWBERRY: omit coffee, add 5 mashed strawberries and shake.

BANANA: mash one banana, add to mixture and shake.

CHOCOLATE: everybody's favorite, but it contains saturated fat. You can substitute cocoa with the Heart Association's blessing, but you will have to experiment to find the amount to suit your family's taste.

Try this white cake with a topping made of pureed apricots from the baby food department. If you want thick sauce, cook it a little while until some of the liquid is reduced. Applesauce with cinnamon is another good low-calorie topping. These fruit sauces make excellent syrup substitutes to serve on pancakes or waffles.

WHITE CAKE

2½ cups sifted cake flour
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 egg whites
¾ cup sugar
½ cup corn oil
1 cup nonfat milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix and sift together flour, ½ c. sugar, baking powder and salt. In a large bowl, beat egg whites until slightly mounded when beater is raised; gradually beat in ¾ c. sugar andcontinue beating until mixture stands in firm peaks.

Make a well in the dry ingredients; add oil and 2-3rds cup of milk. Blend, beat 100 strokes, or until batter is smooth. Add remaining milk and vanilla, blend and beat an additional 100 strokes. Pour this mixture slowly into the meringue gently folding until completely blended. Fold, do not stir. Turn into two 9-inch oiled and paper-lined pans; cut through with spatula to remove bubbles. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Cake may also be baked in 13" x 9" x 2" oblong pan at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or baked as cup cakes at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes.

The whole world battling prices

Americans aren't the only ones faced with high food costs. Japanese, for example, now spend $40 a in a week to buy what cost them $26 a year ago.

A pound of bacon, averaging $1.15 in this country in late August, cost $3.44 in Japan; $2.63 in France and $2.57 in Germany, according to figures compiled by the New York Times in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Emphasis everywhere is on economy . . . ways to stretch the food dollar. At the same time, there is concern that diets should not suffer from a nutrition standpoint.

High-carbohydrate foods are taking on new meaning, since they contain protein and other vitamins and minerals. They can be used, therefore, to stretch meat meals . . . or, if properly combined with other nonmeat proteins, can be served in place of the more expensive meats.

Rice and potatoes are two prominent members of the carbohydrate family. And, while the cost for both of these items is increasing, too, rice remains the best buy, judging from figures just released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Comparing national average prices for January and July, the Bureau says that rice (regular milled white rice) went up only 2.8 cents a pound.

Potatoes, on the other hand, rose 7.78 cents per pound during the same period, almost doubling in cost to 4.53 cents per half cup serving.

On a cost per serving basis, white rice now runs only 1.86 cents per half cup serving. (The national average price per pound of regular milled white rice in July was 27.5 cents, according to BLS.)

In addition to being an excellent source of carbohydrate, rice also is rich in B complex vitamins, low in fat, and can provide up to 9 per cent of all the iron needed daily.

Bet this is a new one for you: Sauerkraut Salad Almondine!

This is a great accompaniment to pork roast or pork chops, both of which are less expensive than the better cuts of beef or lamb in many markets.

It is good, too, with baked canned ham or luncheon meat. The toasted almonds really dress it up, even though you don't need to use a lot of them.

You might toast the almonds in the oven while the pork is roasting; or, if you prefer, you can do them quickly in a fry pan on top of the stove. In either case, use a dry pan for toasted almonds, a lightly oiled or buttered pan when a recipe calls for roasted almonds — unless, of course, you purchase slivered almonds already roasted.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD ALMONDINE

1. cups drained sauerkraut
1 chopped or thinly sliced apple, preferably red-skinned and unpeeled
2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion
1 teaspoon caraway seed
½ cup yogurt
¼ to ½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salad seasoning
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
2 to 4 tablespoons sliced or slivered almonds, toasted

Rinse sauerkraut in cold water; drain well and chill thoroughly. Combine with apple, sliced green onions and caraway. Mix yogurt with sugar, salad seasoning and pepper. Spoon over sauerkraut and toss to combine thoroughly. Arrange in salad bowl or individual salad plates. Just before serving, sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Fish that's a bargain goes here

If you are looking at every recipe these days with an eye toward food costs, you might keep in mind that you can adapt this recipe to any white fish bargains you may come across in your market — or to whatever catch your own personal fisherman brings home from a nearby lake or stream.

If you are trying to do everything possible to conserve energy, you can use this recipe as the basis of an energy-saving oven meal. Baked potatoes would take a little more oven time, depending on size, than the recipe; but you might also consider a rice casserole or a frozen potato or rice product that merely needs to be heated. And remember: You can do green vegetables in the oven, too. The frozen vegetables in butter sauce are especially apt for an oven dinner featuring this almond-elegant baked fish.

BAKED FISH WITH ALMOND SAUCE

3 pounds white fish (red snapper, bass, rock cod, or other fish—whole, piece slices, or fillets)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons salad oil
3 to 4 tablespoons white table wine

ALMOND SAUCE

¾ cup whole or about 1 cup ground blanched almonds
2 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons French-style mustard
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Lemon slices or wedges

Trim fish of fins, tails, gills, and any sharp barbs. (Some sea bass such as striped bass is better if skinned.) Rub fish with salt and pepper. Mix oil with 2 tablespoons of the wine. Spoon over fish. Bake about 30 minutes in 350-degree oven or until fish is done, basting two or three times with the rest of the wine.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce: Grind almonds, about ¼ cup at a time, in electric blender or grind in manual grinder. Mash the egg yolks, chop the whites. Combine eggs with ground almonds, mustard, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. About 10 minutes before fish is done, spoon sauce over fish. When sauce is hot and fish is done, spoon pan juices over the fish and the sauce. Garnish with lemon. Makes 6 servings.

Dollar still has some use

If you're caught without a ruler for a simple measuring job, it helps to know that a dollar bill is exactly six ⅛ inches long.

Economic law holds good in setting prices of food

By CLAYTON YEUTTER
Asst. Sec. of Agriculture, New York

If any of us had forgotten the basic economic fact that tight supplies of any commodity mean higher prices, our trips to the gasoline pumps during the last few weeks should have reminded us

Yet, we continually dismiss supply and demand factors when we think about food prices. We look for simple answers, and someone usually gives them to us.

But the fact is that no one has yet found a way to repeal the law of supply and demand for any product. Any temporary gains that might be felt usually prove costly in the long run.

For 40 years, we have had government programs in this country to deal with the problem of grain surpluses. None of these legislative maneuvers has ever been fully successful. From 1930 to 1970, 21 million people left farming because they could make a better living elsewhere. No government program, no matter how complex, could make it possible for farmers to earn incomes equal to the nonfarm population while we had surpluses of farm products — in spite of the fact that farm commodities are essential.

In most countries, grains are a primary food. Here, we eat some directly, but usually consider them more important as livestock feed — grains fatten our beef, hogs, lambs, and poultry.

But, since grain is food or translates to food, any sizeable shift in the overall world supply or demand for grains results in significant impact in prices at the grocery store.

We have recently seen a number of factors in the supply-demand picture which have unsettled food prices. During 1972, world grain production dropped because of bad weather. Even more important, a combination of demand factors came to a head, increasing the demand for United States grains. Also, a cycle of worldwide inflation is now adding to the problem of rising food prices.

In such a time of price instability, people look for ways to regain stability. The question arises again as to whether our stocks of grains — and therefore, food prices — might be stabilized by setting up some sort of artificial control mechanisms. We learned last year that price controls on food are counter-productive — instead of more food, we get less food produced and higher prices — or empty shelves — in the longer pull.

Right now, we think we are in a turnaround in the supply and demand for agricultural products. We must guard against the temptation to tamper with free marketing.

Today's retail beef prices are an example of what can go wrong with price tampering. The price freeze on beef last summer resulted in fewer cattle being placed on feed for slaughter this spring. The temporary controls garbled the market signal to producers. Feeders consequently cut potential supplies of marketable beef instead of expanding them.

Let's not make the same type of mistake with grains.

There is little doubt that the long-term demand for all agricultural products will grow as the world population increases — but the recent siege of inclement weather in major food-producing countries has distorted the production picture and probably made the situation seem more pressing than it really is. An especially heavy strain has been placed on American grain stocks.

Let's examine each of the factors on the supply side and the demand saide and try to see what has happened. Then let's investigate some of the possible suggestions for moderating food costs and see what potential trade-offs might be involved if such moves were to be taken.

The supply side

The largest single factor in the tight supply situation and chaotic market conditions of the past 18 months has been bad weather. During 1972, total world grain production was down 3 per cent from the preceeding year. This was in contrast to the recent trend that has yielded annual increases of 3 per cent.

In 1972:

— Soviet grain production dropped sharply due to winter kill and a dry summer.

— Australia's grain production was crippled by drought.

— West Africa suffered from a continuing drought.

— South Africa's feed grain production was cut sharply because of dry weather.

— Rice production was down in Indonesia, Thailand, and throughout Southeast Asia because of dry weather.

— The Philippine rice and corn crops were reduced by drought and typhoons.

— Changing weather caused a shift in the ocean current off the coast of Peru. The anchovy catch was reduced dramatically, and the world lost a major source of protein meal for feeding livestock. The deficit had to be largely made up from American soybean stocks.

In 1973, the situation improved a good deal, but weather continued to cause some problems.

— Pakistan was hit by the worst flooding of its 26 year history.

— Drought in Japan severely damaged vegetable crops, rice, and fruit.

— Widespread dryness cut crop yields in eastern Mediterranean countries. The biggest loss occurred in Turkey where wheat yields were down 15 per cent.

— The worst drought of the century continued to sear a broad, dry band across North Central Africa for the fifth straight year.

— Dry weather also affected the Philippines and New Zealand.

But even with all of these troubles, world grain production recovered toward the trend line with an increase of 6 per cent over 1972. Record crops of wheat, corn and soybeans in the United States, and a bumper crop of grain in the Soviet Union had much to do with this recovery. The ability of the world's farmers to bounce back from disaster is amazing.

The demand side

Three major factors combined to increase demand for American grains during the last two years.

— Economic growth in almost every country has added to consumer buying power and demand for imported foods.

— World population continues to grow.

— Currency realignments have occurred which make U.S. grains from 13 to 20 per cent more attractive to foreign buyers. These same currency realignments have also raised the price of the food we import, but at the same time, they have added to the power of American industry to compete overseas.

The big story has been the increase in purchasing power, both internationally and domestically. There has been a tremendous boom in the U.S. economy coupled with the increased purchasing power in the developed countries, and in the developing countries as well. Cash incomes for people of other nations has been increasing at the rate of three to four percent per person per year. That's measured in constant dollars, adjusted for both inflation and population growth, so it represents real buying power, not just statistical juggling.

Another way of looking at buying power is through per capita Gross National Product. Between 1960 and last year, the United States increased its per capita GNP by 40 per cent. But 30 other countries did even better. Pakistan, Mexico, and the whole of Western Europe were among them. Korea, Taiwan, Spain, and Greece all doubled their per capita GNP's in the same period. Japan tripled hers.

Those figures represent money in the hands of consumers — hard, cold cash — and one of the first things those consumers want when they start earning money is more and higher quality food. Typically, as incomes rise, people eat less starchy foods and begin eating more livestock, dairy, and poultry products. Between 1961 and 1971,

'The Great Gatsby' dinner gives party nostalgia kick

The country is being swamped with nostalgia in new movies and TV shows, on records, in 1920s through 1950s — style clothing and make-up. And we seem to be enjoying the experience. Latest in the "It was a good time, it was the best time" ventures in the refilming of the F. Scott Fitzgerald classic, "The Great Gatsby." His time, for many, was the greatest time. Those who want to recapture the era in an at-home party can take a cue from Nick's party for 500 guests seen in the current film. The elaborate 50-foot-long banquet tables in the movie do reflect parties of the era, with three-foot lobster trees, crown roasts, Coq au vin, suckling pig, carved watermelon baskets, planked salmon, sardines, duck, turkey galantine and the like and Ballantine's scotch, drunk neat in those relatively icecubeless days.

The kitchen used is that of The Breakers in ⅞ Newport, Rhode Island, the historic mansion similar to the settings of F. Scott Fitzgerald's own glamorous characters. Party preparations started at 7 a.m. and filming began at 7 p.m. and continued until 4 a.m. for two frenetic weeks.

For those who want to have a mini-Gatsby party here is a Steak and Kidney Pie and Egg, Salmon, Asparagus Salad, plus authentic Automobile and Old Pepper drinks from the era.

STEAK AND KIDNEY PIE

1 one-pound beef kidney
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ cup bacon drippings
2 teaspoons salt
10 small white onions, about ¼ pound
1 pound diced chuck
1 pound diced pared potatoes
Plain pastry for single crust

Split kidney and remove cores, tubes and membranous covering. Soak 30 minutes in 1 quart cold water with vinegar added. Drain, dice and brown kidney in 2 tablespoons bacon fat. Barely cover with water and add I teaspoon salt. Simmer slowly until tender, about 30 to 45 minutes. Add water as needed to cover kidney with liquid. Cut onions in halves or quarters and saute in remaining fat until slightly browned.

Add diced meat and remaining salt and continue cooking over moderate heat, stirring frequently for 20 minutes or until meat is nicely browned. Meanwhile, cook potatoes until tender in just enough boiling salted water to cover. Add kidney and potatoes with their cooking water to the diced meat. Thicken gravy if desired. Turn into an 8-inch casserole. Cover with plain pastry. Cut vents in several places to let steam escape and bake in 425-degree oven for about 20 minutes or until crust is nicely browned. Serve piping hot. Makes 5 servings.

EGG, SALMON, ASPARAGUS SALAD

6 ounces smoked salmon
5 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup mayonnaise
salt to taste
lettuce
6 tender asparagus spears
2 tablespoons finely cut chives

In a small mixing bowl, peel and dice cooked eggs. Add celery, mayonnaise and salt to taste. Mix lightly, Place on lettuce-lined individual salad plates. Garnish with strips of salmon and thinly sliced asparagus spears and chives. Chill. Makes 5 servings.

AUTOMOBILE

1-3rd scotch
1-3rd dry gin
1-3rd sweet vermouth
1 dash orange bitters

Stir well with ice and strain into glass.

OLD PEPPER

1 and 1-3rd jiggers scotch
Juice of ½ lemon
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili sauce
2 dashes Angostura Bitters
1 dash Tabasco Sauce

MARBLED MILK CHOCOLATE CAKE

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Using solid shortening or margarine, grease and flour 12-cup fluted tube pan. In large bowl, blend 1 package yellow cake mix, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1 cup dairy sour cream, an 8-ounce package softened cream cheese and 3 eggs. Beat 2 minutes at highest speed. In small bowl, blend 1 package creamy milk chocolate or fudge frosting mix and 1-3rd cup lukewarm water. Beat 2 minutes at high speed. Remove 1 cup frosting and drop over batter in 5 or 6 places. Cover remaining frosting and set aside. With mixer on low, swirl frosting into batter, turning bowl three times. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 55 or 60 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean. Cool upright in pan for 30 minutes, then turn onto serving plate. Cool completely. Stir 1 or 2 tablespoons cream or milk into remaining frosting to spreading consistency. Spoon over top of cake. Garnish with nuts.

Imagination is the only limit to salad variety

Nowhere else in the world has the art of salad-making achieved the high level of variety and interest that it has in the United States. Even so, there are millions in this great country who rarely eat salads, or who confine themselves to lettuce alone or "mixed greens" and perhaps one or two other recipes.

When internationally renowned British Cook Maurice Moore-Betty arrived in the United States, he became fascinated with Americans' enthusiasm for salads, and began experimenting.

Exponent of quality, simplicity, and handsome presentation of small three-course meals with a minimum of dishes for family or special occasions, Maurice Moore-Betty serves salad as first or main course, side dish or dessert.

Only when catering a formal banquet does he occasionally follow the European and traditional Eastern approach of serving salad after the main course.

If your salad calls for cooked vegetables, be sure they are cooked "al dente," he urges, so that they will retain a crunchiness — better for flavor, texture and retention of health-making nutrients.

"With a family of salad dressings on hand, it is easy to achieve salad variety."

Maurice Moore-Betty has created an illustrated color booklet of his salad recipes, "The 'Civilized Art' of Salad Making." The salads are made with pourable dressings. For delicious new ideas and new approaches to old favorites, write for your free copy to: Salad Recipes, P.O. Box 2145, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103. Below are two of Moore-Betty's recipes from "The 'Civilized Art' of Salad Making":

FRESH FISH SALAD

1 pound lean fish (cod, turbot, flounder, sole or other) baked or poached, boned, skinned and flaked, or 3/4 pound (2) cups) precooked, lean fish filet broken into chunks.
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1-3rd cup Russian Dressing
Paprika
Lettuce

With light hand, mix fish, parsley and dressing together until well combined.

Arrange in lettuce lined bowl, or individual lettuce cups. Dust with paprika. Makes 4 servings as main dish; 6 as appetizer.

MOLDED VEGETABLE MEDLEY

1 large carrot, diced (about 1/2 cup)
1 cup green beans, cut into 1/2 inch diagonals
1 cup peas (preferably petits pois)
1 small white onion, thinly sliced
1 stalk celery, stringed, diced (about 1/2 cup)
1/2 large cucumber, scored, diced (3/4 cup)
1/2 small green pepper, chopped fine (1-3rd cup)
3 radishes, thinly sliced
1/2 cup cold water
2 tablespoons plain gelatin
1/2 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 cup Thousand Island Dressing
Watercress

Simmer, in separate pots, carrots and beans about 3 minutes; peas, 1 minute. Blend all vegetables.

Measure cold water into small bowl. Sprinkle on gelatin to soften. Add boiling water, stirring till dissolved. Stir in lemon juice and dressing. Blend with vegetables. Chill in refrigerator until mixture begins to congeal. Spoon into six cup ring mold. Tap mold against table to ensure mold is evenly packed.

Chill until firm (3 hours or longer). Unmold. Makes 4 to 6 servings as first course; 6 or 8 as a side dish; or serve as luncheon main course.

WHAT'S IN STORE...

BAGGING BARGAINS

What is it about a sale that is so irresistible? It must be human nature to want to get something for nothing — or next to nothing. I can't believe some of the things I have lugged home in my lifetime just because they were a "good buy!"

In these days of high prices, so few things really look like bargains anymore.

One very effective way to economize in supermarket shopping is to learn to look for Alpha Beta's "Double Discounts." Today there are often 500 or more of these "super" specials in the store at a time.

But, what are these "Double Discounts?" Why are they so special? Briefly stated, they are manufacturers' temporary purchase allowances which we pass on to the customer. Let's use an example to better understand what this means. Company "A" has many cases of tomato juice in their warehouse. They want to move the product faster, so a sales representative comes to our buyers and offers to sell us tomato juice at a special price for a limited period. Certain qualifications go along with the deal. Usually, we agree to advertise the special and lower the price of the product for a specified period. We then pass along the full manufacturers' allowance to the customer, making it an Alpha Beta "Double Discount."

It's true that other stores also receive such allowances, but the difference is that no other company passes on as many allowances as Alpha Beta. Some pass along partial allowances, some use "loss leaders" (merchandise actually sold below cost) in their advertising. When loss leaders are used, other prices must be raised to make up for these losses.

At Alpha Beta, every item in the store is marked for an everyday value — a true discounting operation. Then, we add the "Double Discounts" — hundreds of them — for extra bargains. But, are they hard to find? Certainly not. Look for the special blue and red tags on the shelf. They are genuine values. Everyday low shelf prices, plus these "Double Discounts" are why we say, "You'll Like the Total Better at Alpha Beta!"

France dominates wine production

By AILEEN CLAIRE
(Fourth of a Series)

For centuries France has been called the "Queen of the Vine." Certainly the birth of the grapevine and winemaking did not begin in this "world's vineyard"; merely its heart and soul took form here.

Only members of a high-school debate team would make a moot question of France's century-old influence and domination in the wine world. French wine production is nearly one-third of the world total and at least 9 per cent of her population works in some phase of wine-growing, winemaking, and wine-marketing. Even more pleasant for the average Frenchman is the availability of his 'vin ordinaire' as a daily companion with his 'pain' and 'cafe.' The consumption of wine per capita in France is said to be 150 bottles a year, and every true Frenchman does drink wine from adolescence through senility. It is as much a part of his daily life as the American cup of coffee or cola.

A French woman reminiscing about her childhood highlighted this closeness to wine. As a Parisienne she grew up until the age of 10 enjoying the pleasant things in life, that is, a glass of wine (usually watered) with her lunch. Then the family moved to the United States and she was enrolled in a private school for young ladies in the east. Upon being served a glass of milk with her first lunch at the posh school, she related that she pounded her small fist upon the table and told the startled mistress, "I demand my glass of wine."

In contrast to this is the fact that an American consumes a mere four bottles of wine a year and the average young American probably would demand a cola or "his glass of milk" as his due.

It is strange that war plays such a part in the spread or the death of a culture. Throughout centuries the attitude of conquer or be conquered has affected the production and distribution of wine. Had it not been for the exposure of thousands of "doughboys" in World War I to French and German wines and a further diversion of the GI throughout Europe and Asia in World War II, Americans in the 1970s and 1980s would be blithely unaware, except for a very small proportion of the population, of what many a Frenchman considers part of his birthright. Travel has dramatically changed our modes of living. The interchange, in the case of the art of winemaking, is not lost on the rest of the world as far as selling French wines is concerned.

However, the wine that tourist drink while traveling in France, and for that matter in almost any country, is not necessarily the wine that is available to the wine shopper in the United States.

The chateau country of France is in the valley of the Loire River. This is an area of rolling landscape with rivers and woods still filled with fish and wild game. Many consider the Loire as being the true France, with its serene inhabitants still the most faithful to its religion and tradition. This, too, is wine country, and its carefully tended vineyards each harvest offer a variety of reds, whites, and roses. These wines generally are not great wines but do offer excellent quality and can be great buys. The Loire boasts the longest-lived French white wine, the Vouvray, fine Cabernet rose d'Anjou and the medium-dry white Sancerre. Growing in popularity in France and in America is the gay, slightly acid, fresh Muscadet.

The vineyards around the town of Pouilly-sur-Loire produce the Blanc Fume, or smoke grape. Pouilly Fume, or Blanc Fume de Pouilly, is a lively dry white wine with a spicy scent capable of a long life. A lesser wine of the area from the same grape is the Pouilly-sur-Loire. Another dry white wine is the lively, fruity Sancerre which is made in 14 parishes or towns. Usually dry and sometimes a bit acid, the best of this smooth white wine comes from the Sancerre township and bears such names as Bue and Saint-Satur. Districts of Cresancy and Verdigny also produce a creditable Sancerre, as does the village of Chavignol.

The Muscadet is an Horatio Alger story a la France. Forty years ago it was a 'vin de pays,' and today it is an inexpensive but sought-after wine especially good with fish and seafood.

Muscadet is actually the name of the vine, and the best Muscadet comes from the region of Sevres-et-Maine and from Coteaux de la Loire. At Sevres-et-Maine it is generally bottled within three months of the vintage and sold 'sur lie,' or straight from the barrel unracked. Muscadet can be very good or too soft and lacking in character. Although delicious at its best, it is unpredictable. Over-all, this is a less expensive wine worth every penny.

To many new wine drinkers the term "rose" is the ultimate in light, pinkish wine, but often they associate "rose" with the crackling Spanish or Portuguese version. France makes more than one fine "rose," one of which comes from Anjou in the Loire Valley. The one that is more properly called Cabernet Rose d'Anjou is made from the finer Cabernet de la Loire grape, the best of which can have a rather deep color. Roses are refreshing thirst-quenchers and usually drunk when young. However, authentic Roses d'Anjou will age and turn to golden-green or dark old gold with a generous bouquet. Imitations are almost colorless, often have taste of sulphur, and are more sweet because added sugar covers the use of a lesser grape or hides the blending of lesser whites and reds to make a rose. Thise from Anjou labeled Anjou Rose or Rose d'Amjou are made from the Groslot grape, which is of lesser quality than the Cabernet.

Dean favored over Nixon by more Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of those Americans polled, more believe John Dean's version of the Watergate scandal than believe President Nixon's version, a Louis Harris survey released Monday indicates.

The figures show 46 per cent of the participants in the poll think Dean has been more truthful than Nixon, and 29 per cent think Nixon has been more truthful. A fourth of those polled said they were not sure which they thought was the more truthful about Watergate.

In testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee last summer, Dean accused Nixon of knowing about the Watergate cover-up, but Nixon has denied it. Harris said just after Dean's Senate testimony a poll showed he had made a favorable impression in terms of truthfulness.

But "during the ensuing 10 months while President Nixon's credibility has sharply declined, belief in what Dean said has not diminished," Harris said. "Relatively, therefore, Nixon's chief accuser now stands as a more credible witness on the events of the Watergate coverup than the President himself."

Squash is an ancient native

The most native of all the vegetables to the United States is the squash; its seeds and rind have been found in dried state in ruins dating as far back as 2,000 B.C.

LET'S BREAK BREAD TOGETHER

Today, such noontime gatherings are largely a thing of the past. But the flavorful breads that were served are not. Our family of quality variety breads recapture that "fresh-from-the-oven" taste of the home-baked breads of a hundred years ago.

CRACKED WHEAT
This bread owes its distinctive flavor to two things. The ingredients—cracked, rather than crushed, whole wheat grits, sesame seeds and pure honey. And the baking process—it's slow baked to preserve all the flavor the ingredients contain.

HOLLAND KRUNCH
A golden-cracked top is the main taste attraction of this fine-textured loaf. We add rice flour to the unusual white flour to allow the top to crack into a crunchy crust. And we slow bake it to give it a chewy taste that's unique to say the least.

BUTTERMILK
A rich bread with a rich taste, thanks to premium buttermilk solids, a top that's split then crowned with white flour and our patient slow baking process. All Buttermilk shares with other white breads is color.

A CENTURY AGO the midday meal was a family affair. It was a time to relax and enjoy good food, company and, inevitably, delicious home-baked bread.

These are just three of the seven members of our first family of quality variety breads. Your family will also like the tastes of Dutch Dill, Bavarian Pumpernickel, French Sourdough, Up-Side-Down White and Up-Side-Down Wheat. Try one on your family the next time you all break bread together.

Economic law still rules food prices

the per capita red meat consumption in the European community went up 25 per cent. It rose 50 per cent in Taiwan and Spain, and 150 per cent in Japan.

Now consider that it takes about 7 pounds of corn to produce a pound of beef, and about 4 pounds to produce a pound of pork. You can see why economic growth and the dietary changes resulting from it has a real effect on grain demand.

During the past 6 years, world grain use has increased at an average rate of 30 million metric tons per year. Now, let's put that abstract figure into perspective. Thirty million metric tons is equal to the combined annual wheat crops of Canada, Australia, and Argentina.

Economic growth is a large part of the explanation. The other important factor is population growth. In 1950, there were about two and a half billion people in the world. Today, there are around three and three-quarters billion. By the year 2000, there will be probably be from six to seven billion. This last year, the total number of people in the world grew by 75 to 80 million.

What does all this mean as far as food prices in this country? Can world food production keep up with the demand?

Thankfully, it can in the foreseeable future. Studies show that through 1985, world food production will probably stay a little ahead of demand.

On a per capita basis, world food production has gained over population growth at an annual rate of about three-fourths of one per cent for the last 20 years. This should continue.

But to keep up with the growing need for food, particularly in the lesser developed countries where population is increasing rapidly, more production is clearly needed.

What does this mean in terms of our own agricultural production and export policies? Shall we wall off American farm production from the world's growing need; can we actually afford to take such a step? There has been talk in some circles that we should, that we should attempt to lower America's own food costs by stopping agricultural exports.

What would happen if we actually did this — how would such action affect world stability— both economic and social — if we pulled our food off the world market? What would happen in our own country?

To begin with, American farmers can still produce far more grain than this country can consume domestically. So shutting down agricultural exports would mean drastically curtailing farm production in order to avoid huge surpluses that would have to be stored at the taxapayers' expense. Farm subsidies, similar to those of the past — but far more expensive — would have to be brought into play to prevent the ruination of the farm economy. The American consumer would end up paying a good deal of his food expense through the hidden cost of subsidies, rather than through the cash register.

We would be losing valuable foreign exchange ($17.7 billion from agricultural exports in calendar 1973) at a time when imported products and goods are costing us more and more. Last year, this country's oil imports cost $9.3 billion and still we did not have all we wanted. This year, the price of crude oil has risen two to four-fold. We cannot pay for this oil and other imports if we cut off our sales of our most competitive commodities.

We need every bit of trade surplus we can get. To cut off agricultural exports would be ruinous. Any lowering of food costs would be temporary, followed by very high costs as farmers cut production, increasing their costs per bushel and per pound of food.

When it is all said and done, there are many valid reasons why food now costs more. Demand is growing, bad weather cut production in 1972, social programs such as the food stamp program have pumped billions of dollars directly into the buying power that competes in retail food stores.

Food production is part of the general economy just like any other business enterprise. If production, handling, and transportation costs rise significantly, they are eventually reflected right back into the retail prices for food.

Food is still the best buy we have in this country, and it still takes an average of less than 16 per cent of our disposable income. This is the lowest per capita food bill in the world. We want moderate food prices for consumers and decent incomes for farmers. These goals are fully consistent. Farmers now are responding to the price signals that consumers want more food by all-out production of crops.

In addition, we have lifted the import quotas on some dairy products, on beef, and on wheat to help ease the consumer's burden, and people keep eating these products. We must remember that the best cure for high prices is free prices. And we should never underestimate the power of the pricing mechamism to affect production. The higher food costs we now have are bringing forth the increased production we must have.

Beer Bisque served up in minutes

Sometimes occasions simply cryout for new recipes, for fresh ideas of foods to serve. Time is precious, appetites are keen, and a brief period of respite is especially appreciated.

Those are the times when one dish—one food that really hits the spot—is needed. But it has to be a dish which is quick, easily made, takes no advance planning yet is absolutely perfect for relaxation and renewal.

Relax. We have that dish for you. It's a bright, new unbelievably delicious Beer Bisque! It can be ready in five minutes, whether you make it for 2 or 20.

Beer Bisque belongs to a long tradition of beer soups. The difference is that this one starts with canned specialities—potato soup and tomato soup reconstituted with beer.

Serve it in mugs or cups because even the tiny pieces of potato and tomato can be easily supped.

BEER BISQUE

1 (10½ ounces) can condensed cream of potato soup
1 (11 ounces) can condensed bisque of tomato soup
1 (12 ounce) can beer
1 cup water

Combine soups and blend; gradually add beer and water; stir well. Heat until mixture bubbles, but do not boil. Lower heat and simmer gently for 5 minutes. Serve hot with popcorn garnish if desired.

Keep potatoes fresh and dry

When you have leftover cooked potatoes to store in the refrigerator, if you place them in a plastic bag with an absorbent paper napkin they'll stay dry and fresh-tasting. The napkin takes away the moisture that normally oozes from the spuds.

Over-all cooking can be trimmed

If your fuel and food bills made last winter hard work, let this spring's fancy turn food wise. For April-light fashion, trim over-all cooking.

For fresh "raw" potential, watch seasonal food peaks and processed specials. Enjoy vegetables as instant appetizers, salads, snacks. Reach for fruits, in all forms, for cholesterol, cost, and calorie savings over many cooked confections, and a nutrient bonus. Home gardeners flower in April too.

Convenience foods can actually save both cooking time and costs. No-cook canned hams are a classic. Re-style your tuna salad, and recall that the sandwich was invented for royalty. Today's "garnishes" can make even the canned bean as hot and as rich as you please. Pickle your own relishes.

Below are April food wise alerts. Watch store specials—if quality meats are featured and cooking time really counts, buy the "tender" cuts for short-cooking bonus. Shop hard, cook light. Be an early bird—have a picnic this month.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CATEGORY

Vegetable crop peaks this month include asparagus, cabbage, carrots, onions, radishes, and Mexican tomatoes. Processed vegetables will go up in cost, but frozen beans are one example of potential buys in the prepared category, compared with fresh supply. Check types, brands, grades and sizes.

Fruit crop peaks in April include some apples, bananas—which will cost more soon, Mexican cantaloupes, and grapefruit and oranges. Watch for features in canned grapefruit juice, canned blended citrus and chilled citrus juice, and frozen concentrated orange juice. Prunes should be plentiful source of premium iron nutrition. Frozen berries may be better buy this month—watch new supplies in strawberries, raspberries, and blueberries, and compare these with fresh strawberries from California and Florida.

NONMEAT PROTEINS

Mix and match in this category—pastas, grains, other food groups. Quick-cooking varieties may be worth the extra costs.

EGGS — Normal Easter price increase will be followed by relative savings. If in the 75 cent a dozen range, the economic buy is the larger size if price spread between sizes is less than 8 cents. Consider moving eggs from a soft boil or a casual scramble to an elegant souffle, an easy international casserole—depending on what else is in that oven.

SOY — Check store brands as well as new national-brand meat imitations or extenders. Soy additions may extend your meat loaf to spicy cold "pate" the next day; soy substitutes may dress up basic salads, snacks.

DAIRY — Add protein to snack beverages, easy-serve spreads, gelatines, with dry milk solids. Check heat-and-serve items such as frozen cheese ravioli for time and fuel savings. Compare costs of wheels and wedges of processed American, Danish Blue, Swiss types, over more specialized types and sliced cheeses. Consider making your own wine and cheese for a party without cooking.

NUTS — Watch for walnut and perhaps cashew values. Snack on "soynuts" and peanuts, too. Add to all courses, for "Meats" without heat, snacks with substances.

MEATS, POULTY, FISH

BEEF — April prices had been projected " quite a few cents higher"—but then some dropped like hemlines last month. If priced well, be ready—this may be temporary.

PORK — Watch imported hams—stocks were 20 per cent more abundant this January. Dollar exchange may make them even more right for your fast and fuelless functions.

POULTRY — Turkey should be seen much more this season, and the price loer! Investigate frozen porlower! Investigate frozen porlegs. Chicken broilers also offer a breath of savings—watch wholesale price drop pass-along at retail.

FISH — Start a quick family fashion in while fresh fish if your area offers these, or in whole or portioned packaged fish. Watch snack and salad potential in canned sardines—this year imports were 70 per cent higher. Consider fish stick portions as well as frozen fillets for fast and easy value.

First quarter profits down

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Hilton Hotel Corp.'s first quarter profits slipped slightly this year as tourism in Las Vegas, Nev., suffered at the height of the gasoline shortage.

Baron Hilton, owner of the international hotel chain, said Wednesday that the decline in earnings was primarily caused by the decrease in travelers to the Las Vegas resort.

"We are gratified," said Hilton, "that the energy crisis has not adversely affected our operations in general, other than in Las Vegas, where it was a contributing factor to the decline in earnings."

Revenues, he said, slipped from $91.8 million during the first quarter in 1973 to $91.2 million during the first three months of this year. Earnings per share fell from 69 cents to 58 cents.

Ladder safety

Spring fix-up and clean-up time is a good time to review safe ladder climbing rules — before you start climbing. The practices setting the scene for accidents, according to the American Ladder Institute: unbalanced climbing and-or over-reaching. Each causes a shift that could land you in the hospital —or worse.

This salad was born in Louisiana

This festive salad originated in Louisiana back in the days when oysters were an inexpensive food. Its popularity spread to the Middle West and then to the Pacific Coast.

This particular version is the adaptation of a home economist from the San Francisco Bay Area. (Two nearly identical versions appeared in an old church cookbook, the Altamont (Kansas) Methodist Episcopal Cook Book, compiled in 1908.)

If you are using the large Pacific oysters, cut them into pieces. Even when cut up, they can take a little more heat than the oysters from East Coast waters and the Gulf of Mexico, which should be barely heated through.

You'll find that the crunchy texture and rich flavor of the toasted slivered almonds is a pleasing contrast to the subtle taste and soft "mouth feel" of the oysters.

OYSTER-ALMOND SALAD

2 jars (10 ounces each) or 1 pint fresh raw oysters, Gulf, Pacific or Eastern
1 cup thinly sliced celery
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
1-3rd cup coarsely chopped sour pickles
1 cup coarsely crushed saltine crackers
3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup slivered almonds, toasted
½ cup mayonnaise

Simmer oysters in their liquor just until edges curl. Drain well and chill. (Save liquor to use for soup.) If oysters are large, cut into pieces; leave small oysters whole. Combine chilled oysters with sliced celery, seasoned salt, pickles and cracker crumbs.

Shell hard-cooked eggs; chop two and add to salad along with about 1-3rd cup of the almonds and the mayonnaise. Mix carefully; chill until serving time. Spoon mixture onto salad greens on platter. Slice remaining egg; garnish salad with egg and remaining almonds. Makes about 6 servings.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

by Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors

W. A. "BILL" SNOW, of Ontario, has become a celebrity at Betsy Ross because of the entertaining (and perceptive) cartoons he doodles on napkins while awaiting service. This is not to say that service is slow; just that he is adept at transcribing an idea with a few well-chosen lines. ED SIMONS has compiled three books of the "doodles" left in the coffee shoppe almost daily. Although he works for Rose Industrial, Metal Products Mgf., we think of BILL as an "artiste extraordinaire." Thank you, MR. SNOW, for the insights, laughs, and subtle hints.

KEVIN TAYLOR had a birthday Party at Betsy Ross #1 April 6th. Guests were RICKY, JUDY, & DANIEL GARCIA, TYRONE & ELAINE RICE, DUANE KEYS, LATONYA, ADRIENNE, BARBARA & ANDREW TAYLOR, and WELLDONE PETTIE.

Regular customers of Betsy Ross at 969 E. Holt, Pomona, may have noticed the constancy of LIANA BRAZO. She is finishing her lucky 13th year with the Company, despite the demands of a young grandson and taking care of her Mother. DIANE loves baseball, roots for the Dodgers, attends games when possible, and especially enjoys the World Series.

Pupils in the Pomona Community Nursery School, with RAE HARRIS, teacher/director, touring Pomona Valley Center Betsy Ross last month were JASON BRUCE, JAMES CARR, BRYAN & CANDY FINCH, JENNIFER KIMBALL, BRANDAN MYERS, DYLAN SHEPHARD, DARRYL SIDDEL, MICHAEL THOMPSON and BILLY WOODELL on Tuesday. Wednesday BETTY DAVENPORT showed ALLEN, LINDA & TANYA BROWN, WENDEL CHAMBLISS, DAVID CHINN, BRYAN COATS, TINA DE POLA, STEVE FOREMAN, CHARLIE GRAHAM, BILLY IVERSON, BRENDA SCOLASO, and MARIE SCOFAT through the shoppe.

SUSAN McCUTHEON recently had a tonsilectomy, and her only request was for her Mother to go down to Betsy Ross for some bubblegum ice cream! Touching.

It's a great fulfillment to be able to meet and wait on our customers, because they are so nice, but it's even a greater treat to be remembered by them with beautiful camelias like those brought us by MR. & MRS. B. PACE. We have that remember us every now and then, and we would like to take this opportunity publically to thank them." STAFF OF UPLAND COFFEE SHOPPE.

'Mr. Roberts'

Gallery Theater presents comedy of World War II

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

ONTARIO — Gallery Theater's production of "Mr. Roberts" is a rollicking presentation of the well-known comedy, giving full vent to the robust humor of the crew of the World War II freighter in the South Pacific, but also developing with sensitivity and poignance the interesting, troubled characters of serveral of the officers.

The most intriguing character on deck is The Captain, played with red-necked venom by Carl Hossler. In a waspish, insightful characterization reminiscent of James Cagney, Hossler deftly blends the pitiful pride, the rage and the anguish of the embittered man who has risen from busboy to captain of a ship and finds himself in charge of the lives of the college-boy types who have bedeviled and humiliated him in civilian life. Hossler does a savagely convincing job.

Duane Thomas handles the less-complex role of the romantic idealist, Lt. Roberts, with his customary persuasiveness. He, too, is a man torn with helpless rage, fighting to keep the crew in line, to keep them from being treated like slaves, and endlessly struggling to get into combat, to follow the convoy westward, to keep his rendezvous with death.

Shaun Fesler as the woman-hungry Ens. Pulver is exuberant and hilarious, particulary in his scenes with the captain, of whom he is terrified, and with the Navy nurse he tries unsuccessfully to seduce.

Crew members are George Walters Bill Ennis, Steve Parkes, Paul Adelson, Buck Buchanon, Joel Gossett, Vann Alton Daniels, Paul Turner, Ray Douglas and Steve Breithaupt. Bill Everton Jr. is the military policeman. They are all funny, enthusiastic and convincingly GI.

Director Mark Shipley keeps the crew moving better than the captain can. The changes of tempo are nicely though out and the mood is imaginatively varied. Technical director Loren Wilton's set is spare, evocative and versatile.

Nuclear fuel study scheduled

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has entered into contracts totaling about $12.8 million for design work and engineering studies to expand uranium enrichment capacity here and elsewhere.

The AEC has gaseous diffusion plants at Oak Ridge, Paducah, Ky., and Portsmouth, Ohio, which will be modified to boost capacity for preparing fuel for nuclear power plants which are being built or are planned for the future.

When buying eggs, if there is less than a 7 cent price spread between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, you're probably getting a better bargain by picking the larger size.

It's important to use U.S. Grade AA or A eggs for frying and poaching, while Grade B with their less thick whites and flatter yolks are good for general cooking.

Lampshade refurbishing tips given

Many lampshades are washable, particularly those made of fabric that are sewn not glued. Any trim, in color or pasted-on, should be removed or else not washed by the following method.

Refurbishing consists of filling the bathtub or dish sink with enough warm water to cover the shade. Add detergent and swish to dissolve.

First, vacuum the shade inside and out to remove surface dirt. Then immerse the shade in the water and agitate by moving from side to side and moving up and down. For stubborn dirt, rub with a well-lathered soft-bristled brush. Rinse the shade in several changes of clean water. Dip up and down.

Dry the shade by tieing a string to the middle of the frame. Then hang it over the bathtub or from a clothesline outdoors to drip dry. Or pat dry with a bathtowel.

Plastic, plastic-coated, laminated or parchment shades can be cleaned with a sponging of thick suds. To rinse, wipe with a damp cloth and dry with a clean cloth.

Saxbe concludes Patty not reluctant in robbery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General William B. Saxbe said today he has concluded that Patricia Hearst was "not a reluctant participant" in the San Francisco bank robbery Monday by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Saxbe told reporters he reached this conclusion from "the way she behaved, the number of people in the bank who observed her behavior, the testimony of witnesses and actions within the bank."

"It would appear to me she was not a reluctant person in this robbery," Saxbe said.

"It is my personal conclusion that she was not a reluctant participant," he said.

Saxbe said the SLA members are "common criminals." Asked if he believed Miss Hearst is also a common criminal, Saxbe continued, "and Miss Hearst, as a part of it."

Saxbe noted that some witnesses believed Miss Hearst, kidnaped by the SLA three months ago, was under the guns of other SLA members during the bank holdup but Saxbe did not agree that she was being forced to participate.

"It would appear to me she was not a reluctant person in this robbery," Saxbe said.

Saxbe said he was not giving any signals or orders to the FBI but he believed that if the FBI knows where the SLA members are hiding they should go in and get them.

Saxbe recalled that he had said shortly after the kidnaping that if the FBI knew where the SLA was holding Miss Hearst they should go after her.

Saxbe noted that after he made that statement, Miss Hearst's father, newspaper editor Randolph Hearst, said Saxbe's comment, "bordered on the irresponsible" and possibly endangered her safety at that time.

"As you know Mr. Hearst took a violent reaction when I said he shouldn't deal with the kidnapers," Saxbe said. "My reaction hasn't changed."

RAID NETS ARMS CACHE

Fourteen persons were arrested Tuesday when police raided a house occupied by members of the Black Panther party in Oakland in response to a complaint from a young man who said he was beaten with a pistol and bat. Shown is the large cache of weapons also seized during the raid.

12th since November

Another Zebra shooting in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A black gunman shot and killed the son of a DuPont Corp. executive Tuesday night in the latest in a series of racial killings on the streets of San Francisco.

The 12th white person to be killed since November in what police call the "Zebra" shootings was Nelson T. Shields, IV, 23, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson T. Shields III, of Greenville, Dela., a Wilmington suburb.

As in the other slayings, police could give no motive.

Shields, who graduated from Hobart College in June and spent the winter working at a ski resort near Denver, came to the San Francisco area to visit family friends two weeks ago.

He was arranging athletic equipment in the back of a borrowed station wagon when he was shot outside a house in the Ingleside district near the Pacific Ocean.

With a friend, he had gone to the house to pick up a recently purchased rug.

A witness told police he had been shot by a black man who was 5 feet, 11 inches tall and wore blue trousers and a jacket and a knit watch cap.

The witness said she had seen the man hurrying away, while zipping the jacket.

At the scene police found a shell casing from a .32 caliber pistol' the same type weapon used in 18 other such shootings.

Six persons have been wounded and the others slain.

Bank guard tells of Hearst girl's foul, abusive orders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A guard who witnessed Monday's daring bank robbery by the Symbionese Liberation Army says newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst left little doubt she would use her gun, despite reports she appeared reluctant.

His eyewitness report appeared to conflict with statements by the FBI that Miss Hearst may have been forced to take part in the robbery. The FBI reports were based on photographs taken by hidden bank cameras.

The bank guard, Edward Shea, 66, told UPI that Miss Hearst "was pretty wild, giving out vindictives and orders and all that, saying she would shoot the first guy that moved, calling everybody an m.f. and everything else."

"There was no doubt in my mind she would shoot," Shea said in an interview with KRON television. Asked why, he said, "It was her stance. Her position. It was so, uh, so tough. I heard her say she would shoot the first s.o.b. that moved or did anything out of line."

Asked whether Miss Hearst acted naturally during the robbery, Shea said, "Well, it was natural as far as a holdup is concerned, yes.

Asked whether she talked to any of the other bank robbers, Shea said, "I don't think she spoke to anybody as far as I could see."

Bank Manager James Smith said he witnessed the holdup from a tiny window in a second-floor vault in the bank.

He said he saw "these two gals with what I thought were machine guns." He said Miss Hearst "was pointing her gun in the direction of the people on the floor." Either of the women, he said, appeared to be "ready to shoot the guns."

Miss Hearst's parents returned Tuesday from a 10-day vacation in Mexico.

Asked his reaction to the holdup, Hearst said: "I feel like any father would react ... I think it's the most vicious thing I've ever seen or had happen to me.

"Up to 60 days ago, she was a lovely child, and now —60 days later —there is a picture of her in a bank with a gun in her hand. How do you think any father would feel?"

But Steven Weed, Miss Hearst's fiance, said he was certain she was "coerced" into participating in the robbery. "If ever people should sympathize with her, it is now," he told reporters outside the Hearst mansion in nearby Hillsborough.

Weed, a University of California graduate student, said his fiancee "is sick, is exhausted and humiliated by a group of people determined not to let her out of this alive."

The SLA, he said, believes "it is nothing without Patty Hearst." He added that a close look at the pictures showed she had lost weight. "It looks like she can hardly hold the gun," he said.

Pair convicted in 1972 slaying of CIM guard

LOS ANGELES — Robert Seabock was convicted of first degree murder and his co-defendant, Jean Hobson, was convicted of second-degree murder Tuesday in the ambush-slaying of a California Institution for Men Prison guard in Chino on Oct. 6, 1972.

The eight women, four men Superior Court jury returned the verdicts after nine days of deliberation. The verdicts were read by Superior Court Judge Charles C. Stratton.

The jury convicted Mrs. Hobson, 45, mother of five children, of second degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner.

Seabock, 22, of Palo Alto, identified by prosecution witnesses as the man who pulled the trigger of a gun that killed CIM guard Jesus Sanchez, was convicted of first degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner.

Mrs. Hobson and Seabock, according to testimony, participated in the ambush with Benton Douglas Burt, 31 and his wife, Andrea. The Burts were convicted last year in San Bernardino of second-degree murder.

In the ambush, prosecution witnesses, including Ronald Wayne Beaty, the CIM inmate who escaped in the ambush, said that two cars forced the state car driven by CIM Guard George Fitzgerald off the road on Edison Avenue near Euclid Avenue in Chino. The ambushers ordered Fitzgerald and Sanchez, who was in the back seat of the vehicle with Beaty, out of the car. Beaty was freed and the two guards herded back in the car. Beaty and another witness said that Seabock then fired into the car killing Sanchez and wounding Fitzgerald.

According to Seabock's and Mrs. Hobson's attorneys they will make a motion for a new trial on May 7 in Los Angeles where the defendants will be sentenced.

Currently a number of other persons, some belonging to a Maoist-revolutionary group called Venceremos, are on trial in federal courts charged with aiding and abetting and harboring Beaty.

Mrs. Grove easy winner

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — A housewife running for her first public office easily captured the First Councilmanic District post in Tuesday's special city election with more than 72 per cent of the vote.

The final, semi-official vote totals from the city's 27 special precincts are: Mrs. Georgia Grove, 3,905; Carl F. Jackson, a General Dynamics administrator, 1,108; and Thomas Fisher Hughes, a Realtor, 407.

Voters also approved a minor City Charter revision changing the date of city primary elections.

The voter turnout of slightly more than 17 per cent of 32,043 registered voters was the lowest for a city election in decades.

Larry B. Thomas, city clerk since 1955 and a city employe since 1946, said he could not recall a city election where the turnout was that poor.

When the votes are canvassed and Mrs. Grove is sworn into office next Monday she will begin an unexpired term vacated last December with the resignation of R. T. French. The four-year term expires next April.

Mrs. Grove will become the second woman in the city's history to serve on the City Council. Mrs. Elaine Hopkins represented the same district from 1961 to 1965.

The city's computer was not used to tabulate the vote tallies. Counting went smoothly and was done by hand with the first precinct returns made public about an hour after the polls closed at 8 p.m. The final returns were in before 10 p.m.

Mrs. Grove and her husband, Marvin, an insurance man, live at 1785 Yorba Drive, and have two daughters.

Mrs. Grove led the field from the earliest returns and won 59 of the 87 absentee ballots cast. She finished ahead in votes in all but three of the 27 precincts.

Jackson out-distanced Grove and Hughes in Precincts No. 4 in northeastern Pomona, No. 9 which takes in the Ganesha High School area, and No. 23 in the southwest section.

The lowest turnout of slightly more than seven per cent was in Precinct No. 8, generally northwest and southwest of the General Dynamics plant, excluding Westmont. Precinct No. 6, with a polling place at the Yorba School, had the highest turnout with more than 31 per cent.

Councilman-elect Grove said this morning she had a feeling she would win, but not with that large a plurality, one of the highest if not the highest for a city candidate in recent years.

"I just had a lot of people working for me and they worked hard and they believe in what I believe in," Mrs. Grove said.

Jackson and Hughes, both blacks, saw racial overtones in the election. Mrs. Grove is white.

Jackson, who made his second, unsuccessful bid for public office, said today he was "hurt," not because he lost but the way he lost, adding, "I'll be back."

"I think the conservative element voted to maintain the white structure," said Jackson. He criticized minorities for not turning out to vote in larger numbers.

Hughes issued a statement saying he was disappointed and felt "the race was run on a racial basis more than anything else. I think the whites were scared of Jackson and myself, although I tried to take a middle approach."

Election of Mrs. Grove appears to have lessened the possibility of the City Council's adopting residency requirements for city employes.

Mrs. Grove said during the campaign she would be opposed to residency requirements for present city employes. A similar position has been taken by Mayor Ray J. Lepire. Councilman Charles W. Bader is believed to hold a similar view

Passage of the City Charter amendment means that the dates of city primary election will be changed to coincide with the dates of some school elections, resulting in less elections in the city at a savings to taxpayers.

Oil firm will cut wholesale price

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Increased gasoline sales in April will allow the Atlantic Richfield Company to reduce the wholesale price of its gasoline by one-cent-per-gallon in order to meet Federal Energy Office price control regulations.

Odd-even gasoline plan ends in L.A. Co. today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline restriction plan dies today, after less than two months in effect, killed by increases in gas supplies.

The plan was in effect in nine California counties at one point, covering almost 70 per cent of the vehicles in the nation's most populous—and most car dependent—state.

Officials of the only two counties remaining, Los Angeles and Ventura, voted Tuesday to pull out. Governor Ronald Reagan planned to sign the order at noon today.

The plan was imposed by the state, under the governor's emergency powers, on a county-by-county basis, at the request of county supervisors.

The main provision was a regulation that vehicles with license plates ending in odd numbers could only be fueled on odd numbered days of the month, and those with an even last digit on even numbered days of the month.

State and county officials, and the Automobile Club of Southern California, exprssed concern that motorists will think the gasoline shortage is over because of the lifting of restrictions. The other seven counties pulled out of the plan over the past two weeks.

The auto club said it may have been wise to keep the restrictions in force "since there are indications that we will have shortages this summer and it could carry us through."

Los Angeles County Supervisor James Hayes said major oil companies are now delivering to service stations from 95 to 102 per cent of the fuel they delivered in the base period of April, 1972, a "dramatic change" for the better from the time the plan was imposed.

But he said that demand is expected to run 110 to 120 per cent above the base period, and so shortages will continue.

The end of the plan left 11,384 motorists in Los Angeles County with "C" stickers identifying them as commercial vehicles exempt from its provisions. Doctors, salesmen and others paid $5 apiece for the stickers. Since the county paid $5.31 to process each application, County auditor Mark Bloodgood said, there will be no refunds. He advised the motorists to keep the stickers in case the shortage grows worse and they need them again.

Kent St. suits OK, says court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today families of students killed and wounded in the 1970 Kent State shootings can press federal damage suits against Ohio officials and National Guardsmen.

Two lawsuits had been dismissed in lower courts on the grounds that the state of Ohio was the real defendant and the 11th Amendment to the Constitution banned suits by individuals against a state.

But the high court, in an 8-0 decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, said the amendment does not prohibit in all cases a defendant seeking damages on the grounds of being deprived of a federal right by a state official under state law.

Nixon taps Simon for Shultz's post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today nominated William E. Simon to succeed George P. Shultz as Treasury secretary.

Simon, 46, a former Wall Street investment banker who now is federal energy chief, will be succeeded as head of the Federal Energy Office by his deputy, John C. Sawhill, a White House announcement said.

Soviets may intervene in Mideast hostility

By United Press International

Soviet involvement in the Syrian war effort against Israel deepened today, and the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said the Kremlin was prepared to intervene directly if necessary to halt Israeli military activity on the Golan Heights.

Western diplomats in London said the developments could threaten Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts.

Egypt and Syria both hardened their lines against Israel as the fighting on the Golan Heights entered its 37th consecutive day. Israeli sources in Tel Aviv accused the Arabs of complicating Kssinger's efforts to end the explosive war of attrition on the Heights by rejecting Israeli proposals for a U.N. buffer zone between the two sides.

Further complicating the issue was a joint Soviet-Syrian communique issued Tuesday shortly after Syrian President Hafez Assad returned to Damascus from a five-day visit to Moscow. It said "any agreement on disengagements of troops must be part and parcel of a general settlement of the Middle East problem, a step on the road to a radical and universal general settlement."

UPI correspondent Gordon F. Joseloff reported from Moscow that the statement reflected Soviet annoyance with Kissinger's personal diplomacy in the Middle East. A Syrian delegation has been in Washington discussing with Kissinger a Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement agreement on the Golan Heights.

Damascus Radio said Assad would make an important speech tonight but gave no clue as to its contents. The occasion is Syrian national day marking the 28th anniversary of the evacuation of French troops from Syria.

The joint Soviet-Syrian statement also said the Soviets have "laid out measures for further consolidation of the defense capacity of Syria." It gave no details, but Arab newspapers said the Russians were preparing to give Syria long-range missiles and more advanced MIG23s and possibly MIG25s. Egypt used such missiles sparingly in the October War but now threatens to use them against Israeli cities if the situation worsens.

In London, UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler quoted western defense experts as saying any efforts by Russia to regain lost influence in the Middle East by giving such long-range weapons to Syria could have extremely serious consequences.

"The move underscores Moscow's determination to entrench itself in the Middle East at all cost and to use the allout backing of a Syrian hard line against Israel to enhance the Soviet role in any final Middle East settlement," Thaler reported.

Further evidence of the deepening crisis came Tuesday in a speech by Egyption President Atwar Sadat. He said Egypt has an "astounding" number of tanks ready to cross the Suez Canal immediately and is still aiming its longrange missiles at three of Israel's principal cities.

Sadat said the rockets would be fired if Israel attacked Egyptian cities on the Suez Canal's west bank. Egyptian newspapers warned of Egyptian rocket attacks if Israel continued its "aggression" in the Mdle East and spoke of the possibility of opening a second front in the Sinai.

In the actual Golan Heights fighting, an Israeli military source said battling erupted overnight on the strategic peaks of Mt. Hermon and that an Israeli soldier was wounded. The source said Israeli forces fought off a Syrian helicopter and a patrol.

In Tel Aviv a decision by the ruling Labor party's leadership to nominate a replacement for outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir instead of calling new elections threatened today to split party ranks.

By a 31-13 vote Tuesday, Labor's top leaders skirted new elections and decided to try to form a government from the same three-party coalition led by Mrs. Meir until she resigned last week.

The climax may come Sunday when the party's 614-member central committee, the policy-making body, votes on a new prime minister despite support for elections from powerful elements within the party.

Michigan Democrat winner in Republican stronghold

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — Riding the Watergate morality issue hard, J. Bob Traxler scored a solid victory Tuesday in a congressional district that has elected only one other Democrat in this century.

"We're going to Washington with a message —throw the rascals out," Traxler told about 3,000 campaign workers who greeted him with chants of "impeachment, impeachment."

"If I was a Republican," he added, "I would not want the Nixon albatross around my neck in November."

Final unofficial figures in the seven-county 8th District gave Traxler 59,918 votes to 56,898 for James M. Sparling Jr., who was endorsed in person by President Nixon last week during a barnstorming campaign visit.

The White House did not comment immediately, although a spokesman said Nixon would issue a statement later.

Reaction ranged from elated Democrats who said they were now eying opportunities elsewhere to glum Republicans, including Vice President Gerald R. Ford, a longtime Michigan resident, who said Democratic election victories posed dangers of a "legislative dictatorship."

The loss was the fourth in five special congressional elections this year by the GOP.

Ford, whose "safe" seat in the western Mchigan 5th District fell to a Democrat earlier this year, said in Palm Springs, Calif., that Traxler's victory was a bad omen.

"The trend as I see it," he told a CBS interviewer, "is for the Democrats to end up potentially with an overwhelming majority which leads to further legislative dictatorship and I don't think that is good for the country."

This election caught national attention because Nixon chose to enter it directly and personally in his first such political foray since Watergate. He spent five hours campaigning for Sparling one week ago.

This, in turn, intensified Traxler's allegations that the President was a crucial issue — a point he emphasized in his victory speech.

Lt. Gov. James H. Brickley, a Republican who once called for Nixon's resignation, agreed that Watergate was an issue and that the 8th District campaign was a referendum on the President.

"We have a crippled President," he said. "People don't feel they have a president and this is caused by the effects of Watergate."

But he said he believed the send a-message-to-Washington theme of Democrats is wearing thin.

Gov. William G. Milliken did not comment directly but told newsmen it was a complicated race that requires further study. GOP state chairman William McLaughlin said he could not understand what happened in the district, which last elected a Democrat in 1932.

Russian long-range missiles: perilous new factor in Mideast

LONDON (UPI) — Russia has agreed to supply new advanced weapons, including long-range missiles to Syria in a move to recapture its lost influence in the Middle East, according to Moscow reports. Western defense experts said the consequences could be extremely serious.

Russian spokesmen indicated Moscow has removed curbs on their use as had been Moscow's policy in the past.

This new escalation on the part of the Kremlin has emerged from its latest deal with Syria and is said to provide for the supply of long range missiles and the latest-type supersonic Mig 23 or Mig 25 jets for possible use against Israel.

The move underscores Moscow's determination to entrench itself in the Middle East at all cost and to use the all-out backing of a Syrian hard line against Israel to enhance the Soviet role in any final Middle East settlement.

Western defense experts view the latest developments with considerable anxiety because they appear to reflect the Kremlin's determination to go to almost any length to secure its hard-won foothold and weaken America's influence in the area. Some have expressed serious doubt of Russia's interest in a final settlement of the Middle East conflict because it might erode Russia's influence in an essentially anti-Communist Arab world.

The Russian line is clear: Soviet arms have been the key factor in Moscow's strategy for influence in the region ever since it first decided in 1956 to begin supplying arms to Egypt through its ally, Czechoslovakia.

Even though Russo-Egyptian relations were severely strained after the expulsion of the Soviet military experts in 1972, Moscow supplied fresh arms to Cairo during and after the October war, evidently to ensure an active role in future developments.

Western defense experts say the advent of long range missiles in the Middle East introduces a dangerous new element of unpredictable proportions.

Chino council urges county action on equestrian trails

CHINO — The City Council Tuesday night urged San Bernardino County to move forward with development of a regional network of equestrian trails to serve the many residents here who own horses.

Officials propose to connect the valley, mountain and desert areas with a series of these trails.

In a report to the council, the city staff said it had met with regional park officials and "it appears this project has a rather low priority.

"With the large amount of equestrian activity taking place both within the city and adjacent county areas, it would be a benefit to all concerned to have this project moved ahead as rapidly as possible," the staff suggested.

The City Council directed the mayor to send a letter to the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors indicating the importance of the project and urging it be completed at the earliest possible date.

Such a letter, however, may be delayed until after the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) conducts its regular meeting. That group of elected city and county officials have been involved in the proposed project.

In other matters, the City Council:

—Endorsed state Proposition 1, a $250 million parks and recreation bond.

—Proclaimed May 1-5 as Mexican American Week which will commemorate contributions of the Mexican-American people to society.

—Proclaimed April 22-28 as Western Week for the annual Chino Rancho Ride.

—Directed a call be given for bids to reroof the city hall. The city's budget includes $4,700 for this expenditure.

Ehrlichman disenchanted with Nixon, to make deal?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Ehrlichman is disenchanted with President Nixon, feels Nixon's effectiveness is ended, and is angry at H. R. Haldeman for not telling him that even their talks with Nixon were tape recorded, a news source reported today.

Ehrlichman may be ready to make a deal with the Watergate special prosecutor, the source said.

The source quoted associates, neighbors and close friends of Ehrlichman. The newspaper said Ehrlichman would not comment.

"Ehrlichman is said to have confided that he resigned his White House post last year after reaching what he thought was an understanding that Mr. Nixon would follow up Ehrlichman's and Haldeman's resignations with a complete statement and admission of everything that he knew about the Watergate case and its handling," the source said in a report from Seattle, where Ehrlichman now lives.

"Not only is Ehrlichman reported by friends here to be extremely disappointed with what he views as Mr. Nixon's failure to follow through with such a statement, but he has also told them he was shocked and surprised by the revelation of the existence of tape recordings of White House conversations.

"Ehrlichman is said to have told friends that he resents that Haldeman never told him of the existence of the tapes."

Ehrlichman feels that while Nixon is not getting the credit due him for some achievements, particularly in foreign policy "his effectiveness as a President has ended," it was reported.

The report said most of those who know Ehrlichman, or have dealt with him recently, feel that he is set against making a deal with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, under which he would plead guilty to a lesser charge and be available as a witness for the prosecution.

According to the source, Ehrlichman "gave serious consideration in February to accepting a written Jaworski offer" to plead guilty to one reduced count in the Ellsburg burglary. He reportedly decided not to because he feels strongly that he did no wrong in that incident.

But if Jaworski offers Ehrlichman a chance to "plead guilty to a lesser charge in the Watergate coverup . . . Ehrlichman might well agree to settle," the source quoted the Ehrlichman associate as saying.

Calley eligible for parole in 6 months as sentence reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although there's "no reasonable doubt" that Lt. William L. Calley murdered at least 22 Vietnamese civilians in the massacre at My Lai, the Secretary of the Army has cut his sentence in half —from 20 to 10 years.

The case is now before President Nixon for review.

It never was determined exactly how many civilians died at My Lai. Estimates were between 300 and 400 and ranged as high as 500.

Calley was accused of either personally killing or directing the killing of 102 civilians, and a six-man court-martial board found him responsible for "at least" 22 of the deaths.

"There is no reasonable doubt in my mind that he perpetrated the act for which he stands convicted," Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway said Tuesday.

But he reduced the sentence, an Army spokesman explained, on the basis of an opinion by a military clemency board that the 30-year-old officer has been a well-behaved prisoner with a reasonable prospect for rehabilitation.

The action makes Calley eligible for parole in six months.

(At Ft. Benning, Kenneth Henson, an attorney for Lt. Calley said, "I think that the sentence should bave been reversed and Lt. Calley totally and completely exonerated. We are greatly disappointed that the secretary of the Army confirmed his sentence and conviction, although remitting the sentence to 10 years."

(Henson said that Calley's personal reaction to Callaway's action was that he was "disappointed and a little upset, but grateful." He said he would continue to appeal the case until Calley is fully exonerated.)

President Nixon said nearly three years ago he would personally review the Calley case when military reviews were finished. The Pentagon sent the case documents to the White House Tuesday.

Cllaway said in a statement:

"These acts of murder and assault against unarmed civilians are so abhorrent to those who accept the fundamental legal and moral basis for this republic that they cannot be condoned or forgotten."

He said that while there were "mitigating circumstances" indicating Calley might have sincerely thought he was only following orders, he agreed with the courts that Calley should have known any such order would have been illegal.

People in today's news

McGovern to run

MITCHELL, S.D. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, the unsuccessful 1972 Democratic presidential candidate, Tuesday returned to his hometown of Mitchell to announce that he is seeking a third, six-year term in the U.S. Senate.

McGovern, 51, who is unopposed in the June 4 primary, said he would stand on his record as a senator and rejected arguments that he no longer represents the majority of South Dakotans.

McGovern told a news conference in Mitchell, "While it is easy to be angry at government, we know that government will not go away. So the real question is not how angry we are at what is wrong, but how can we set things right."

Trial for fighter

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Former featherweight contender Frankie Crawford will go on trial in Superior Court June 4 on charges he used threats to attempt to collect an alleged debt from actor Robert Conrad.

Crawford, who is free on $1,500 bond, was arrested at his home in Burbank, Calif., Jan. 22. He pleaded innocent Monday.

He is accused of using the telephone to threaten Conrad with "underworld characters" to collect $7,000. Conrad, the star of the TV series "The D.A." and "Wild, Wild West," has denied owing the money.

Conrad reportedly told police Crawford called his home and mid-January and demanded payment of the alleged debt.

Crawford has a pro record of 39-15-5 with 18 knockouts. He fought for the world title in 1970 and 1971 and lost both matches.

Ex-POW will run

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bernard Talley Jr., a prison of war in Vietnam for seven years, announced Tuesday that he is preparing to run as an independent this fall against Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., in an attempt to fulfill a prison camp dream.

"I was a supporter of the war, but I used to think how I'd run it if I was in charge," Talley, who said he thought of running for public office while he was a POW, said. "I think I would have been home seven years sooner if they did it my way."

In order to get his name on the ballot, he will need to collect 55,000 signatures on petitions.

Talley, a 35-year-old ex-Air Force pilot, said he has few qualifications to run for public office except that he is honest and is a dedicated American.

Kahane quits as head of JDL

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Rabbi Meir Kahane resigned today as head of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL), an organization he founded in New York City, saying it cannot succeed because its bold actions frighten the Jewish community.

"With deep regret and after careful and long consideration, I announce my retirement from the JDL," he said in a written statement. He said he will run a new center for Jewish consciousness, the Jewish Identity Center.

"Never was there a greater need for a thing like JDL, and because of this I leave the organization of that name," the Brooklyn-born rabbi said.

Council delays action on 2nd OMS concert

ONTARIO — After extensive discussion on the possibility of a second rock concert at the Ontario Motor Speedway, the City Council voted to adjourn its meeting Tuesday to a meeting on April 25 when members will receive a more complete report on the April 6 "California Jam."

The adjourned meeting on April 25 at 7 p.m. will be adjourned immediately to a personnel session in which a report on the "California Jam" will be made by Ontario Police Chief Lee Kolbreck.

Council members indicated they could not make a decision Tuesday on whether to allow future concerts at the speedway without a full report on the previous concerts.

A petition against the concerts with 13 names signed to it had been filed with the city clerk's office prior to the Tuesday meeting. No further petitions were presented at the meeting and no residents in the audience spoke on the speedway matter.

Valinda county park OK'd by supervisors

VALINDA — Residents of Valinda are about to get a new county park including a large community building.

The Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved plans for the eight-acre recreation area at 515 S. Deepmead Ave. at an estimated cost of $589,406.

The board will open bids for the construction of the park on May 15.

The plans call for a 4,500-square-foot community building to be used for meetings, public dinners and storage. Also included will be restrooms. The building will be air conditioned.

Attached to the building will be a 5,000-square foot patio area.

There will be parking for 50 cars, picnic shelters, a multi-purpose field and hard surface courts.

The project, designed by architects Cashion and Horie will be known as the Southeast Valinda County Park. Completion is expected next winter.

Trial ordered in death of man in Valley field

SAN DIMAS — An 18-year-old who reportedly admitted killing his brother accidentally and then setting him on fire to prevent officers from identifying him was bound over for trial in Compton Municipal Court Tuesday after a preliminary hearing.

Ronald Alex of Compton will be arraigned in Los Angeles Superior Court on the murder charge April 29, but Deputy Dist. Atty. Ronald Abrams said the charge may be reduced to a lesser included offense.

Sheriff's deputies testified Tuesday that Alex admitted killing his brother, Charles, 26, but contended it was an accident.

According to the testimony, Ronald and Charles were examining a handgun at their Compton home, when it went off in Ronald's hand. The bullet struck Charles in the ear, killing him almost instantly.

Ronald then panicked, deputies quoted him as saying. He stuffed his brother's body into the trunk of his car, drove to an abandoned field in San Dimas and set him on fire with gasoline, according to the testimony.

Charles was burned beyond recognition. His identity was established through fingerprints.

According to police reports, Coleman fired the shots at his wife, Audrey, 23, and a man whom Coleman believed to be her boy friend. Neither was wounded. Mrs. Coleman declined to prosecute.

Chino taxpayers facing 84-cent hike for 1974-75

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — The first preliminary draft of a $10.5 million budget was presented to the Chino school board Tuesday night, projecting a tax rate increase of about 74 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Adding the 10-cent community services tax, which the board has previously indicated would probably be levied in the 1974-75 fiscal year, Chino property owners will pay approximately $4.43 per $100 of assessed valuation the school district. The tax rate for the current year was $3.59.

There was some good news for local property owners, however, as Al Searfoss, assisting superintendent, predicted the tax rate would drop back to the present level for fiscal year 1975-76.

The estimates used to prepare the first draft of the budget, said Searfoss, included a 7.4 per cent growth in assessed valuation and a 3 per cent growth in district enrollment.

The current budget totals $9,654,528 with the new budget projected at $10,556,969, for an increase of $902,441. Much of the growth is attributable to an 8.5 per cent cost of living adjustment for all certified and classified employes.

Most of the added burden on the local property taxpayer, Searfoss explained, is due to the district's conversion to the year-round school program.

Because of the staggered enrollment under the year-round program, the district has suffered a temporary decline in average daily attendance (ADA), which is the base figure used by the state in computing state support to the district.

As the ADA figure increases with a full cycle under the year-round program, income from the state will rise. It was on this basis that Searfoss predicted that the local tax rate would drop next year.

Anger over the district's decision to implement the year-round program at all schools, except Chino High School, surfaced again as Rudy Gomez, chairman of the district Certificated Employes Council (CEC), stated that the board and administration were disregarding earlier agreements with the CEC.

It is the CEC's contention, explained Gomez, that Supt. Royce Lapp agreed in June of 1973 that only those schools where overcrowding occurred would go onto the year-round program at the end of this year.

Because the district is now changing that Policy, Gomez continued, many teachers are faced with insufficient time to revise lesson guides and plans to meet the year-round schedule.

"Frankly, we feel that this was their intention all the time," said Gomez. "We wish that they had been more open and honest with us from the beginning."

Gomez said that the CEC would continue to look at the matter, but did not indicate whether further action will be taken.

In other business, the board:

—Accepted a bid of $91,433 from IBM for data processing services to the district. According to Lapp, the services will save the district some $45,000 in salary costs while providing the district with increased efficiency at administrative levels. The vote to accept the bid was 3 to 1, with board Member Al McCombs dissenting and Pete Vander Poel absent.

McCombs said that he could not justify the added expense to the district based on the figures provided the board.

—Approved the purchase of 10 quonset huts to be used as storage space at various sites in the district. Total cost will be $9,500.

Plan to build new prisons is set aside

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Reagan administration proposal to build two new prisons has been set aside indefinitely by an Assembly subcommittee following opposition from prisoners' groups.

Spokesman for the inmates' groups argued the new prisons would perpetuate the existing state penal system which they deplore. They asked that no new prisons be constructed at least until Gov. Ronald Reagan leaves office.

The administration last month dropped plans for a remodeling of San Quentin's notorious south block and revived its $140 million proposal to build two new prisons to replace San Quentin which would be closed.

If the legislature approves the plan, institutions of 2,400 convicts would be built near San Diego and Vacaville. They would be ready for occupancy late in 1978.

After two hours of testimony, the Assembly Ways and Means budget subcommittee shelved the administration plan for $1.1 million in planning funds with no indication when it might be considered again.

"It is criminal if we don't get some action from the legislature as soon as possible," said Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections.

"San Quentin is an impossible place in which to live," he said. "I'd close it down tomorrow but I have no place to put them (prisoners)."

But Assemblyman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, one of the three subcommittee members, responded: "I'm not going to give you a single penny until you spell out your program."

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, added: "This plan perpetuates what we have been doing in the past which has been a total failure."

Frank Smith, a psychologist connected with the Prisoners, Union, said he was "skeptical" that San Quentin ever would be closed, but felt it would continue to be used along with the two new prisons.

"I don't know of any state prison that has been dismantled," he added.

Smith blamed the recent rise in prison population on the Reagan administration's new "get tough policy" on paroles, and added: "It would be a grievous error to saddle the next governor with two $70 million white elephants" that would not be needed if parole policies are relaxed.

Salle S. Saoladay, a San Rafael attorney who represents prisoners, said the administration proposal put inmates in a dilemma: They don't like conditions at San Quention but they do not want to perpetuate the system by erecting outmoded prisons.

"This locks us into this terrible system for how long — another 100 years?" she said.

"I think it would be better to wait for [illegible] administration and [illegible] we can come up wi[illegible] prison system.

Education's end to sex barrier OK'd

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation aimed at eliminating sex barriers from California education requirements has won narrow approval from the Assembly.

The bill (SB1466) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, approved Monday on a 41-19 vote, the minimum needed, and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Under the measure, if students of one sex were required to take certain classes in public schools, the same requirement would be imposed on students of the other sex.

For example, if boys were required to take wood shop, girls would be forced to take the course. And if girls were required to take a homemaking course, it also would be required of boys.

The exception would be in physical education classes. If a boy was required to take baseball, for example, then girls would be given the option to take the class—but not required to.

Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales, D-Bakersfield, floor sponsor of the bill, said the measure may encourage schools to reduce the number of required courses.

Hormone can double IQ of newborns?

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — A team of South African doctors have injected an expectant mother with experimental hormones which they say could double the I.Q. of babies and revolutionize the science of obstetrics.

"The hormone helps placenta efficiency in the last four weeks of pregnancy when the baby's brain cells develop," said Dr. Peter Baillie, head of the obstetrics department at Cape Town's Groote Schuur hospital where Dr. Christiaan Barnard pioneered heart transplants.

The hormone —human chrononic gonadtrophin (HCG) —in the past has been used to determine pregnancy and in slimming experiments.

He and a team of three administered HCG to Susan Rosenkowitz before she gave birth to sextuplets in January. All the infants survived.

"Because the placenta was in any case overworked, her babies will not be superintelligent, but they should be of normal intelligence, which is unusual in multiple-birth cases," Baillie said.

Caution for overbidders

By Oswald & James Jacoby

As we have said many times, "If you want to overbid you should learn to play the dummy well."

South's jump to four spades was a slight overbid. It should have been apparent to him that the ace of clubs would be right in back of his king.

Still South should have made his contract barring a really impossible defense. That impossible defense, would start with West leading his eight of hearts. East would win and return a club. West would take two club tricks and lead a third club. East would ruff with the 10 of trumps and there would be no way for South to avoid the loss of a trump.

West did open the ace of hearts and continue. South ruffed and indulged in the luxury of playing his ace of spades. Then he led a diamond to dummy's king; a second diamond back to his ace and a third diamond to be ruffed low in dummy. Then he cashed dummy's king of trumps and led a club. East played the nine. South's king lost to the ace and West led back a low club to East's jack. East played a third heart and the hand collapsed.

South had three lines of play to make the hand. The simple one was to leave trumps entirely alone until after three rounds of diamonds. The other two are quite complicated. We will explain them to any reader who sends us a stamped addressed envelope.

To kiss or not to kiss

By JEAN ADMAS

KISS HER?: (Q.) I am 17 years old and go with a very mature girl of 14. She says she likes me a lot, but I'm not sure. I like her a lot, and am dying to kiss her. But because I'm not sure of her feelings toward me I can't get up enough nerve.

Should I ask her first, or just go right ahead and kiss her, taking my chances? —Uncertain in New Jersey

(A.) If a male desires to kiss a female and if the circumstances are proper and conducive to this, he should kiss her, not talk about it.

COOL AT SCHOOL: (Q) Carl often comes over and we watch TV and hold hands. Then when he has to go he gives me a goodnight kiss.

But he never speaks to me in school or even acknowledges that we are friends.

What I want to know is should I drop my thoughs of him or should I give him time? —14 in Connecticut

(A.) Give him time.

He is probably very shy at school and feels more comfortable with you when the two of you are alone.

You should not hold this against him.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. All letters are read and considered but, because of the great number received, Jean Admas cannot send personal answers.)

Lion's teeth grow wild

The dandelion got its name from the fact that the jagged edges of its leaves were said to resemble the teeth of the lion. Dandelion is an English corruption of the French "dent de lion", lion's tooth.

Almanac

The Almanac
By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, April 17, the 107th day of 1974 with 258 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American financier J. P. Morgan was born April 17, 1837.

On this day in history:

In 1521, Martin Luther was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church after refusing to admit charges of heresy.

In 1917, New York Sen. William Calder introduced a bill establishing Daylight Saving Time. It was defeated.

In 1961, a force of anti-Castro Cuban rebels began what was to end as the ill-fated "Bay of Pigs" incident.

In 1964, Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, became the first woman to make a solo flight around the world.

A thought for the day: American humorist Mark Twain said, "Work consists of whatever a body is obliged to do. Play consists of what a body is not obliged to do."

Living sardine doesn't exist

There is no such thing as a living sardine. The sardine, named for Sardinia in the Mediterranean where the fish were first caught and packed, is really the cured and preserved young of a species of pilchard.

At Wit's End

No friends without I.D.

By ERMA BOMBECK

When you stop to think about it, most of us go through our lives proving we are who we say we are.

When you cash a check, make a purchase, pay a bill, claim a letter, order a drink, withdraw money or borrow a book, you have to come up with the proper I.D. On a given day, I whip those I.D.s in and out of my billfold so much I have credit card burns on my hands.

Sometimes I get the feeling if American Express doesn't have you on record, you never were.

Granted, we're stuck with all this red tape because more than a few dishonest people ruin it for everyone else, but the absurdity of check cashing can best be illustrated by a story of a local columnist whom I will call Ralph Rakemucker.

Ralph was a legend in his own city. There wasn't a day that his column wasn't read by men, savored by women and quoted on the airways.

One day he went into a department store and was mobbed by clerks and customers alike. They ripped out blank checks and crumpled Kleenex for him to autograph. They touched his sweater and yelled into his ear, "My favorite column is . . . "

Finally, a sales clerk rescued him and shoved him behind a cash register where she proceeded to ask him about his wife, Marie, (whom he mentioned frequently in his column) and to tell him she pasted him daily on her refrigerator for the family to read.

The columnist smiled indulgently, thanked her, and made out a check for his purchase. The saleswoman stiffened into a stranger and said, "I'll have to call my supervisor. Do you have two I.D.'s?"

I have had to produce proof of my birth to enter school, get married, have babies, get a job and leave the country.

I wouldn't be surprised if, after death, a gatekeeper somewhere met me and asked, "May I see your driver's license and an accredited credit card? Is the address on this card correct? Have you ever been arrested for a felony or been dishonorably discharged from the Army? Do you have a budget, deferred or regular account with us? Would you stand over here in front of this camera and hold your card directly under your face? Last week, we had a person slip in who couldn't prove he was born."

If you think that sounds silly, a woman came up to me in an airport and asked, "Are you who I think you are?"

"I'm Erma Bombeck," I said.

"Are you sure?" she asked her eyes narrowing.

"Trust me," I whispered.

Rosenberg case exhibits missing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Several key exhibits from the government's case against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are missing, according to a suit filed in federal court.

The exhibits were found to be missing when attorneys for Morton Sobell, a co-defendant of the Rosenbergs in the 1951 atom secrets trial, sought the material for an attempt to overturn his conviction.

The Rosenbergs were executed in the electric chair in 1953 on conviction of heading a spy ring which conspired to give the atom bomb secrets to the Soviet Union. Sobell, who served almost 18 years of a 30-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction, is now a medical electronics engineer required to report to the U.S. Board of Parole until 1981.

Burt Neuborne of the American Civil Liberties Union, lawyer for Sobell, said in the suit that government lawyers told him last month that 10 exhibits he sought "could not be found."

Getting insurance action is like pulling teeth

My wife is in dire need of dental treatment.

I am employed in a company that has dental insurance in its benefit package.

My wife made her initial visit to the dentist's office more than three months ago. She had the usual examination including X-rays and paid for her visit.

She was then told by the nurse that she would have to wait for the insurance company, in San Francisco, to approve the paper work for continuation of treatment.

The doctor's office has called twice apologizing for the delay. She mentioned that she has continuous long wait problems with applicants from the insurance company in San Francisco.

Can you assist me in understanding this inconsiderate, inefficient performance?—R. R., Montclair.

We wrote to the insurance company. A few days later we receive a memo that your claim had been authorized and returned to the dentist's office for signatures and dates of service.

We checked with the dentist's secretary, who said she had not received the papers from San Francisco.

Our second letter to the insurance company brought copies of papers marked "in lieu of lost original." They were mailed to us instead of to the dentist and we mailed them to him.

You announced your intention of calling the dentist to make appointments for your wife's treatment.

I am writing in regard to my Social Security benefits and a burial payment.

My husband passed away last October. All I have received each month since then is $92.80.

I reported his death a week after it occurred and have called, written and visited the Social Security office several times since then.

First I received a short statement to the effect that my claim was being expedited.

Then a man at the office told me that increased payment should begin in about two weeks. It did not.

The next person I talked with gave me an approximate date when I should get my money. I called yesterday two different times. The second time I was told a wire had been sent to the payment center in San Francisco.

I asked about how long I would have to wait. The answer was 10 days. I decided to go ahead and write to Action Line as I had intended.—Mrs. L.W., Pomona.

The people at the Social Security office told us that your case had been classified as critical two days before you wrote to us.

You received a check for $844.50, representing the retroactive increased payment and the burial fund, 25 days after the date of your letter to Action Line.

Board deadlocked 2 to 2

Two principal reassignments fail

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Efforts of administrators to reassign two elementary school principals failed Tuesday night.

School board members voted twice on the matter, once on a motion by Roy Day to reject the recommendation and again on a motion by Don Donnelly to approve the recommendation.

Each time the vote was 2-2, resulting in no action.

The result is that Bruce Shyer remains principal at Madison School and Rudolfo S. Flores remains principal at Westmont School.

Eight persons addressed the board, each asking that the principals not be reassigned.

"The last four years we've had darn good leadership at Westmont," said Mrs. Nellie Crockett. "We have a good program. Under the circumstances, it would be disastrous to our community to move our principal at this time."

Joyce Lewke of Madison School presented 150 letters from Madison families asking that Shyer not be moved. Sally Harnruff of Westmont asked the school board, "Do you want to cause a divorce in our school family? That is what would happen if you take Mr. Flores out of Westmont. Help us keep our family together. We don't want Westmont added to the list of statistics on divorce."

Westmont teacher Mary Ann Kingsbury said the Westmont teachers and staff are 100 per cent behind Flores. Jeannette Mulligan described Flores as an outstanding principal.

"Please don't move Mr. Shyer. We need him at Madison," pleaded Julia Thomas. Melvin Thomas said to take Shyer from Madison where he has had eight years experience in the Comp Ed program would be unrealistic and uneconomical.

Dolores Lopez, Westmont liaision, presented petitions bearing 222 signatures asking that Flores not be reassigned. "Transferring principals leads to more parents fleeing Pomona," she said.

"I've listened and looked at faces, and I cannot in good conscience go along with this recommendation," said Day. His motion to reject the proposal was seconded by Ken Pine. "I cannot go along with it either," said Pine.

Board chairman James Bell asked for a roll call vote. Day and Pine voted to reject; Bell and Donnelly voted to approve the recommendation. Board member Philip S. Wessels was absent.

Then Donnelly, remarking that the board hired a chief executive to run the district as a professional and to make recommendations best for the total district not individual schools, made the motion to approve the reassignment. It was seconded by Bell.

Another 2-2 vote followed.

"Does this mean we keep our principals?" asked a woman from the floor.

"Yes," said Bell. There was loud applause from the capacity audience.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of personnel services, has recommended that Shyer be transferred from Madison to Golden Springs School in Diamond Bar to succeed Willard Weiser who is retiring the end of this school year, and that Flores be moved from Westmont to Madison. The moves were to have become effective July 1.

Strong optimism for steel industry cited by executive

POMONA — Citing strong gains in capital spending and employment, a top executive of the nation's second-largest steel producer expressed strong optimism for both the nation's economy and the future of the American steel industry in remarks here before members of the Los Angeles chapter of the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers.

"Id have to go back more than a dozen years to recall a time when I've been as optimistic about prospects for our industry," C. Thompson Stott, senior vice president, steel operations, Bethlehem Steel Corp., said at Monday's meeting at Orlando's restaurant.

The overriding reason for his optimism, Stott said, is that "the demand is there. I don't mean just for the first half — I mean for the whole year. And there's no end in sight."

Stott's optimism is based on a series of important "ifs," including: imports which must be kept at reasonable levels; soaring costs of raw materlas that must be slowed; and necessary price reliefs for the steel industry.

In spite of the "ifs" Stott said there are "powerful indications that the financial community and the academic community and members of Congress are suddenly very interested in the steel industry. What's even more important is that they're willing to listen to us."

Fremont classes seek employment

POMONA — The Career Planning classes at Fremont Junior High School are beginning an employment agency titled "The Fremont Youth Employment Agency."

The students will perform such tasks as baby-sitting, cleaning house, cutting grass, weeding, raking leaves and washing cars after school and on weekends.

Anyone interested in employing a student is asked to call Larry Rubin or Mrs. Mildred Taylor at 623-5251, extension 389. They teach the classes which are initiating the agency.

Principal Rafael Estupinian is hoping the community can respond "with meaningful experiences for the students. Remember," he said, "The young people of today will be the citizens and leaders of tomorrow. We need your help. We hope you need ours."

In addition, the library also has new recordings with musical accompaniment for those wishing to sing or to play the guitar.

The recordings may be reserved by calling 984-2758, extension 32.

Abandoned houses a symptom Demo candidate claims

POMONA — Congressional candidate Robert Stafford told members of the Northeast Side Enterprise here that "abandoned housing is a symptom" and his real concern is the people who have left the houses because of the loss of jobs.

Stafford, Claremont attorney seeking the Democratic nomination in the 35th Congressional District, said the solutions to the situation are the Urban Homestead Act, buyer counseling and the new sales plans.

Members of the Northeast Side Enterprise, a nonprofit, self-help corporation in Pomona, complained to Stafford at the meeting that their "frustrations grow when neither city hall nor the federal government will listen to their problems."

Mrs. Byrdie Reddick, president of the organization, said large-scale city projects have been accomplished while residential area problems have been ignored.

"The people feel they have a low priority at city hall," she said.

MSAC marks 28th year with its first open house

WALNUT — The story of Mt. San Antonio College has been 28 years in the making. But since the college opened in 1946, there's never been an opportunity for the public to see the full scope of the college's facilities and programs.

This Sunday, all that will change as the entire faculty, staff and hundreds of students will be on hand to welcome visitors for the college's first open house from 1 to 5 p.m.

Visitors on "MSAC Day" will be able to see the well-equipped Study Skills Center, watch instructional closed circuit television, and visit with the staff and counselors in the Career information and Guidance Center and the Center of the Handicapped, all in the college's library.

Drama students will put on playlets to delight younger community residents, and some of the children will be the subjects for MSAC make-up artists as they turn young, smiling faces into colorful clowns.

Computers and office machines will be demonstrated all afternoon, as will ceramics, lithography, batik and other art methods.

The Mini-Mountie Nursery School will present a slide show on training techiniques for nursery school teachers and administrators.

And home economics department Personnel will explain the metric system, which is scheduled to be adopted nationwide in the early 1980s. Metric sticks (39.37 inches) will be give to visitors so they can begin learning and using the system.

A complete program, listing times and room numbers, will be distributed to each campus visitor during open house.

Aeronautics and transportation will feature a slide show of last year's Classroom in the Sky flight, "Around the World in Fourteen Days," as well as demonstrations of the flight training simulators, instructional television used for instrument flight training, and air traffic control procedures.

Ceramics, sculpture, design, graphics, batik, printmaking and advertising students will present continuous demonstrations in the college's new art center. The Art Gallery exhibition, "Word Works," will be open featuring more than 60 paintings and drawings, all using works within the art work. The exhibition includes art work by internationally known artists such as Andy Warhol and Ed Keinholz, and new, young talent such as Lyn Horton and Walt Gabrielson.

Physical science faculty and staff will demonstrate photography methods in the darkroom lab while visitors actually watch the prints develop, and a special raw egg drop from the roof of the building onto four inches of foam rubber will demonstrate energy absorption and impulse. Visitors are also invited to bring their unknown rocks, minerals and maps for identification by geology faculty.

Welding lab students will torch cut and weld various metals, and display their metal art works in copper, brass and steel.

Color television, high voltage and ultrasonic burglar alarm electronics will be demonstrated on the Technology Center's fourth floor, and machine tool procedures and airframe and powerplant demonstrations will be given in the center's fully operational laboratory shop on the main floor.

Lawn concerts will be presented in front of the Music Building featuring the band, under the direction of David Wiggins, at 1 p.m.; the chorale, under the direction of Hayden Blanchard, at 2:30 p.m.; and jazz, under the direction of Ralph Tancredi, at 4 p.m. Demonstrations of the electronic piano and quadraphonic sound will run continuously in the department's choir and band rooms.

Slide presentations will be given periodically in modern language, history, public safety and services departments, and the film, "Future Shock," will be shown in the psychology department.

All areas of the college have been preparing presentations and setting schedules for months to show community residents just what the college has to offer each one—not just the recent high school grad, or the person upgrading in one of the many evening division classes—but residents of all ages.

As a special feature, an 85-foot hot air balloon will be on display all afternoon manned by owner-pilot Fred Krieg. Krieg, a multi-rated senior pilot with United Air Lines, and his crew will demonstrate the assembly, inflation and ascension of hot air balloons, and explain some of the theories of flight to visitors of Open House. The tethered balloon will be on the athletic field at the corner of Temple and Grand Avenues from 1 to 5 p.m.

Ray Bradbury, science fiction writer and playwright, will open the afternoon programs with informal discussion on "Creative Writing" in the Social Science Center lecture hall at 1 p.m.

Visitors will also have an opportunity to meet Bradbury during an autograph party in the college's book store following his talk.

General education termed essential

That's the opinion of Claremont University Center Chancellor Howard R. Bowen, who challenges the doctrine that every high school graduate should have a marketable skill.

In a paper delivered before a meeting of the American Educational Research Association today in Chicago, Bowen questioned the doctrine's underlying assumption that employment should be automatically increased.

"Employment is determined more largely by aggregate demand based on the decisions of investors and consumers, and by governmental monetary and fiscal policy, than it is by the distribution of the skills of workers," he noted.

Employers are very good at training unskilled workers, when there is a need, and can probably do so far more effectively than a high school, he said. Where the need for additional manpower does not exist, vocationally trained graduates might simply displace other workers.

The skills most important for being productive on a job, in Bowen's view, "are those derived from general education, namely the ability to read; to write clearly; to converse coherently; to calculate; to know something of history; geography, literature, science and public affairs."

The personal qualities, in part similarly derived, include self-discipline, persistence, self-confidence, initiatve, the ability to function in interpersonal relations, high standards of personal conduct and posseession of moral and religious insights.

Emphasis on vocational training would short-change general education and deprive vast numbers of students of the chance to develop these "skills" which provide the foundation for good careers, responsible citizenship and well-rounded lives, Bowen stated.

"I would rather take a chance on some congestion in the labor market for youth than to cut back on general education. I believe that in the long run general education will have higher returns on both employment and income than vocational education."

EDITORIAL Opinion

Hardly the greatest show on earth

Of all the arguments that have been offered in favor of President Nixon's resignation rather than his impeachment, the one with the most doubtful merit is the one that holds that the President's trial by the Senate of the United States would be too circuslike, too unruly, too inflamatory of popular passions — simply too much for America to endure.

No one has yet topped the picture painted by New York Conservative Republican Sen. James L. Buckley, who used these words in his recent impassioned appeal to the President to resign to spare the nation the spectacle of an impeachment trial:

"The ruler of the mightiest nation on earth would be starred as the prisoner in the dock. The chamber would become a 20th-century Roman Coliseum as the performers are thrown to the electronic lions. The most sordid dregs dug up by the Watergate miners would inflame the passions of the domestic audience and provoke the guffaws, prurient curiosity or amazement of the outside world."

Very colorful. An X-rated impeachment, no less. Maybe the Supreme Court would have to ban it because of all that prurient interest.

But to get back to reality. If it comes to Richard Nixon's impeachment by the House of representatives and his subsequent trial by the Senate, the President will be nowhere near Capitol Hill during those fateful deliberations. His presence is not required by law, nor would good defense tactics require it.

Far from being a "prisoner in the dock," more likely than not Mr. Nixon would be commanding almost nightly appearances before the American people on prime time television, reciting his administration's accomplishments and telling of his plans for America and the peace of the world, in a last-ditch attempt to win friends who might write letters or send telegrams to influence senators.

That is the real television spectacular that the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon would occasion.

Speaking of television, Buckley and others seem to assume (1) that the all-seeing electronic eye will be present during the trial, which is assuming quite a bit at this stage and (2) that its presence must necessarily and inevitably be baneful.

Even if the worst of Buckley's nightmare became reality and 100 gladiators — er, senators — fell all over themselves trying to upstage each other on camera and entertain the folks back home by spearing a Christian — oops, witness — or two, what would this say about the intelligence of the American people if they tolerated it? More accurately, what does it say about Buckley's estimate of the intelligence of the American people (not to mention that of his colleagues)?

The "Nervous Nellies," as Lyndon Johnson would have called them, can conjure up all kinds of frightening impeachment scenarios. What would really happen, however, has been stated calmly and matter-of-factly by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana:

"If and when the issue comes to the Senate, there will be as little partisanship as possible and, as far as I am concerned, there will be none. The Senate itself will be on trial. . .There will be no circus. There will be nothing in the way of hanky panky because I anticipate every senator will act with the greatest dignity and circumspection. There will be no hamming by any part of this body."

Or to borrow Nelson's words at Trafalgar: Should it befall the 93rd senate of the United States to be called upon to sit in solemn judgment of the 37th president as provided for in the Constitution of the United States, America expects every man to do his duty.

Nothing more and nothing less.

About weather

Man has been taking a lot of criticism for polluting his environment, especially the atmosphere. But he may not be such a villain after all.

That, at least, is the contention of a University of Virginia professor of environmental science, Dr. Fred Singer. Singer's thesis is that until persuasive new evidence comes to light there is no basis for claiming that man's activities are responsible for air pollution and have influenced the world's climate.

"About 10 percent of the air turbidity is man-made," he acknowledges, but "the rest is natural, the result of volcanic eruption, forest fires, blown sea salt and desert sand, land erosion."

The former assistant secretary of the interior and official in the Environmental Protection Agency denies that particulates from auto exhausts, and manufacturing residues are important enough to affect world weather. "Most of the particulate matter is dust from natural sources and in about the same amount as there was 2000 years ago."

In addition to his cabinet and EPA service, Dr. Singer's environmental credits include setting up the U.S. Weather Service satellite weather program in 1962. He says that if we really want to control our weather we could do it in 10 to 20 years by sending into fixed orbit over given spots on earth that we wanted to cool a sunshade similar to, but immensely larger than the one used to save the Skylab program.

Such a weather control system, he estimates would cost only about $2 trillion, approximately twice the Gross National Product of the nation.

JACK ANDERSON

Patty Hearst may be outside U.S.

WASHINGTON—A marked man, who inadvertently helped found the Symbionese Liberation Army but is now in its death list, believes the kidnapped Patricia Hearst is still alive but is being held outside the U.S.

This is the opinion of Colston Westbrook, a black linguistics instructor who knows the SLA members and how they think. He became acquainted with them during visits to California's Vacaville prison, where he coordinated the activites of the Black Cultural Association, the forerunner of the SLA.

The SLA has now issued a death contract on Westbrook, calling for him to be shot on sight. My reporter Ed Tropeano arranged to meet him behind the locked doors of a motel room.

Westbrook discounts Patty Hearst's statement that she has joined the SLA. The language she used, he said, sounds like his former friend. "It was too much like the way they talk for me to believe she said it out of her own free will, he told us, adding:

"They like to do the unexpected just to mix people up. Besides, Patty Hearst isn't the type of person they're looking for to join."

Westbrook believes Patty is too useful to the SLA to be killed. He's "sure" she is alive, probably in a hideout in a foreign country. FBI agents have been on the heels of the kidnappers and probably have scared them across the border.

It was Westbrook who brought Donald DeFreeze into the Black Cultural Association at Vacaville prison. Westbrook wanted to break the influence of white radicals on the black society and thought the strong-willed, white-hating DeFreeze could do it.

The group evolved into the Symbionese Liberation Army, with DeFreeze as its purported leader. He now calls himself "General Field Marshal Cinque."

But Westbrook claims he has learned from his contacts that DeFreeze, an escaped convict, is merely a figurehead and that the SLA is still run by the white radicals.

Westbrook says there has been racial dissension, however, within the SLA. "It's the same old thing," he said "These people claim they're working for the good of the black community when really all they care about is their own ego."

FOOTNOTE: As evidence of his close former ties with the SLA, Westbrook showed my reporter considerable documentation including his own detailed diary.

The official is Richard Allison, who began as a candy clerk, worked his way through night school and is now the $55,000-a-year president of the Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers of Allentown, Pa.

Proud of his accomplishments in building the co-op into a major American milk power, Allison wanted President Nixon as his speaker for the group's 1972 conference. LeHigh's Washington lobbyist, Frank Carrol, was called on to help with th arrangements, say sources close to the case.

Carroll could not land Nixon but settled for Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz. Thereafter, LeHigh coughed up a $50,000 contribution.

The donation, which is illegal under federal law because corporate gifts are outlawed, was clandestinely passed to the President's campaign committee in two $25,000 bundles, one of them in a car, say our sources.

J. Curtis Herge, a medium-level campaign official who accepted the cash for the committee, claims he was acting under orders from former Attorney General John Mitchell, and Mitchell's chief sidekick at the time, Jeb Magruder.

The $50,000 reportedly wound up in the slush fund from which "hush money" was drawn to buy the silence of the original Watergate conspirators. This, of course, set the prosecutors on LeHigh.

Carroll, who reportedly transmitted the money to Nixon headquarters, could not be reached. Through his lawyer, he declined to comment. Herge refused to return our repeated phone calls. Allison's lawyer conceded only that the plea bargaining was going on.

ALLUMINUM HAZARDS: The moguls of aluminum have met secretly in their shiny New York headquarters to try to counter federal hearings this week on deaths and home-burnings caused by aluminum wiring.

At the meeting, officials from Kaiser, Reynolds, Southwire, Alcoa and others agreed that a "motherhood" package concealing the dangers of aluminum wiring was the best way to deal with the hearing of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Los Angeles.

From inside sources, we have also learned that "the industry is frightened to death" that studies showing 400 recent fires from the wiring will lead to reinspection of all aluminum-wired homes. At least two million homes, each with dozens of fire hazards, have been built.

The tin gods of aluminum privately decided at their meeting not to do their own survey, for fear it would prove how dangerous aluminum wiring actually is. Instead, they decided to discredit surveys now being done by others.

The aluminum industry, is was also agreed, would try to line up politicians, willing safety inspectors and even utility companies to back the dangerous aluminum wiring.

Do bureaucrats call the shots?

WASHINGTON—Much has been written on the growth of presidential power. What may have actually occurred is a major decline in that power, especially as it applies to domestic problems.

That power has not gone to Congress. But Congress has been responsible for the whittling away of the president's prerequisites, a whittling that has been keenly felt by Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon, and by prior occupants of the White House.

This whittling began almost immediately after President George Washington's terms ended. Washington, according to reports, had complete authority over all federal officials and their duties. But Congress, in 1799, began a practice, enlarged in the years since for vesting statutory powers in Supreme Court decisions, one as late as 1935, have confirmed this right of Congress to vest powers in agencies to be exercised on their own responsibility-except for some military and foreign affairs and domestic matters of high policy.

Additionally, so much of the budget is fixed these days the changes any president can make are minimal, even with Congressional consent.

Its no wonrer that presidents spend much of their time in foreign affairs, sometimes to the neglect of economic and domestic problems. For it is only in foreign and related military matters that presidents have their power and perhaps increased it. This tendency may account for the poor record of most recent presidents in dealing with economy.

There has, over the years, been a parallel strengthing of the power of the civil service and the positions of senior civil service employes. The objective has been to prevent the corruption, inefficiences and inequities of the spoils system. The result has been, in essence, to create a fourth branch of government, almost partly independent of the president and Congress.

Department heads are, in considerable measure, prisoners of their permanent staffs. The man at the top ordinarly must work with what the permanent officials give him. Proposals they disagree with can take endless months to carry out, and in the process, can be so changed that the original purposes may be smothered. We thus have in essence a multitude of built-in "courts" thoughout the executive, presided over by high-level civil service employes who act as judges, approving or censoring programs pushed by the president and his cabinet and voted by Congress.

Even as able an administrator as Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard quit because he came to the conclusion he couldn't get a handle on the bureaucracy.

Department and agency chiefs, and the politically-appointed assistants they bring in, frequently don't begin to understand the ropes until their short tenures have ended. (One learned study, as a corrective measure, recommends that political officials pledge to stay a minimum of two years!)

By contrast, many civil service employes are on the job 20 to 30 years and more. The able ones, during that period, gain an encyclopedic knowledge of their areas and build loyalties and a priceless understanding of who can do what and who can't. This makes the difference between failure and success in many operations.

Not surprisingly, these men come to believe that no one understands their job and its objectives as they do and that outside interference only muddies the waters.

Some of these permanent staffers have built strong alliances with powerful groups in Congress. The legislators, by working directly with civil servants, have been able to circumvent more than one President.

We are not talking about the crafty empire builders or inefficient men perpetuating themselves, through both exist in numbers in some department. Rather, we are talking about men with ability who believe sincerely in what they're doing-but who are unwilling to shift their actions and their objectives to meet the wishes of men they regard as short-term politicial officials and whose objectives they frequently believe are wrong. (At best, they regard these transients as ignorant.)

The situation is made more difficult by the fact that too many of the supervising officials appointed by any president are unqualified. Some are political hacks, being paid off for work in presidential campaigns. Others are able men unable to adjust to the complicated ins and outs of the bureaucratic system.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Zig zag defense RMN's best bet

WASHINGTON — While official findings of "no fraud" in President Nixon's 1969-72 federal income tax returns may keep this issue out of a possible House impeachment decision, he will not thereby avoid new public damage. Treatment of his case makes him out to be a strong gainer from high privilege.

He is being saved from charges of fraud by the generous grace accorded him as President. Moreover, he has won unwarranted compliments from top lawmakers Rep. Wilbur Mills and Sen. Russell Long for making belated payments on his 1969 returns.

Let's start with a couple of basics. Where the Internal Revenue Service suspects Fraud (intent to misrepresent) in tax returns, no statute of limitations applies at all. The IRS can go back as far as it wishes.

Secondly, the law specifies that when a citizen fails to report items of gross income adding to 25 per cent or more beyond the gross income he does cite on a given return, the statute of limitations does not run a mere three years (the figure commonly cited in nearly all comment on the President's case), but extends a full six years beyond final filing time.

On its face, a key document prepared by the joint congressional committee which examined Mr. Nixon's returns at his invitation would seem to involve his 1969 returns in this provision of the law. Yet a twist in the regulations seems to salvage him in this instance.

For 1969, the committee found the President had added gross income amounting to $142,367, more than a third above the $328,162 he formally reported as gross income.

The twister comes into play in the way the President for 1969 handled the sale of his New York apartment. He did not conceal the sale or its proceeds, but declared on his return that he was deferring payment of a capital gains tax on the transaction because he was investing the monies in the purchases of San Clemente as his "principal residence."

Such practice is both legitimate and very common. Except that in this instance, the committee decided San Clemente was not Mr. Nixon's chief residence. It found that the Nixons spent just 49 days there in the 12 months after sale of the New York apartment.

Furthermore, as is now well known, he did not at any time pay California state income taxes as would a normal resident. One would think that, for consistency's sake, he would have done so to underscore his claims about San Clemente.

But here's the hooker: In an obscure IRS regulation, believed by one tax analyst to have been added after U.S. Tax Court rulings in such cases, his New York apartment sale income can be considered exempt from calculations about "added gross income" for 1969.

The regulation says that, if a taxpayer supplies on his return "information sufficient to apprise the District Director (of Internal Revenue) of the nature and amount" of monies gained but not rated by the payer as "income," this simple act of disclosure frees him from having the sums figured as part of a possible 25 per cent excess.

So what, in the end, do we have here?

We have the President, no less, selling his New York apartment for a handsome profit, noting it on his 1969 return but saying it wasn't "income" because he used it to buy a "principal residence" at San Clemente, yet doing nothing else to establish the legitimacy of that asserted residency.

The IRS doesn't pick up the discrepancy, so the normal three-year statute of limitations runs out in 1973 on what is then taken as a proper transaction. Belatedly, the deal is checked and redefined as "income." The little hooker about "disclosure" saves him from the six-year rule. Mr. Nixon says he'll pay up on 1969 "voluntarily" and wins plaudits from supposed tax experts in Congress. Marvelous!

County accepts deeds

Civic Center in Chino advances

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — Development of Chino's Civic Center has moved a step closer as grant deeds for three additional parcels of land were accepted Monday by the Board of Supervisors, entailing an expenditure of $155,000.

The land is located at the northwest corner of Central and D streets in Chino, the project being a joint venture by Chino and the county. Supervisor Robert O. Townsend has been a prime mover in the development. The county is depending on revenue sharing and Chino looks to the Civic Center for funds.

Townsend said it was most important to him and "I am certain it will be to the people in the Chino environs. I am looking forward to more purchases in the future." Two more land purchases are now in preliminary stages.

The county has scheduled occupancy in 1975 by the following departments: agriculture, assessor, building and safety, health, supervisor's office and conference room and general conference rooms. Already occupied is the $10,600 library dedicated last year.

The master plan also provides for criminal court justice facilities: attorneys' rooms, district attorney's office, marshal, municipal court, municipal court clerk, probation, public defender and sheriff.

Total square footage amounts to 61,-675. The county's space requirements are starting to level off and there will be ample room for Chino city offices.

YTS' No. 2 man will head unit at Paso Robles

CHINO — Ronald Lopez, 43, now assistant superintendent at the California Youth Training School here, has been appointed the superintendent of the California Youth Authority's Paso Robles School soon to be reopened.

Lopez will take charge of the Paso Robles School within the next few months, along with another YTS officer, Roy Ottoson, 42, who will be appointed assistant superintendent, said Allen F. Breed, director of the CYA.

According to Breed and Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, an agreement has been reached between the county and the CYA that will place 200 Los Angeles County juvenile offenders at YTS in return for $1.19 million in funds and equipment for the now closed Paso Robles School. The agreement also calls for the CYA to house an additionnal 50 Los Angeles County offenders in the Ventura CYA facility.

The Paso Robles School has been vacant for the past two years. It was closed because of declining Youth Authority institution populations, said Breed. Two hundred CYA wards will be moved from YTS to the Paso Robles School to make room for the Los Angeles juvenile offenders.

Schabarum said the agreement with the CYA was the county's "only option." He said, "Recognizing it is expensive, we must acquire the use of these quarters for the next fiscal year in order to alleviate overcrowding at the juvenile facilities in Los Angeles County."

The county has had space problems for detention of juvenile offenders since the 1971 earthquake destroyed the San Fernando Valley Juvenile Hall.

Help wanted: German spy

When I was a small boy, what I wanted to grow up to be was a spy— or at least a voyeur. I never made it, spy-wise.

My chance has come. West Germany's Federal Intelligence Service, Bundesnachrichtendiesnt is now advertising for espionage agents, offering an exciting job, with travel, fringe benefits and good pay. Not strong on security.

But fancy putting out want ads for spies! How demeaning. Us romantics have long lamented the demise of glamor, melodrama, and chivalry from that most basic of human activities, war. But this is the livin' end. Or dead end.

Even as late as World War I a certain code was observed, a rigid pattern of gentlemanly conduct. Eric Von Stroheim, the Boche, with his monocle and saber scars, saluted gallantly as he shot down the American ace, Richard Dix, with Fifi D'Orsay's white scarf flying from the fuselage of the Spad. Gosh, they don't MAKE movies like that anymore!

It is the passing of these same noble traditions from the field of espionage that distresses me. The old-time spy, from whom we got secret plans, military data and a thousand adventure stories, is a thing of the past.

Today governments can obtain more information from an IBM machine in Kansas City than from a perfumed Mata Hari in a Vienesse boudoir.

And the things these espionage agents are curious about today! When I was Frank Hardy, Boy Spy of Budapest, the Allies wanted to know a few basic things — how many troops the King of Austria had, how far the Kaiser's cannon would fire, and such.

Today's espionage plums are the structural design of the new Contraves-Oerlikon LSD-58 expellerator, the tensile strength of the supersecret Gesundheit IX, the floor plan of the Bundesnachrichtendienst. Frank Hardy couldn't even pronounce them, much less steal them.

Your proper spy of the old days wore a broad-brimmed hat and black cape to be inconspicuous. He had dark glasses, a mustache, a poisoned dagger and a bottle of invisible ink. His orders were printed on rice paper which he would swallow if anyone looked cross-eyed at him.

The spy of today is a clean-limbed young man trained in law, languages, electronics and other esoteria. He wears conventional business suits, drinks sparingly and is hopelessly dull.

Frank Hardy (X-24) would drug the guards of the bulgarian embassy at Trieste, pick a lock and rifle a safe. He would turn over the stolen plans to a blind flower peddler, who would leave them in a bouquet of asphodels on the third table from the window of the Cafe Exelsior. Then a little old lady—you'd never DREAM she was an agent!—comes in for her afternoon vermouth cassis. . . well, you get the idea. Exciting.

Nowadays, Lee Cameron Stephens (probably not even an alias) checks into a hotel in Berlin, beams his ultraray spectophotometer at the Yugoslavian headquarters a mile away, adjusts the radio-chromatograph, turns on the tape recorder and picks up Playboy magazine.

Next morning he jets back to Washington with the stolen secrets and a jar of sauerkraut.

COMEDIANS

You repeatedly hear in TV commercials the distinctive voices of dead comedians. W. C. Fields, especially. But Hugh Herbert, Bert Lahr, and Ned Sparks, too. They were pretty stylish those old boys. Relied more on their individuality than on their material. It's just the opposite with today's comedians, mostly. A client asks if the heirs of the bygone wits could possibly sue their imitators. All I know is you can sue anybody for anything.

The doctor comments

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son was in the Air Force in Vietnam for approximately one year. At the end of this time he became sick and was sent to a hospital in Japan. He had some kind of infection in the lymph glands which was cleared up but the main problem was with his left arm which kept going to sleep when held in a certain position. After many, many tests it was diagnosed as "Thoracic Outlet Syndromebilateral." He was sent back to the States to a medical center where he went all through the same tests again.

He was told there that his top rib was very high and a vein was being pinched between his collarbone and top rib, interfering with the circulation. One doctor told him he should have it removed (the top rib), and another told him it was something he could live with and he was sent back to duty. He is now in the National Guard.

This condition still bothers him, and I think he is worried that he has something more than he was told. I would really appreciate your opinion on this matter.

Dear Reader — It sounds to me as if your son has had some pretty smart doctors. Your description of the problem is a fairly typical one. Sometims a person has an extra rib, off the last neck vertebrae (a cervical rib) that acts this way. Soldiers were noted to have this problem when carrying a backpack. The straps around the shoulders to the pack would pull the shoulders back under the weight of the pack. This would pull the collarbone back compressing the arteries and sometimes the veins and nerves in this area.

Another way this can happen is for certain muscles in the neck to be pulled taut over an artery or nerve and cause problems in the arm. Some people have obstructive compression from muscles or tendons in the arm. The only way to define the problem and what is causing the obstruction is by careful examinations.

When the symptoms are marked or there are problems in the function of the hand or arm, the obstruction can be relieved. This eliminates the problem. If the obstruction is not severe and the symptoms are not all that troublesome, then one can ignore the proble mwithout surgery. Incidentally, the surgery isn't all that difficult or dangerous. It is a fairty simply procedure.

I'm inclined to think, from the complete description you have made and what your son has been told, that neither he nor you have anything to worry about. I'm confident he has been told a fairly complete story regarding his health.

DEAR DI. LAMB — I read your piece about the man who used electricity to cure arthritis, and you said it was no good. I just wondered about using heating pads. I have done this often.

Dear Reader — That's a horse of a different color. Heat, if used properly, will help relax the muscles and prevent muscle spasm. It is very useful. It will not cure arthritis, but with a sore joint from osteoarthritis (the wear and tear kind) it can help give you relief. Some of the soreness in wear and tear arthritis is from associated muscle soreness.

A delightful place to visit

Article No. 2

By: Donald W. Reynolds

VIENNA, Austria—The Austrians have a happy faculty of being able to accept things they can't change, so more than seven million of them live in this pint-sized country about the size of the state of Maine.

This is all that remains of an empire that once extended from Naples to the North Sea, from Hungary to Portugal and included the Spanish possessions in the Americas.

In 1918 the six-hundred-year rule of the Hapsburgs ended and the fifty-one million population was cut to seven—and Vienna dropped from more than two million to its present one and three-quarters million.

Following the first World War Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and parts of present day Romania, Poland and Italy were all carved out of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Small wonder that for the last half century Vienna has been accepted as a capital city in search of a country! As one Austrian journalist has expressed it, "If Austria has a future it is as the National Park of Europe."

Definitely a delightful place to visit. The Hotel Imperial in Vienna, now entering its second century of operation, has been modernized with a deft had and is accepted as one of the ten best hotels in the world.

The Austrian generally attaches greater importance to making an art of life than to the mere fact that in order to live well, one first needs money. Memories of the extravagant lives of the Austrian aristocracy of a few generations ago still dominate the desires of the average citizen.

If the Austrian can't make it on his own—and it is a nation of "unfinishers"—the easy answer seems to be nationalization. The wide spread inclination is to start major projects with vigor and enterprise—and then realize that the whole thing is considerably more attractive incomplete. Mozart never finished his Requiem nor Bruckner his last symphony. And Schubert's most popular symphony was also to remain the "unfinished."

As recently as 1946 the Austrian parliament agreed to nationalization of most of Austria's basic industries. Today, in addition to a huge government bureaurcracy more than a sixth of all industrial employees work for the government. Iron and steel; engineering and ship building; the electrical industry; oil and chemicals as well as coal production is all government operated with the workers having the right to occupy a third of the seats on the board of directors. Franz Joseph, the last of the strong Hapsburg Emperors, must still be spinning in his grave.

Neutral territory, a strategic geographical location between the iron curtain countries and the democracies of Western Europe, Austria is the perfect host. Certainly an ideal spot for a holiday!

All of this written before the calling of that most irritating of tourist problems—a taxi strike! It is astounding the longing nostalgia one has for the world wide average, "loud," "meter rigging," "uncouth," "short changing," "rude," "thieving" cab operator—as compared to no taxi driver at all! There really isn't much to be said for the semi-modern Viennese street cars when you are hunting for an obscure restaurant or shop!

AAA says gas easier to get, but price up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's motorists are finding it increasingly easier to purchase gasoline at service stations, but the cost is steadily climbing, the American Automobile Association has reported.

The AAA said its latest spotcheck covering 6,051 service stations in every state but Alaska showed that only 2 per cent were out of fuel, compared to 3 per cent last week.

The average price of a gallon of regular gas was 54 cents, the AAA said, same as last week. But the average price for a gallon of premium grade fuel increased to 58 cents, one cent higher than last week. Federal energy chief William E. Simon has said the price for regular might go as high as 70 cents a gallon.

A fuel cost breakdown by the AAA showed that California, Hawaii, Illinois, Mississippi and New York shared the highest average price for regular gasoline, 56 cents a gallon. New York, Illinois and Hawaii reported the highest average price per gallon for premium at 60 cents. Texas had the lowest average for both regular and premium —49 cents and 53 cents.

Bostonians mark Revere's ride

BOSTON (UPI) — Bostonians turned out by the thousands for Patriots Day celebrations Monday, commemorating Paul Revere's historic ride to alert Colonists that British soldiers were marching toward town.

Banks, schools and state offices were closed in Massachusetts and Maine, the only two states in the country to celebrate the holiday.

Nearly 100,000 persons attended Massachusetts parades in Arlington and Lexington. The day's festivities included the reenactment of Paul Revere's ride through Arlington and on to Lexington.

Supreme Court upholds Civil Service firings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A divided Supreme Court Tuesday upheld provisions for the firing of federal Civil Service employes when they make public statements which their bosses regard as harmful to the "efficiency of the service."

In its only other decision today, the court ruled that the end of a labor strike does not necessarily mean that all legal issues raised during the strike are moot and out of reach of the courts.

Five separate opinions, including two dissents, were handed down in the Civil Service case. None of the opinions can stand as the court's because none had support from at least five of the justices. But six justices agreed with each other enough to come up with a simple judgment that the Civil Service law is constitutional.

The case arose over dismissal of Wayne Kennedy, a nonprobationary employe of the Chicago branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Kennedy charged publicly that his boss had taken a bribe, although he presented no proof. Kennedy was dismissed under the Lloyd-La-Follette Act which provides for employe removal to improve government efficiency.

Kennedy went to court claiming that the notification provisions of the act and his chances to defend himself denied him proper legal procedures. He also said the law limited his free expression.

A three-judge federal court agreed with Kennedy, but the Supreme Court did not.

In the strike case, Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for a 5-4 majority, said that a New Jersey company could ask the courts to rule whether welfare benefits for strikers were illegal even though its own strike had ended.

The court did not decide the original issue of strike welfare legality, ruling only that lower courts have jurisdiction in such a case.

The case was brought by Super Tire Engineering Co. against New Jersey officials, but did not go to court until a six-week strike against the company had ended.

Blackmun said the lawsuit was still alive since the state law providing welfare benefits to strikers could easily influence contract bargaining and union strength in the future.

Blackmun also said that many labor issues could not be resolved by courts if the high court ruled otherwise. Strikes are often of short duration, he said, but should still be subject to judicial intervention.

Cranston cites inequities in S.S. payments

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Senator Alan Cranston today said Congress should force large corporations and high bracket tax payers to pay a larger share of the cost of social security.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the California AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, Cranston said a worker earning $13,200 in 1969 paid $374 to social security compared with $772 this year, a 100.6 per cent increase.

Cranston said corporate, estate and income taxes should be used to gradually offset increases in the costs of social security.

"Both the man making $13,200 and the man making $50,000 pay the same amount into social security—$722. But while that comes to 5.8 per cent of the income of the man making $13,200, it is only 1.5 per cent of the man making $50,000."

Campbell saves Twins

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Bill Campbell of the Minnesota Twins serves as a great example of never giving up.

The former Ganesha High and Mt. San Antonio College baseball player has developed into one of the better relief pitchers in the major leagues.

There was little indication in Campbell's early years he would ever develop his skills.

The Ganesha graduate of 1965 played only one season of varsity baseball and that was as a third baseman and outfielder. In his one year at MSAC (1966), he pitched only 16 innings.

But Campbell was a key man in leading the Twins to a 6-0 win over the Angels Tuesday night at Anaheim Stadium as he finished up for starter Joe Decker in a five-hit shutout to cool down the league-leading Angels.

Campbell, who stands 6-foot-3, has taken part in four of the Twins' five wins with one victory and three saves. In 9 2-3 innings of work, he still hasn't allowed a run.

"It has just been a combination of things," Campbell said in trying to explain his success. "I've been helped by our coaches and catchers. I listen to them."

Campbell, who signed a Minnesota contract following two years of Army duty after seeing his MSAC career interrupted by the military draft, came up from Tacoma (Pacific Coast League) last July. He compiled seven saves with a 2.11 ERA in relief.

"I didn't pitch until I got to MSAC," Campbell said. "I learned everything from my coach, Ron Squire." Thanks to the coaching, Campbell uses a screwball and slider with his basic fastball.

Squire, who is now a counselor at MSAC and scout for the Philadelphia Phillies, remembers Campbell well.

"It's a true Cinderella story," Squire said, "and all the credit must go to Campbell himself. He had to be discouraged with his lack of innings at our place but he stuck with it."

Decker, who struck out 11 Angels in his 6 1-3 innings of work, left the game when his elbow stiffened up. Campbell came on to retire seven of the next eight batters with only Mike Epstein getting on base with a harmless single.

It was a tight pitching battle most of the way between Decker and Nolan Ryan, who pitched his best game of the young season. Through eight innings, Ryan had allowed only four hits but was trailing 1-0 because of leadoff hitter Sergio Ferrer's opening triple in the first inning and Rod Carew's run-producing ground out.

But the Twins broke the game open in the ninth inning with five runs — four unearned — as Larry Hisle ripped a three-run homer. After singles by Ferrer and Carew opening the inning, Ryan hit Tony Oliva with a pitch to load the bases. Bobby Darwin hit a sacrifice fly which was dropped by rightfielder Lee Stanton when he collided with Mickey Rivers to enable two runs to score.

Ryan got the next two batters without any damage but Hisle cleared the bases with his shot into the leftfield bullpen.

"I made a couple of bad pitches, especially that hanging curve to Hisle," Ryan said, "but I thought it generally was a pretty good performance."

Ryan, who had his biggest strikeout performance of the campaign with 11, came within one out of pitching his first complete game without a walk. Glenn Borgmann drew a free pass after Hisle's homer.

"I threw a few changeups, which I've tried to develop this spring to take the strain off my arm," Ryan explained.

"Those five runs helped me relax," Campbell grinned.

After being a starter in his minor league days, the Pomona native has adjusted to the bullpen. "I've accepted it," he said, "because it looks like that's what I am going to do."

ANGEL ANGLES — Bill Stoneman, another former Mt. San Antonio College pitcher, will make his Angel debut on the mound tonight against Dick Woodson. Frank Tanana will face Bert Blyleven in Thursday's 1 p.m. contest . . .

Lee Stanton's 10-game hitting streak came to an end. Prior to Tuesday's shutout loss, the Angels were hitting .302 at home and were averaging 7.2 runs per game . . .

Ryan has started 156 games in the major league. It took Sandy Koufax 154 starts to pitch his first walkless complete game.

Desperate shot eliminates Kings

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "desperation shot" by Jim Pappin put the Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup semi-finals for the 15th straight year in which they have competed for hockey's most prized trophy Tuesday night.

Pappin's shot, with 4:37 left in the game, went into the Los Angeles Kings' net "like a knuckleball," giving the Hawks a 1-0 victory and a 4-1 triumph in games in the best-of-seven quarterfinal series.

Hawks goalie Tony Esposito had to protect the margin in the waning minutes and his teammates gave him so much help that the Kings got only three shots on goal in the final 20 minutes and only 18 in the game.

Esposito wound up with his second straight shutout over the Kings and a string of 155 minutes, 37 seconds in which he held the Kings scoreless.

Until Pappin's shot, it looked like Esposito might have to blank his rivals for an even longer span.

"It was a desperation shot," Pappin said. "The defenseman gave me a little bit of room over the blue line and I just thought if I could get a good shot away on net, maybe there'd be a reound or Dennis (Hull) would come in on the other side. It was strictly desperation.

"I just tried to get everything I had on the shot. My whole intent and purpose was to just get the puck in their end and try to get a good shot on goal. The defenseman got enough of a stick on it to change its direction and give it a little funny dip and that's what fooled the goaltender."

The puck bounced off goalie Rogatien Vachon and into the cage striking the bar in the back of the net. "It dropped quite a bit," Vachon said, "and I couldn't even get a glove on it."

The win put the Hawks into the next round, opening at Boston Tuesday, and none of the Hawks anticipated an easy road even though Boston failed to beat them in six games during the regular season, tying four times.

"I don't think we'll have any psychological edge against Boston," Hawks Coach Billy Reay said. "It's a new season now. We played well against Boston this winter but now you can't tell about these things."

Esposito, who will be playing against his brother, league-leading scorer Phil Esposito, in the Boston series, agreed with Reay that "everybody will have to give over 100 per cent because we know they're great."

Esposito praised his teammates for their performance against Kings because he said "you know, a team gets one goal and it's all over. Our team works harder. We just tried to keep it tight and finally got a break. I thought we had control of the game."

Wynn starts rally which beats Reds

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jimmy Wynn was born in Cincinnati but he seems to have found a home in Los Angeles.

The 5-foot-9, 170-pound Wynn, swapped by Houston to Los Angeles during the winter, homered for one of two runs which enabled the Dodgers to tie the Cincinnati Reds in the ninth inning Tuesday night.

"Wynn's homer woke us up," said Dodger Manager Walt Alston.

A bases-loaded double by Bill Russell off Fred Norman with one out in the 11th inning put the Reds to rest as the Dodgers, wiping out an early 30 deficit, won the series opener 5-3.

"In a clutch situation," said Alston, "I would just as soon see Russell up at the plate as anyone on the club. It just seems to me that he kicks himself in the tail when runners are on base.

"I do consciously bear down more when runners are on base," admitted Russell. "I concentrate more ... don't swing at just anything they throw up at the plate."

Wynn's home run was his fifth. He also has three doubles and a triple among his 12 hits.

"Wynn sure amazes me," said Dodger batting coach Dixie Walker. "I look at him and wonder where he generates such power. He's like Hank Aaron, though. He will fool you when you see him in civies. That's because you don't see the strength he has from the waist up, in the chest, shoulders, and arms."

Jim Brewer, a long-time Red nemesis, pitched hitless ball the last three innings to gain his first victory. He took over after Mike Marshall put the Reds down in order in the eighth.

Reds starter Clay Kirby was working on a one-hit shutout with a three-run lead when Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith homered in the sixth. A stiff back forced Kirby from the game after seven innings.

It was then that Borbon, victim of the Dodgers' ninth inning uprising, entered the game.

Walton may make choice by April 29

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sam Gilbert, the man who advises UCLA's Bill Walton, said Tuesday that the ABA will move a club here if Walton signs a contract with a league team.

"I have an offer from both the ABA and NBA," said Gilbert. "Both offers are about in the same ball park. If Bill consents to join the ABA, a team will be moved here. I expect Bill to make his decision April 29."

The Portland Trail Blazers and the San Diego Conquistadors have the NBA and the ABA draft rights respectively to Walton, college basketball's Player of the Year the past three seasons.

However, Gilbert said the Conquistadors would relinquish them if Walton agrees to play for a proposed franchise based in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

"I don't think the ABA and NBA will make any more offers," said Gilbert. "They're about the same although the ABA has thrown a few more things in like a territorial draft.

"Bill isn't leaning either way. He has been in Mexico three weeks and hasn't seen the ABA offer. We don't want any form of complex negotiating. When Bill returns, he'll sit down and quietly make his own decision. And all speculation now as to what he'll do is to no avail."

Gilbert negotiated Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's contract with the NBA Milwaukee Bucks in 1969.

Lamonica, McKeever in fold

Sun gets quarterback

ANAHEIM — The Southern California Suns has its quarterback. But like other WFL teams who have signed NFL stars, it will have to wait for 1975 to get him in uniform.

Daryle Lamonica, all-pro signal caller of the Oakland Raiders, Tuesday signed a multi-year contract with the Suns. The 6-3, 215 pound veteran was the Sporting News Player of the Year in 1967 and 1969.

His best year was 1969 when he passed for 3,302 yards and 34 touchdowns. His career marks including 19,119 yards passing for 163 touchdowns and a 49 per cent completion rate.

Former USC and Ram star Marlin McKeever came out of retirement (a front office job with the league) to sign a player contract with the Sun along with Lamonica.

Lamonica will have to play out his option at Oakland this fall. Although refusing to divulge the terms of his contract except to say, "I'm very happy," Lamonica (according to Northern California sources) signed for a package deal that included deferred payments and incentives with the total in the $1 million range over a period of three of four years.

"This was a major decision for me," Lamonica said, "but one that is right for Daryle Lamonica. I'm excited about the WFL and very much impressed with the Southern California Sun. This is one of my biggest opportunities as a pro."

Lamonica lost his starting job to left-hander Kenny Stabler last year and hinted that the reason might have been because of his preference for the wide-open passing type of game.

"I think it might have been more of a political thing than talent," he said first, but later amended that to, "more of a misunderstanding over policy. I only know one way to play . . .wide open."

General Manager Curly Morrison revealed the Sun is in negotiaion with other NFL stars.

"We're going to try and sign six or seven futures from the NFL for 1975," he said. "We're going for specific positions, a wide receiver, a great down lineman to put pressure on the passing, and an offensive lineman are among them."

Lamonica, before he was whisked off by WFL founder Gary Davidson, remarked, "The WFL is more advanced than I realized."

Sun officials revealed that the day following the WFL signing of Larry Czonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield there was a long line outside the ticket office located in the lobby at Anaheim Stadium.

Some 7500 season tickets have been sold to date and it "has not been a hard sell" to quote one of the team officials. Tuesday's announcement should have brought out another line today.

Bucks, Celtics appear headed for NBA finals

By United Press International

The Milwaukee Express looks like it'll make a quick stop in Chicago before proceeding to Boston for the National Basketball Association championship playoff series.

Milwaukee romped past Chicago 101-85 while Boston flattened New York 111-99 Tuesday night to lead their respective series. The Bucks are 1-0 and the Celtics 2-0.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Dandridge each scored 25 points for Milwaukee as Chicago appeared to be suffering an emotional letdown after the trying seven-game quarterfinal series with Detroit.

"This is a thinking man's series but tonight we didn't think at all," complained Chicago Coach Dick Motta. "We were mentally and physically flat. If we don't get more intensity into our game, it's going to be a very short series."

Milwaukee's defense handcuffed high scoring forwards Chet Walker and Bob Love, holding them to a total of 30 points.

Abdul-Jabbar figures Chicago will be tougher as the series continues.

"I don't think the first game is any indication of how the series will go. Chicago is a good team and they're not going to lie down the rest of the games."

Boston, revving up for its first title series in five years, also used tough defense to shackle New York. The Knicks were held to 14 points in the third quarter while the Celts dominated the boards and scored 35 points in the session.

John Havlicek was high for the game with 27 points, including a sensational 19 in the first quarter that fell just three short of Elgin Baylor's record for one period in a non-final playoff game.

"I had the hot hand. I was the trailer on a few fast breaks and got lucky," Havlicek says. His "luck" consisted of seven straight baskets late in the opening quarter.

Walt Frazier, New York's leader with 21 points, claims "we just haven't played our game yet. They were gambling a lot, leaving guys open, while burning us on the break. We had to struggle for our points while it came easy for them."

Earl Monroe, faced with the prospect of four straight defeats, shrugged and said that "if you got to lose, you might as well lose quickly."

Coming back from a 2-0 deficit has been accomplished previously. The Knicks know that nobody has ever won an NBA title after trailing 3-0.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Now to get back to business.

After spending a week out of conference competition during the Easter vacation, most of the valley college track teams will hop back into their conferences this week.

Mt. San Antonio College will host San Diego Mesa Friday in a battle for second place in the South Coast Conference, Chaffey will host Riverside and Citrus in Mission Conference competition Friday, Cal Poly faces Cal St. Fullerton in CCAA action, Claremont-Mudd hosts Pomona-Pitzer and La Verne visits Whittier in SCIAC competition Saturday.

So, as you can see, there will be plenty of track action this weekend — and this time it counts.

MSAC is still stinging from its first conference dual meet loss in six years against Fullerton.

"It was one of the finest meets at MSAC since I've been here," said Mountie assistant track coach John Norton at the weekly track luncheon held at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona Tuesday. "And now we battle San Diego Mesa for second place They (Mesa) feel they can handle us this week. It's going to be a very competitive meet."

Two school records were broken in the Mounties' meet with Fullerton. Scott Flox shattered the old mark by winning the shot put at 54-5, and javelin thrower Dave Krogh posted a record-breaking 226-2 throw.

Of course, next week the Mounties host their prestigious Mt. SAC Relays. "We have a lot of entries," stated Mountie coach Don Ruh. "It looks good in every area, and we should have a great distance field."

Meanwhile, Chaffey will be hosting a tough Citrus team which will be shooting for a tie for the lead in the Mission.

"Palomar goes against Grossmont (conference leader) this week," stated Citrus assistant coach Vince O'Boyle. "Grossmont should beat Palomar, but if it doesn't turn out that way, we'll have to beat Chaffey in order to get into a tie for first."

The Owls recently suffered a loss against Grossmont to throw the Owls into second place. "We feel some good breaks would have taken the event right down to the mile relay, but it didn't turn out that way."

Even though Citrus lost the meet, Owl sprinter Rick Wilmoth had an outstanding day. He not only posted a 9.4-second clocking in the 100, but also came up with a 21.0 second sprint in the 220.

For his superb performances, which are the best marks in the state, Wilmoth was selected the valley's junior college track athlete of the week.

The Owls somewhat made up for the loss to Grossmont by winning their division in the Southern California Relays last weekend. "We didn't take a lot of athletes to the Relays," said O'Boyle. "But we won with some blue chip athletes."

QUOTING THE COACHES:

Chuck Hicks, Chaffey: "It's going to be a difficult meet with Citrus and Riverside. Citrus won the SoCal Relays, while we placed fourth. Riverside is on an unusual vacation and will only field a partial team . . . Some of our top performers over the past two weeks include Richard Jimenez who broke the school record in the two mile (9:27.2), Tony Lewis who posted a jump of 48-0½ in the triple jump, and Matt Wagner who had his best pole vault of the season at 14-7.

Fred Jones, Cal Poly: "We enjoyed going to UC Irvine, where we won easily. It was kind of a relaxer . . . Our meet with Cal State Los Angeles was a real indicator. They are a real strong team. I used all the psych I could to get our guys up for the meet. The intensity was there. (Cal Poly lost the meet) . . . We face Cal State Fullerton this week, but they really don't have a lot of depth." Note: Cal Poly quarter miler Doug Dantzler was named the four-year college track athlete of the week.

Pat Mulcahy, Pomona-Pitzer: "We had a super meet against Occidental, and I don't think you could find a better small college track meet around. Even though we lost, I can't complain when we do that well. We face Claremont-Mudd this week, but they shouldn't be much of a problem. We'll do a little experimenting and basically get ready for the conference meet."

Kauffman first pick by the ABA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buffalo center Bob Kauffman was the first of an expected 50 players chosen by the American Basketball Association today in its first open draft of National Basketball Association players.

Kauffman, a rugged 6-8, 240-pounder who still has at least a year left in his obligation to the Braves, was selected by Virginia after the Squires won a coin flip with Memphis for the top pick.

Merenda drives La Verne to top of standings in SCIAC

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — For at least 24 hours, La Verne College was sure of having first place all to itself in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC).

Hank Merenda's two-run homer in the ninth inning Tuesday afternoon at La Verne, gave the Leos a come-from-behind win over visiting Whittier.

That moved the Leopards (6-1) a half game ahead of Claremont-Mudd (5-1) and Whittier (7-3) in the standings. However, the Stags could pull even today with a win over Pomona-Pitzer in a game that was scheduled for 3 p.m. on the Sagehens' diamond.

The Leopards got only six hits, five of them singles. A towering smash by Mike Alonso in the third inning was ruled foul by the umpire depriving the Leos of two runs since Merenda, who had walked, was on base.

Through six innings, Andy Castillo of the Poets allowed only leadoff singles in the second and sixth to Nick Leyva and Paul Flemming. Meanwhile, Whittier took a 1-0 lead on a leadoff home run by Nolan Ramirez in the top of the sixth.

La Verne tied it in the bottom of the sixth. But poor base running cost the Leos a possible big inning.

With Fleming on first and nobody out, Alonso hit a smash by third base which Ramirez flagged deep in the hole at at short. He threw to second but Sod Wilhelm dropped the ball and there were two on.

Wayne Redfearn hit a shot to center field, but it was flagged by Willie Norman after a long run, Flemming taking third after the catch. Leyva walked and the Leos had the bases loaded with only one out.

Art Sanchez hit a sharp grounder to third. Flemming scored, but Alonso was forced out on the play although the Leo third base coach didn't think so and told Alonso to stay there. Meanwhile the Whittier infield had whipped the ball to first trying for a double play on Sanchez. Leyva broke for third but seeing Alonso still there, became confused and tried to go back to second and was tagged out.

Randy Bisho's double and Matt Pinto's single put Whittier back in front, 2-1, in the seventh. The Leos tied it in the eighth when Redfearn singled in pinch runner Jeff O'Connor who had stolen second.

That set the stage for Merenda's fourth homer of the year in the ninth giving the win to Mike Ginocchio who had relieved Robb Mayhew in the Whittier ninth.

Poly, APC enjoy big baseball wins

Poly batters mauled Loyola pitchers for 18 hits in an 11-3 victory. Azusa Pacific defeated Point Loma 7-3 in a Division Three game.

APC now is 19-11 overall and 10-2 in divisional play. Point Loma, second in divisional standings, now is 7-5 and 12-15 overall.

Poly coach John Scolinos was a happy man after the game. "We hit the ball very well," he said. "It was our best hitting of the year."

The Broncos scored eight runs in the first three innings and broke the game open with a five-run third.

Doubles by Pete Alexander, Dennis Rogers and Dick Parkhouse followed by Dave Chapman's home run accounted for four runs. Nick Lusic singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Monty Cloward's single.

Cloward had four hits. Rogers, Parkhouse, Chapman, and Alexender two hits apiece. Poly (16-19) will meet SLO in a single game Friday and a twinbill Saturday at Poly.

APC got off to a good start in the first inning against Point Loma. Mark Rogers slammed a two-run homer after winning pitcher Mike Jones had singled.

The Cougars made it 4-0 in the fourth. Curt Mitchell walked and was forced at second by John Tully. Tully stole second and scored on Ken Nance's double. Ed Shaw drove in Nance with a single.

Three runs in the sixth sewed it up for APC.

Nance was hit by a pitch. Shaw and Monty Geary singled to load the bases. Bryan Stevens was the designated runner for Shaw. Jones hit a sacrifice fly to center scoring Nance. Stevens moved to third and Geary to second after the catch.

Mark Rogers layed down a swinging bunt that went for a hit scoring Stevens. Ted Dominguez singled in the final run.

APC faces Pacific Christian Thursday with Jim Donker on the mound.

ALTA LOMA — Chaffey College romped to an easy 9-3 victory over visiting Saddleback Tuesday afternoon.

The Panthers again ran wild on the basepaths stealing eight bases in eight attempts. That gives Howard Lowder's thieves 121 for the season in 136 attempts.

Dennis Hawkins was the main culprit as far as Saddleback was concerned. The "Hawk" was 2-for-2 on the basepaths to bring his total to 36 steals in 39 attempts. Hawkins has stolen 30 of 32 in league games.

Chaffey now is 20-9 for the season and 4-1 in the second half of the split league season. The Panthers will play off the first half tie for the title with Palomar after the second half ends.

Next opponent is San Bernardino Valley College Thursday at San Bernardino.

Mounties set up showdown in SCC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

COSTA MESA — Mt. San Antonio College gets its chance to erase part of the three-game lead front-running Cerritos holds in the South Coast Conference baseball standings in single games with the leaders Thursday and Saturday.

The Mounties setup the key South Coast meetings with Cerritos with their 10th victory in a row Tuesday, a 6-2 thumping of last place Orange Coast.

It was MSAC's 24th win in 29 games on the season, giving coach Art Mazmanian's club the second best won-lost record in the state. Cerritos' 26-2 mark is tops, but the Mounties plan on changing that.

Sophomore righthander Charlie Fallon picked up the victory Tuesday, paving the way for freshman lefthanders Bobby Chaulk (6-1) and Jim Vallone (4-1) to face the Falcons Thursday and Saturday.

It was Fallon's fifth victory in seven appearances this year. In control most of the way — three hits in the first five innings — Fallon gave up three consecutive singles in the sixth, but pitched his way out of trouble.

Orange Coast scored single tallies in the second and third frames with the aid of MSAC errors.

Fallon finished up by allowing eight hits, while striking out eight Pirate batters.

The Mounties opened up with a single tally in the first inning and then put the Bucs out of contention with a three-run fifth inning.

Doubles by veteran centerfielder Pat Corcoran started the explosion in both frames. Corcoran scored twice and singled in the eighth to help push across MSAC's sixth run of the game.

In the fifth, Corcoran's two-bagger was followed by singles by Javier Fierro, Kevin Bell and Mark Bumstead.

The Mounties host Cerritos Thursday in a 2:30 p.m. game and then visit the Falcons in Norwalk Saturday for a game scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. In one previous encounter MSAC lost a 5-2 decision to the front-runners.

Iles leads Upland to SAL victory

By MARK GRIP
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — Steve Iles struck out 14 batters and allowed three hits en route to his fourth league win without a defeat as the Upland Highlanders beat the Pomona Red Devils 7-1, in San Antonio League baseball action at Pomona High Tuesday afternoon.

Upland allied four times in the fifth inning on two hits and two costly Devil errors to put the game out of reach.

Jeff Brackey then replaced Red Devil starter Mark Lambert on the mound and walked Tony Votaw.

Dale Arneson then singled home Bordato and Zamudio scored when Pomona catcher Mike Wooten couldn't handle the throw to the plate.

By the time the dust had cleared, the Scots had extended their lead to 7;0.

The Devil's only run came in the sixth inning. Jim Price led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Wooten's single to left.

Upland scored the initial run of the ball game in the second inning. Du Vall sliced a triple down the left field line and scored when Votaw followed with a double to center field.

DuVall and Votaw combined for two triples, a double, a home run, and three RBIs.

Pomona, haunted by errors, have committed 20 in the seven league games they have played.

Overshadowed by the hitting performances of DuVall (two for three) and Votaw (two-for-two), were Schneekluth (two-for-two) and Arneson (three-for-five).

Iles walked two and allowed six baserunners in picking up his fifth victory in six decisions overall.

The win keeps Upland in a tie for the SAL lead with Montclair who beat Chino, both boasting 6-1 records. Pomona's record now drops below the .500 mark at 3-4.

Both teams will be on the road Friday with Pomona at Montclair and Upland traveling to Damien.

Damien beats vacation blues with 6-3 win

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — To save many marriages from total dissolvement, psychiatrists often recommend split vacations for husbands and wives. But split vacations for high schools are not recommended by baseball coaches as they can lead to the total dissolvement of a team.

Damien coach Matt Kolodge was expressing these same sentiments Tuesday as he watched his team get off to a sluggish start before topping Garey 6-3 on the loser's diamond.

The victory kept the Spartans right in the thick of the San Antonio League race with a 5-2 mark, one game behind co-leaders Upland and Montclair. Garey is still seeking its first league win.

Damien is the only school in the SAL that is having its Easter break this week instead of last and the Spartan players were letting their minds take a break for much of the game.

After taking a quick 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning on singles by Billy Karr, Bob Alexander and John Pignotti, in addition to two walks, Spartan starter Frank Pastore experienced some shaky fielding behind him, plus some untimely walks.

Garey's Robbie Franklin stroked a one-out triple in the bottom of the first and scored on Jerry Loftis' single. After Damien added another in the second, the Vikings tied it up with two unearned runs in the lower half of the third.

Rod Rodriquez started it off with a walk and then Franklin, by far the best Viking ball player, executed a perfect hit-and-run single to right. When the ball got past Stan Backer, Rodriquez sped home and Franklin went to third. Loftis then hit a deep drive to center to tie the game up.

But then Damien, and especially Pastore, came alive. Benefitting by a two-base throwing error by Loftis at shortstop, the Spartans scored one in the fifth and then added two more in the sixth, without getting a base hit.

Pastore really bore down after the third, giving up just three hits in the final four innings and winding up with 10 strikeouts for the game. John Pignotti had two hits and two RBI's for the winners while Alexander was also 2-3.

Damien has a tough time Friday in trying to come back from its vacation blues to host Claremont while Garey is home with Chino.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Montclair High's young head baseball coach Tom McFadden is learning not to look a gift horse in the mouth.

The Cavaliers finished the first round of San Antonio League play Tuesday afternoon tied for the lead with Upland (a 7-1 winner over Pomona) but some shabby Chino fielding aided the cause.

Montclair played spiritless ball but the Cowboys committed seven errors and the Cavs wound up on the top end of a 6-0 unearned decision.

All six Cav runs came as the result of Chino miscues.

Montclair and Upland each improved their league slates to 6-1, while Damien, a 6-3 winner over Garey, remains a game off the pace at 5-2.

"Our attitude was really poor today," said McFadden. "I don't know if it had anything to do with our loss to Bonita in the Elks Tourney or not."

"Jim (Rawls, Chino's coach) and I were talking and we agreed that we both played like two last place teams. We're going to be in trouble if we don't get straightened out.

"It's good to win but we're going to have to get with it or we'll be in trouble," concluded McFadden.

Chino righthander Keith Mundee (1-3, 0-1) and Cav hurler Bret Jetton (5-2, 4-1) were locked in a pitcher's duel for four innings.

Mundee had allowed just two hits while Jetton had yielded a pair of infield singles to the Cowboys.

But in the fifth, Mundee was struck by the Tuesday blues.

The Cavs pushed across four runs on three hits and three Chino miscues.

Mike Pittman's long fly to center scored Brown with the first run of the game and Gary Baker singled home the second tally. Mike Medeiros hit a ground ball through the legs of second baseman Manny Delgado, an error, for a run. And when centerfielder Tim Derryberry threw the ball over third base the fourth run of the inning came home.

Montclair added two more unearned runs in the sixth on a walk, Larry Wallace's third straight single and two errors.

Jetton, using his fastball as a change-of-pace, kept Chino off stride and didn't allow a hit after the third. The junior southpaw, while hurling his best game of the season, allowed just two infield hits — while picking up the complete game victory.

In fact, after the third frame only two Cowboys reached base, one coming on a walk and the other via a hit batsman.

Huddleston fires Pack past Giants

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — John Huddleston hurled a three-hitter and Claremont High took advantage of five Ganesha errors to post a 6-0 win over the Giants Tuesday afternoon in a San Antonio League baseball contest.

Huddleston set the Giants down without a run, fanning five and walking only two. The Wolfpack defense backed him with an errorless effort afield.

In contrast, Ganesha had its problems on defense, as five Giant errors led to four unearned runs.

Claremont got all the runs they were to need on the afternoon in the top of the first.

After Todd Ervin grounded out, Harry Brown, Dave Poling and Tony Janusz struck for consecutive singles which, combined with two Ganesha miscues, accounted for two runs.

The Pack scored again in the second, as Kent Stalwick singled, stole second, and scored as Giant hurler Paul Madrigal threw wildly on a pickoff attempt at second base.

Huddleston survived the only real Ganesha offensive threat in the second. Tracy Cowger and Paul Madrigal led off the frame with singles, but Huddleston bore down to retire the next three Giant batters. The only other Ganesha hit in the contest was Jerry Ankeny's double in the sixth.

Claremont picked up another unearned tally in the fourth to take a 4-0 lead and send Madrigal to the showers.

Mark Allen drew a two-out walk, and went to second as Madrigal also issued a walk to Ervin. Brown then singled to left, and Allen scored when Cowger dropped the relay throw from the outfield.

Huddleston's RBI single made it 5-0 in the fifth, and the Wolfpack closed out scoring on Ervin's booming triple to right and Brown's sacrifice fly in the sixth.

The win gets Claremont back in the winning track in SAL action, as last year's defending league champs are now 3-4 in loop play. Ganesha sags to a 1-6 SAL mark.

Both clubs have tough assignments Friday. Claremont will travel to Damien while Ganesha plays host to Upland.

Bumstead, Aguilera hurl shutout

By JOHN KEEPERS
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — Bill Bumstead allowed only one hit in five innings and reliever Steve Aguilera allowed two in the final two innings as Bonita High shut out Ontario 11-0 Tuesday at the Bearcat's home field.

Bumstead has now been scored upon only three times in the last 43 innings he has pitched, all of those coming against Cabrillo in the Elks Tournament.

Bonita scored its 11 runs on 10 hits for their seventh league win. They received a little help from the Ontario defense, though, as the Jaguars committed eight errors causing four of those 11 to be unearned.

Lead-off man Richard Ortega had a busy afternoon as he got on base three times on a single, an error, and a fielder's choice and came around Drake walked, advanced to to score all three times for Bonita. In the first inning, he stole second and after Harold third on an attempted pick off on Drake, which was dropped by the first baseman. He scored on Jay Lacheur's ground out to start the romp.

Royal Oak at San Dimas, 3:15 p.m.

Lacheur was one of three Bearcats to pick up two runs batted in, his second coming in the next inning when he squeeze-bunted in Ortega. Matt Covington picked up his two on one single which he stroked in the wide-open fourth with the bases loaded. Marty Schroedter got one in the first on a sacrifice fly and in the sixth on a single.

Bumstead, who helped his cause with a double and a single and scoring a run, looked as if he would have another no-hitter until the fifth when Tim Vacario looped Ontario's first into center. But that was all they were able to do against the Bearcat ace as he averaged 10 pitches an inning.

Bob Fry got the Jaguars' second in the sixth after two outs but saw the inning ended by a looking strike-out. Mike Phelps, who pinch hit for John Koopman, got the final tag in the next inning, but the superb Bonita defense ended the game with a double play to keep them atop the Hacienda League — one game ahead of Alta Loma who has a 6-2 record after their victory over Gladstone.

The Bearcats will hit the road Friday to meet the Braves in a crucial game. H.P. Drake is scheduled to start.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It doesn't look like Ganesha High will have any trouble winning its second consecutive San Antonio League track title this year.

The Giants have only one SAL meet left on its regular season schedule, and that will be next week against Claremont.

Pomona High removed any thoughts that Claremont might upset Ganesha by handing the host Wolfpack a convincing 72-46 defeat Tuesday afternoon.

The Red Devils strengthened their hold on second place in the league with a 5-1 record, while Claremont dropped from third to fifth and evened its record to 3-3 in SAL action.

The Devils kept their distance throughout the meet, never really being threatened.

Since Ganesha already Faced Damien before the Easter vacation, the Giants and Spartans are taking this week off in SAL competition. Meanwhile, two more track meets are scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

Chino will be hosting Upland in what should be an interesting battle between the two West End schools, while Montclair will visit Garey. Both meets are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. starts.

Over in the Hacienda League, defending league champion San Dimas will host Gladstone, Walnut will travel to Alta Loma, and Bonita will head for Sierra Vista. Those meets are also scheduled to begin at 3:15 p.m.

There were some interesting confrontations in the Pomona-Claremont meet.

The first one appeared in the first event of the day when Pomona's Andre Hall and Claremont's Bruce Abraham battled in the 120 high hurdles. Hall held the top mark in the highs in the valley at 14.3 seconds, and won with ease against Abraham with the same time.

They met again in the 180 lows, but this time Abraham gave his opponent a little tougher time. They finished in a dead heat for first place in 20.0 seconds.

The other big confrontation came in the distance events, where Pomona's Ed Davila went up against Claremont's Gary Ardrey. They first met in the 880, where Davila came out on top with a winning time of 2:06.9.

They met again in the two mile run, and again Davila won the event ahead of the Claremont distance man — posting a time of 10:04.9.

One of Claremont's bright spots was in the pole vault, where Jon Powers topped his best height of the season at 14-4. He took a shot at the school record (14-9), but failed to clear it in his three attempts.

Although it was somewhat of a romp, Pomona could only sweep one event — the long jump. The Red Devils' Garry Honest captured the event, with teammates Art Hodges and Jerome Holliman taking second and third.

To top things off, Pomona coasted to an easy victory in the mile relay when Claremont failed to field a team for the final event of the day.

The winner of Thursday's Chino-Upland matchup will claim sole possession of third place in the SAL with a 4-2 record behind Pomona and Ganesha.

Chino should be tough in the sprints, highlighted by sophomore Jayson Law and senior Don Cossey. But Upland, behind Steve Scott, should dominate the middle distances and the distance races. The distance men from Upland to watch should be Steve Lucero in the mile and Frank Guevara in the two mile.

San Dimas could cinch the Hacienda League title Thursday, providing the Saints win and Ontario upsets Royal Oak.

Some of the San Dimas athletes to keep an eye on will be quarter miler Dan Hitchens, half mile Jim Ratcliff, miler Frank Diaz, two miler Kevin Kellogg, hurdler Shelley White and pole vaulter Tony Atkinson.

SPATULA SPOONBREAD

Spatula Spoonbread could be a favorite

Putting all your eggs in one basket is wise planning when the result is a one-dish meal like Brown 'n Serve Sausage Topped Spatula Spoonbread. Only syrup and your favorite fruit sauce or compote need to be added to make an easy brunch or supper menu.

Variety is easy since there are many flavors of Brown 'n Serve Sausages. You can choose from original, country kitchen, bacon and sausage, smoke, Italian, seasoned hot or maple. Each has the added seasoning characteristic of its flavor name.

When making the spatual spoonbread, you may want to combine two flavors of sausage. Place one flavor on half the batter and another flavor on the other half; or alternate the flavors so that each 2-sausage serving combines two flavors.

Sausages of all of the flavors have the same convenient preparation and only need to be browned and heated through since they are fully cooked before packaged. The frozen links take about 7 minutes, while the thawed ones need only 5 minutes. Each 8-ounce package contains 10 links.

SPATULA SPOONBREAD

2 packages (8 ounces each) brown and serve sausage links
4 cups milk
2 cups yellow cornmeal
½ stick (¼ cup) margarine, melted
1 ½ teaspoons salt
6 eggs, separated
4 teaspoons sugar
Maple flavored syrup

Lightly brown sausages. In a double boiler, heat milk to boiling point. Gradually add cornmeal, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add melted margarine and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Blend some of hot cornmeal mixture into egg yolks then return all to the cornmeal mixture. Beat egg whites with sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold beaten egg whites into cornmeal mixture Pour into greased 15-½ by 10-½ by 1 inch jelly roll plan. Place browned sausage links on top. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with maple flavored syrup.

Meatless; still tops in protein

A meatless main dish seems to be the order of the day in many households. One that has plenty of protein oomph to it is a Cheesy Tuna Pie. This is a stretch dish that goes a long way when served with a hearty green salad and fresh fruit or a baked fruit dessert.

CHEESY TUNA PIE

1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
4 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
2 cans (about 7 ounces each) tuna, well-drained and flaked
9 -inch baked pie shell
Tomato wedges
Parsley

In bowl, combine soup, eggs, milk, onion and hot pepper sauce. Stir in tuna. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Garnish with tomato and parsley if desired. Makes 6 servings.

If necessary during baking, cover edges of pie shell with aluminum foil to prevent overbrowning.

Sal soda takes off the finish

A good way to remove old finish from furniture, including antiques, is to scrub first with a strong solution of sal soda concentrate. Then scrape or, if it's soft wood, use steel wool.

Window cleaner shines shoes

Rubbing with an ordinary window cleaning solution will give most patent leather a bright shine.

Bit of this, bit of that in this stew

In the days of make-do-or-do-without, women faithfully saved, collected and traded scraps of fabric from the makings of the family's clothing. Then they worked meticulously piecing together these patches of gingham and calico to make decorative quilts and pillow coverings. Hence, this dexterous crafts was called "patchwork."

Since women have been adept at dovetailing chores for a long time, often a stew simmered while this sewing was done. This hearty dish also represented a patchwork of sorts reflecting the cook's creativity in combining bits of this and that with a personal touch to make a pleasing product.

Patchwork artisry lives on in both needlecraft and cooking. Stews, like those patchwork quilts, are in again. They're especially popular these days when frugal cooks look for both old and new ways to keep food costs in line. For a stew can mean eating well without straining the budget.

Here's the recipe for an especially savory stew — a culinary patchwork of cubes of beef and pieces of turnips, onions, radishes and beans. Just as in pieces needlework, the colors of beef and vegetables fashion an eye-catching combination, while flavors blend in delicious harmony. The piquant gravy that sauces the garden cluster is the result of fortifying that great beef flavor with a bit of soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and caraway seed. Dredging the beef cubes in flour and browning them makes for full color and flavor development.

With generously ladled servings of stew, little else is needed. Noodles accompanying the stew will utilize the tasty gravy fully and satisfy hearty appeties. A salad of fresh greens and warm bread make fine stew companions. Try whole wheat or, for another show of culinary creativity, make your own pumpkin bread. Coconut custard pie completes the meal with complimentary texture and taste.

PATCHWORK BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef for stew, cut in 1½-inch pieces
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1½ cups water
2 medium-sized onions, diced.
6 medium-sized turnips, pared and halved
12 radishes
¾ pound green beans
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teasapoon caraway seed

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge beef in seasoned flour, reserving any extra flour, and brown in lard or drippings in a Dutch oven. Pour off drippings and sprinkle meat with any reserved flour. Add water and onion, cover tightly and cook slowly for 1 hour. Add turnips, radishes, green beans, vinegar, soy sauce, sugar and caraway seed. Bring to boil, reduce heat and cook slowly 45 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: 1 can (16 ounces) green beans, drained, can be substituted for fresh beans, if desired.

Quickie lunch nice enough for company

"Please join us for lunch."

If this invitation has slipped from your lips before you realized what you were doing, don't panic, because there is something to serve! That something is an elegant looking platter of asparagus pears, either fresh or frozen. They're served with poached eggs and an elegant cheese sauce.

Preparation time for this treat is under 30 minutes. The result is a delightful spring-like combination of egg, cheese sauce, bread and vegetable, a meal by itself. Should you like, add a salad, as easy-do combination of orange and grapefuit segments topped with cottage cheese or sherbet.

All of this offers a light-hearted combination ideal for Lent, be it for guest or a light supper for the family. It's a well-balanced meal with all four of the food groups represented to give a satisfying meal in a minimum of flurries for getting it all together.

ASPARAGUS WITH POACHED EGG AND CHEESE SAUCE

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon onion salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
4 eggs
4 slices buttered toast
1 pound fresh asparagus or 1 package (10 ounces frozen asparagus spears
Paprika or minced parsley, if desired

In a 1-quart saucepan melt butter; blend in flour, salt, pepper and onion salt. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Add prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Remove from heat; stir in Cheddar Cheese until melted. If necessary, return to low heat to finish melting cheese. (Do not boil.) Keep warm. (Yield: 1½ cups.)

Poach eggs. Cook asparagus. Top each slice of buttered toast with ¼ of the asparagus spears. Arrange poached egg on asparagus. Cover with ¼ cup of cheese sauce; sprinkle with paprika or minced parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Fix-ahead dessert has prune taste

A light, fix-ahead dessert comes in the colorful form of a Prune Marmalade Mold, the combination of prune juice, orange marmalade and lemon juice with whipped cream gives this just the right tartness to offset a heavy meal, leaving the sweet tooth satisfied in a most refreshing way.

PRUNE MARMALADE MOLD

1½ cups prune juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
1 package (3 ounces) lemon gelatin
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Heat prune juice with lemon juice and orange marmalade. When just at boiling pour over gelatin. Divide gelatin mixture and pour 1-3rd in top of 4-to-5-cup mold. Cool remainder until mixture mounds on spoon. Divide gelatin in 2 parts. Whip 1 part and fold into whipped cream and add to mold. Add remaining gelatin mixture to form final layer. Makes about 6 servings.

Keep pie crust makings cool

Your pie crust will be easier to roll and will be crisper if you always chill all ingredients before using.

Steak stew saves time and energy

COLORFUL BEEF STEAK

2 pounds beef top round steak
½ pound green beans
½ pound carrots
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon each sugar and salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 (10 ¾-ounce) can condensed tomato bisque soup
½ soup can water

Have butcher cut steak into 3 thin slices. Cut these in pieces the length of a whole green bean. Snap ends off beans. Cut carrots in strips the size of the beans. Blanch vegetables tender crisp in boiling water and cool quickly in cold water.

Arrange bundles of carrots and beans in center of beef. Sprinkle with lemon peel mixed with sugar, salt and pepper. Roll up and secure with picks. Brown on all sides in butter. Add soup and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Slice rolls into thirds and arrange vegetable side up on Brown Rice. Spoon sauce over. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Want to Know the Honest Truth About Ground Beef?

IT'S THIS:

There's been lots of talk lately about the fat/lean ratio in ground beef. So why not label each package. Contains X% of fat? Let us tell you why.

We've been making ground beef just about as long as anyone and we know there's no way to make two batches that are exactly alike. Two samples taken from the same batch (or even the same package) can differ in ratio of fat to lean. Even with meticulous care in selecting ingredients, there are variations in fat/lean ratio. Even with our moist modern grinding and mixing equipment. Even with use of the best available fat-measuring devices.

Yet we know our customers want and expect us to provide them with a choice of ground beef products to meet their varying preferences, tastes and budgets. After long and careful consideration, we have concluded that we can best meet our customers need for variety by offering just two ground beef products—REGULAR and PREMIUM. We make both kinds from fresh chunks of beef. We prepare both kinds with equal care to maintain the top quality which has helped earn our fine meat reputation.

Our REGULAR is made the way we believe most families prefer their ground beef. It contains enough fat to assure full juiciness in the cooked meat. It makes marvelous hamburgers, meat loaves, meat balls, spaghetti sauce, Salisbury steak and other delicious dishes.

Our PREMIUM is made to please families that want a leaner ground beef. It shrinks less in cooking and makes wonderful ground beef dishes of all kinds—plain and fancy.

Why not try both kinds and see which is preferred by the folks at your house? (You might even want to make a mix with some of each.) The famous Safeway money-back guarantee applies, of course, to our ground beef as to all of our other products.

As Selma sees it

DEAR SELMA:

I am a size 40 but don't feel fat even though I know I'm overweight. I am being urged by friends to diet as I'm only 21 years old, quite pretty, popular, with a good sense of humor. When I look into a full-length mirror, I really think I look good. With this attitude, should I diet? I do love cookies and ice cream.—Miss R.V.

Dear Miss R.V.:

I have found that in the life of every overweight person there is a moment of truth. A time when the excuses for being fat have worn out, when all the delays in shedding pounds have been exhausted and when there is no recourse but to lose weight. The thin person inside of you is waiting for your moment of truth to arrive. Do yourself a favor. The next time you indulge in cookies and ice cream, eat them standing nude in front of a full-length mirror. If you still think you look good, forget dieting.

DEAR SELMA:

I really watch my food intake all week and do beautifully. Then comes the weekend and I really have food orgies and gain whatever I've lost plus. Any words on weekends? — Miss L.E.

Dear Miss L.E.:

I used to say Saturday and Sunday were "dirty words." However, weekends are a wonderful opportunity to get thin. They come in little two day packages and two days of proper food intake can make a difference on the scale. More than that, you know you've had a good weekend which gives you the courage and desire for the rest of the week. Try for seven perfect days.

Questions to be answered in this column should be sent to Selma Rifkin, Weight Watchers, 2360 S. Garfield Ave., Monterey Park, Calif. 91754. Persons desiring a personal reply should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Heart hints

Slim down teen-ager with his favorites

Help your overweight teenager reduce by giving him pizza, says the Los Angeles County Heart Association (LACHA).

Your child is more likely to modify his eating habits if he can have some of his favorite foods, including tacos, pizza, milk shakes, and cakes, says LACHA.

Who knows, you may be so successful with this approach that the whole family may start thinking slim.

Here are some trimmed down recipes that are low in saturated fat and cholesterol to meet Heart Association recommendations.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIZZA

TO MAKE SAUCE: Put contents of one 1-pound can (No. 303) stewed tomatoes with 1 medium chopped onion and 2 stalks celery sliced crosswise in a saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon soft margarine and ½ teaspoon ground oregano and stir. Cook slowly until it is of spreading consistency.

TO MAKE PIZZA: Split English muffins and spread each with margarine. Spread with pizza sauce. Add mushrooms. Add cottage cheese and bake in oven until cottage cheese is melted at 375 degrees.

Tacos and tostadas are favorites with many Southern California families. Your favorite recipe for tacos can be modified with the following changes to reduce the calories and saturated fats: Simply substitute a part-skimmed milk mozzarella cheese for the topping and use very lean ground meat for your filling. Brown the meat in a teflon pan without fat. Instead of frying the tortillas in fat, dip them lightly in oil and hang them over the rack in oven. Brown for ten minutes at 375 degrees. Don't overcook or they will be too brittle.

BEEF TOSTADAS

Beef mixture

1 onion, chopped
1 pound lean ground beef
2 whole canned tomatoes, drained oregano, chili powder and garlic, to taste

Saute onion in 1 tablespoon of oil. Add ground beef and cook until meat loses its red color. Drain off the fat that accumulates. Add tomatoes and seasoning, and cook for minute or two. Cover tortillas with ground beef mixture, top with grated mozzarella and grill under broiler. Serve with shredded lettuce and taco sauce.

When preparing the tortillas for these tostadas dip them in oil and bake at 350 degrees until slightly crisp.

Here is a milkshake that could be included in any reducing diet. You can eat this one with a spoon if you beat it longer in the blender, and you can freeze it to make ice cream.

MILKSHAKE

2-3rds cup powdered nonfat milk
4 ice cubes
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1 capful vanilla
6 tablets sucaryl (use sugar substitute to taste)

Mix all ingredients in a jar and shake well until foamy. Remove ice cubes and enjoy. If you have a blender, place all ingredients in blender and mix until foamy.

STRAWBERRY: omit coffee, add 5 mashed strawberries and shake.

BANANA: mash one banana, add to mixture and shake.

CHOCOLATE: everybody's favorite, but it contains saturated fat. You can substitute cocoa with the Heart Association's blessing, but you will have to experiment to find the amount to suit your family's taste.

Try this white cake with a topping made of pureed apricots from the baby food department. If you want thick sauce, cook it a little while until some of the liquid is reduced. Applesauce with cinnamon is another good low-calorie topping. These fruit sauces make excellent syrup substitutes to serve on pancakes or waffles.

WHITE CAKE

2½ cups sifted cake flour
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 egg whites
¾ cup sugar
½ cup corn oil
1 cup nonfat milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix and sift together flour, ½ c. sugar, baking powder and salt. In a large bowl, beat egg whites until slightly mounded when beater is raised; gradually beat in ¾ c. sugar andcontinue beating until mixture stands in firm peaks.

Make a well in the dry ingredients; add oil and 2-3rds cup of milk. Blend, beat 100 strokes, or until batter is smooth. Add remaining milk and vanilla, blend and beat an additional 100 strokes. Pour this mixture slowly into the meringue gently folding until completely blended. Fold, do not stir. Turn into two 9-inch oiled and paper-lined pans; cut through with spatula to remove bubbles. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Cake may also be baked in 13" x 9" x 2" oblong pan at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or baked as cup cakes at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes.

The whole world battling prices

Americans aren't the only ones faced with high food costs. Japanese, for example, now spend $40 a in a week to buy what cost them $26 a year ago.

A pound of bacon, averaging $1.15 in this country in late August, cost $3.44 in Japan; $2.63 in France and $2.57 in Germany, according to figures compiled by the New York Times in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Emphasis everywhere is on economy . . . ways to stretch the food dollar. At the same time, there is concern that diets should not suffer from a nutrition standpoint.

High-carbohydrate foods are taking on new meaning, since they contain protein and other vitamins and minerals. They can be used, therefore, to stretch meat meals . . . or, if properly combined with other nonmeat proteins, can be served in place of the more expensive meats.

Rice and potatoes are two prominent members of the carbohydrate family. And, while the cost for both of these items is increasing, too, rice remains the best buy, judging from figures just released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Comparing national average prices for January and July, the Bureau says that rice (regular milled white rice) went up only 2.8 cents a pound.

Potatoes, on the other hand, rose 7.78 cents per pound during the same period, almost doubling in cost to 4.53 cents per half cup serving.

On a cost per serving basis, white rice now runs only 1.96 cents per half cup serving. (The national average price per pound of regular milled white rice in July was 27.5 cents, according to BLS.)

In addition to being an excellent source of carbohydrate, rice also is rich in B complex vitamins, low in fat, and can provide up to 9 per cent of all the iron needed daily.

Fish that's a bargain goes here

If you are looking at every recipe these days with an eye toward food costs, you might keep in mind that you can adapt this recipe to any white fish bargains you may come across in your market — or to whatever catch your own personal fisherman brings home from a nearby lake or stream.

If you are trying to do everything possible to conserve energy, you can use this recipe as the basis of an energy-saving oven meal. Baked potatoes would take a little more oven time, depending on size, than the recipe; but you might also consider a rice casserole or a frozen potato or rice product that merely needs to be heated. And remember: You can do green vegetables in the oven, too. The frozen vegetables in butter sauce are especially apt for an oven dinner featuring this almond-elegant baked fish.

BAKED FISH WITH ALMOND SAUCE

3 pounds white fish (red snapper, bass, rock cod, or other fish—whole, piece slices, or fillets)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons salad oil
3 to 4 tablespoons white table wine

ALMOND SAUCE

¾ cup whole or about 1 cup ground blanched almonds
2 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons French-style mustard
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Lemon slices or wedges

Trim fish of fins, tails, gills, and any sharp barbs. (Some sea bass such as striped bass is better if skinned.) Rub fish with salt and pepper. Mix oil with 2 tablespoons of the wine. Spoon over fish. Bake about 30 minutes in 350-degree oven or until fish is done, basting two or three times with the rest of the wine.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce: Grind almonds, about ¼ cup at a time, in electric blender or grind in manual grinder. Mash the egg yolks, chop the whites. Combine eggs with ground almonds, mustard, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. About 10 minutes before fish is done, spoon sauce over fish. When sauce is hot and fish is done, spoon pan juices over the fish and the sauce. Garnish with lemon. Makes 6 servings.

Sauerkraut easily takes to new ways

Bet this is a new one for you: Sauerkraut Salad Almondine!

This is a great accompaniment to pork roast or pork chops, both of which are less expensive than the better cuts of beef or lamb in many markets.

It is good, too, with baked canned ham or luncheon meat. The toasted almonds really dress it up, even though you don't need to use a lot of them.

You might toast the almonds in the oven while the pork is roasting; or, if you prefer, you can do them quickly in a fry pan on top of the stove. In either case, use a dry pan for toasted almonds, a lightly oiled or buttered pan when a recipe calls for roasted almonds — unless, of course, you purchase slivered almonds already roasted.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD ALMONDINE

1. cups drained sauerkraut
1 chopped or thinly sliced apple, preferably red-skinned and unpeeled
2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion
1 teaspoon caraway seed
½ cup yogurt
¼ to ½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salad seasoning
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
2 to 4 tablespoons sliced or slivered almonds, toasted

Rinse sauerkraut in cold water; drain well and chill thoroughly. Combine with apple, sliced green onions and caraway. Mix yogurt with sugar, salad seasoning and pepper. Spoon over sauerkraut and toss to combine thoroughly. Arrange in salad bowl or individual salad plates. Just before serving, sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Dollar still has some use

By CLAYTON YEUTTER
Asst. Sec. of Agriculture, New York

If any of us had forgotten the basic economic fact that tight supplies of any commodity mean higher prices, our trips to the gasoline pumps during the last few weeks should have reminded us

Yet, we continually dismiss supply and demand factors when we think about food prices. We look for simple answers, and someone usually gives them to us.

But the fact is that no one has yet found a way to repeal the law of supply and demand for any product. Any temporary gains that might be felt usually prove costly in the long run.

For 40 years, we have had government programs in this country to deal with the problem of grain surpluses. None of these legislative maneuvers has ever been fully successful. From 1930 to 1970, 21 million people left farming because they could make a better living elsewhere. No government program, no matter how complex, could make it possible for farmers to earn incomes equal to the nonfarm population while we had surpluses of farm products — in spite of the fact that farm commodities are essential.

In most countries, grains are a primary food. Here, we eat some directly, but usually consider them more important as livestock feed — grains fatten our beef, hogs, lambs, and poultry.

But, since grain is food or translates to food, any sizeable shift in the overall world supply or demand for grains results in significant impact in prices at the grocery store.

We have recently seen a number of factors in the supply-demand picture which have unsettled food prices. During 1972, world grain production dropped because of bad weather. Even more important, a combination of demand factors came to a head, increasing the demand for United States grains. Also, a cycle of worldwide inflation is now adding to the problem of rising food prices.

In such a time of price instability, people look for ways to regain stability. The question arises again as to whether our stocks of grains — and therefore, food prices — might be stabilized by setting up some sort of artificial control mechanisms. We learned last year that price controls on food are counter-productive — instead of more food, we get less food produced and higher prices — or empty shelves — in the longer pull.

Right now, we think we are in a turnaround in the supply and demand for agricultural products. We must guard against the temptation to tamper with free marketing.

Today's retail beef prices are an example of what can go wrong with price tampering. The price freeze on beef last summer resulted in fewer cattle being placed on feed for slaughter this spring. The temporary controls garbled the market signal to producers. Feeders consequently cut potential supplies of marketable beef instead of expanding them.

Let's not make the same type of mistake with grains.

There is little doubt that the long-term demand for all agricultural products will grow as the world population increases — but the recent siege of inclement weather in major food-producing countries has distorted the production picture and probably made the situation seem more pressing than it really is. An especially heavy strain has been placed on American grain stocks.

Let's examine each of the factors on the supply side and the demand saide and try to see what has happened. Then let's investigate some of the possible suggestions for moderating food costs and see what potential trade-offs might be involved if such moves were to be taken.

The supply side

The largest single factor in the tight supply situation and chaotic market conditions of the past 18 months has been bad weather. During 1972, total world grain production was down 3 per cent from the preceeding year. This was in contrast to the recent trend that has yielded annual increases of 3 per cent.

In 1972:

— Soviet grain production dropped sharply due to winter kill and a dry summer.

— Australia's grain production was crippled by drought.

— West Africa suffered from a continuing drought.

— South Africa's feed grain production was cut sharply because of dry weather.

— Rice production was down in Indonesia, Thailand, and throughout Southeast Asia because of dry weather.

— The Philippine rice and corn crops were reduced by drought and typhoons.

— Changing weather caused a shift in the ocean current off the coast of Peru. The anchovy catch was reduced dramatically, and the world lost a major source of protein meal for feeding livestock. The deficit had to be largely made up from American soybean stocks.

— Dry weather cut grain yields in the People's Republic of China.

In 1973, the situation improved a good deal, but weather continued to cause some problems.

— Pakistan was hit by the worst flooding of its 26 year history.

— Drought in Japan severely damaged vegetable crops, rice, and fruit.

— Widespread dryness cut crop yields in eastern Mediterranean countries. The biggest loss occurred in Turkey where wheat yields were down 15 per cent.

— The worst drought of the century continued to sear a broad, dry band across North Central Africa for the fifth straight year.

— Dry weather also affected the Philippines and New Zealand.

But even with all of these troubles, world grain production recovered toward the trend line with an increase of 6 per cent over 1972. Record crops of wheat, corn and soybeans in the United States, and a bumper crop of grain in the Soviet Union had much to do with this recovery. The ability of the world's farmers to bounce back from disaster is amazing.

The demand side

Three major factors combined to increase demand for American grains during the last two years.

— Economic growth in almost every country has added to consumer buying power and demand for imported foods.

— World population continues to grow.

— Currency realignments have occurred which make U.S. grains from 13 to 20 per cent more attractive to foreign buyers. These same currency realignments have also raised the price of the food we import, but at the same time, they have added to the power of American industry to compete overseas.

The big story has been the increase in purchasing power, both internationally and domestically. There has been a tremendous boom in the U.S. economy coupled with the increased purchasing power in the developed countries, and in the developing countries as well. Cash incomes for people of other nations has been increasing at the rate of three to four percent per person per year. That's measured in constant dollars, adjusted for both inflation and population growth, so it represents real buying power, not just statistical juggling.

Another way of looking at buying power is through per capita Gross National Product. Between 1960 and last year, the United States increased its per capita GNP by 40 per cent. But 30 other countries did even better. Pakistan, Mexico, and the whole of Western Europe were among them. Korea, Taiwan, Spain, and Greece all doubled their per capita GNP's in the same period. Japan tripled hers.

Those figures represent money in the hands of consumers — hard, cold cash — and one of the first things those consumers want when they start earning money is more and higher quality food. Typically, as incomes rise, people eat less starchy foods and begin eating more livestock, dairy, and poultry products. Between 1961 and 1971,

The country is being swamped with nostalgia in new movies and TV shows, on records, in 1920s through 1950s — style clothing and make-up. And we seem to be enjoying the experience. Latest in the "It was a good time, it was the best time" ventures in the refilming of the F. Scott Fitzgerald classic, "The Great Gatsby." His time, for many, was the greatest time. Those who want to recapture the era in an at-home party can take a cue from Nick's party for 500 guests seen in the current film. The elaborate 50-foot-long banquet tables in the movie do reflect parties of the era, with three-foot lobster trees, crown roasts, Coq au vin, suckling pig, carved watermelon baskets, planked salmon, sardines, duck, turkey galantine and the like and Ballantine's scotch, drunk neat in those relatively ice-cubeless days.

The kitchen used is that of The Breakers in ⅞ Newport, Rhode Island, the historic mansion similar to the settings of F. Scott Fitzgerald's own glamorous characters. Party preparations started at 7 a.m. and filming began at 7 p.m. and continued until 4 a.m. for two frenetic weeks.

For those who want to have a mini-Gatsby party here is a Steak and Kidney Pie and Egg, Salmon, Asparagus Salad, plus authentic Automobile and Old Pepper drinks from the era.

STEAK AND KIDNEY PIE

1 one-pound beef kidney
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ cup bacon drippings
2 teaspoons salt
10 small white onions, about ¼ pound
1 pound diced chuck
1 pound diced pared potatoes
Plain pastry for single crust

Split kidney and remove cores, tubes and membranous covering. Soak 30 minutes in 1 quart cold water with vinegar added. Drain, dice and brown kidney in 2 tablespoons bacon fat. Barely cover with water and add I teaspoon salt. Simmer slowly until tender, about 30 to 45 minutes. Add water as needed to cover kidney with liquid. Cut onions in halves or quarters and saute in remaining fat until slightly browned.

Add diced meat and remaining salt and continue cooking over moderate heat, stirring frequently for 20 minutes or until meat is nicely browned. Meanwhile, cook potatoes until tender in just enough boiling salted water to cover. Add kidney and potatoes with their cooking water to the diced meat. Thicken gravy if desired. Turn into an 8-inch casserole. Cover with plain pastry. Cut vents in several places to let steam escape and bake in 425-degree oven for about 20 minutes or until crust is nicely browned. Serve piping hot. Makes 5 servings.

Imagination is the only limit to salad variety

Nowhere else in the world has the art of salad-making achieved the high level of variety and interest that it has in the United States. Even so, there are millions in this great country who rarely eat salads, or who confine themselves to lettuce alone or "mixed greens" and perhaps one or two other recipes.

When internationally renowned British Cook Maurice Moore-Betty arrived in the United States, he became fascinated with Americans' enthusiasm for salads, and began experimenting.

Exponent of quality, simplicity, and handsome presentation of small three-course meals with a minimum of dishes for family or special occasions, Maurice Moore-Betty serves salad as first or main course, side dish or dessert.

Only when catering a formal banquet does he occasionally follow the European and traditional Eastern approach of serving salad after the main course.

If your salad calls for cooked vegetables, be sure they are cooked "al dente," he urges, so that they will retain a crunchiness — better for flavor, texture and retention of health-making nutrients.

"With a family of salad dressings on hand, it is easy to achieve salad variety."

Maurice Moore-Betty has created an illustrated color booklet of his salad recipes, "The 'Civilized Art' of Salad Making." The salads are made with pourable dressings. For delicious new ideas and new approaches to old favorites, write for your free copy to: Salad Recipes, P.O. Box 2145, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103. Below are two of Moore-Betty's recipes from "The 'Civilized Art' of Salad Making":

FRESH FISH SALAD

1 pound lean fish (cod, turbot, flounder, sole or other) baked or poached, boned, skinned and flaked, or ¾ pound (2) cups) precooked, lean fish filet broken into chunks.
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1-3rd cup Russian Dressing
Paprika
Lettuce

With light hand, mix fish, parsley and dressing together until well combined.

Arrange in lettuce lined bowl, or individual lettuce cups. Dust with paprika. Makes 4 servings as main dish; 6 as appetizer.

MOLDED VEGETABLE MEDLEY

1 large carrot, diced (about ½ cup)
1 cup green beans, cut into ½ inch diagonals
1 cup peas (preferably petits pois)
1 small white onion, thinly sliced
1 stalk celery, stringed, diced (about ½ cup)
½ large cucumber, scored, diced (¾ cup)
½ small green pepper, chopped fine (1-3rd cup)
3 radishes, thinly sliced
½ cup cold water
2 tablespoons plain gelatin
½ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 cup Thousand Island Dressing
Watercress

Simmer, in separate pots, carrots and beans about 3 minutes; peas, 1 minute. Blend all vegetables.

Measure cold water into small bowl. Sprinkle on gelatin to soften. Add boiling water, stirring till dissolved. Stir in lemon juice and dressing. Blend with vegetables. Chill in refrigerator until mixture begins to congeal. Spoon into six cup ring mold. Tap mold against table to ensure mold is evenly packed.

Chill until firm (3 hours or longer). Unmold. Makes 4 to 6 servings as first course; 6 or 8 as a side dish; or serve as luncheon main course.

WHAT'S IN STORE...

BAGGING BARGAINS

What is it about a sale that is so irresistible? It must be human nature to want to get something for nothing—or next to nothing. I can't believe some of the things I have lugged home in my lifetime just because they were a "good buy!"

In these days of high prices, so few things really look like bargains anymore.

One very effective way to economize in supermarket shopping is to learn to look for Alpha Beta's "Double Discounts." Today there are often 500 or more of these "super" specials in the store at a time.

But, what are these "Double Discounts?" Why are they so special? Briefly stated, they are manufacturers' temporary purchase allowances which we pass on to the customer. Let's use an example to better understand what this means. Company "A" has many cases of tomato juice in their warehouse. They want to move the product faster, so a sales representative comes to our buyers and offers to sell us tomato juice at a special price for a limited period. Certain qualifications go along with the deal. Usually, we agree to advertise the special and lower the price of the product for a specified period. We then pass along the full manufacturers' allowance to the customer, making it an Alpha Beta "Double Discount."

It's true that other stores also receive such allowances, but the difference is that no other company passes on as many allowances as Alpha Beta. Some pass along partial allowances, some use "loss leaders" (merchandise actually sold below cost) in their advertising. When loss leaders are used, other prices must be raised to make up for these losses.

At Alpha Beta, every item in the store is marked for an everyday value—a true discounting operation. Then, we add the "Double Discounts"—hundreds of them—for extra bargains. But, are they hard to find? Certainly not. Look for the special blue and red tags on the shelf. They are genuine values. Everyday low shelf prices, plus these "Double Discounts" are why we say, "You'll Like the Total Better at Alpha Beta!"

Stir in a 16-ounce can tomatoes cut up, an 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 1¼ teaspoons chili powder, 1 teaspoon salt, and dash each of pepper and cayenne. Heat to boiling. Add 1 can undrained whole kernel corn with sweet peppers, 1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni and ½ cup water. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 or 20 minutes until macaroni is tender. Sprinkle with 4 ounces Monterey Jack cheese grated. Cover and heat until cheese is melted. Serve from skillet. Serves 4 to 6.

France dominates wine production

By AILEEN CLAIRE

(Fourth of a Series)

For centuries France has been called the "Queen of the Vine." Certainly the birth of the grapevine and winemaking did not begin in this "world's vineyard"; merely its heart and soul took form here.

Only members of a high-school debate team would make a moot question of France's century-old influence and domination in the wine world. French wine production is nearly one-third of the world total and at least 9 per cent of her population works in some phase of wine-growing, winemaking, and winemarketing. Even more pleasant for the average Frenchman is the availability of his 'vin ordinaire' as a daily companion with his 'pain' and 'cafe.' The consumption of wine per capita in France is said to be 150 bottles a year, and every true Frenchman does drink wine from adolescence through senility. It is as much a part of his daily life as the American cup of coffee or cola.

A French woman reminiscing about her childhood highlighted this closeness to wine. As a Parisienne she grew up until the age of 10 enjoying the pleasant things in life, that is, a glass of wine (usually watered) with her lunch. Then the family moved to the United States and she was enrolled in a private school for young ladies in the east. Upon being served a glass of milk with her first lunch at the posh school, she related that she pounded her small fist upon the table and told the startled mistress, "I demand my glass of wine."

In contrast to this is the fact that an American consumes a mere four bottles of wine a year and the average young American probably would demand a cola or "his glass of milk" as his due.

It is strange that war plays such a part in the spread or the death of a culture. Throughout centuries the attitude of conquer or be conquered has affected the production and distribution of wine. Had it not been for the exposure of thousands of "doughboys" in World War I to French and German wines and a further diversion of the GI throughout Europe and Asia in World War II, Americans in the 1970s and 1980s would be blithely unaware, except for a very small proportion of the population, of what many a Frenchman considers part of his birthright. Travel has dramatically changed our modes of living. The interchange, in the case of the art of winemaking, is not lost on the rest of the world as far as selling French wines is concerned.

However, the wine that tourist drink while traveling in France, and for that matter in almost any country, is not necessarily the wine that is available to the wine shopper in the United States.

The chateau country of France is in the valley of the Loire River. This is an area of rolling landscape with rivers and woods still filled with fish and wild game. Many consider the Loire as being the true France, with its serene inhabitants still the most faithful to its religion and tradition. This, too, is wine country, and its carefully tended vineyards each harvest offer a variety of reds, whites, and roses. These wines generally are not great wines but do offer excellent quality and can be great buys. The Loire boasts the longest-lived French white wine, the Vouvray, fine Cabernet rose d'Anjou and the medium-dry white Sancerre. Growing in popularity in France and in America is the gay, slightly acid, fresh Muscadet.

The vineyards around the town of Pouilly-sur-Loire produce the Blanc Fume, or smoke grape. Pouilly Fume, or Blanc Fume de Pouilly, is a lively dry white wine with a spicy scent capable of a long life. A lesser wine of the area from the same grape is the Pouilly-sur-Loire. Another dry white wine is the lively, fruity Sancerre which is made in 14 parishes or towns. Usually dry and sometimes a bit acid, the best of this smooth white wine comes from the Sancerre township and bears such names as Bue and Saint-Satur. Districts of Cresancy and Verdigny also produce a creditable Sancerre, as does the village of Chavignol.

The Muscadet is an Horatio Alger story a la France. Forty years ago it was a 'vin de pays,' and today it is an inexpensive but sought-after wine especially good with fish and seafood.

Muscadet is actually the name of the vine, and the best Muscadet comes from the region of Sevres-et-Maine and from Coteaux de la Loire. At Sevres-et-Maine it is generally bottled within three months of the vintage and sold 'sur lie,' or straight from the barrel unracked. Muscadet can be very good or too soft and lacking in character. Although delicious at its best, it is unpredictable. Over-all, this is a less expensive wine worth every penny.

To many new wine drinkers the term "rose" is the ultimate in light, pinkish wine, but often they associate "rose" with the crackling Spanish or Portuguese version. France makes more than one fine "rose," one of which comes from Anjou in the Loire Valley. The one that is more properly called Cabernet Rose d'Anjou is made from the finer Cabernet de la Loire grape, the best of which can have a rather deep color. Roses are refreshing thirst-quenchers and usually drunk when young. However, authentic Roses d'Anjou will age and turn to golden-green or dark old gold with a generous bouquet. Imitations are almost colorless, often have taste of sulphur, and are more sweet because added sugar covers the use of a lesser grape or hides the blending of lesser whites and reds to make a rose. Thise from Anjou labeled Anjou Rose or Rose d'Amjou are made from the Groslot grape, which is of lesser quality than the Cabernet.

Dean favored over Nixon by more Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of those Americans polled, more believe John Dean's version of the Watergate scandal than believe President Nixon's version, a Louis Harris survey released Monday indicates.

The figures show 46 per cent of the participants in the poll think Dean has been more truthful than Nixon, and 29 per cent think Nixon has been more truthful. A fourth of those polled said they were not sure which they thought was the more truthful about Watergate.

In testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee last summer, Dean accused Nixon of knowing about the Watergate cover-up, but Nixon has denied it. Harris said just after Dean's Senate testimony a poll showed he had made a favorable impression in terms of truthfulness.

But "during the ensuing 10 months while President Nixon's credibility has sharply declined, belief in what Dean said has not diminished," Harris said. "Relatively, therefore, Nixon's chief accuser now stands as a more credible witness on the events of the Watergate coverup than the President himself."

Squash is an ancient native

The most native of all the vegetables to the United States is the squash; its seeds and rind have been found in dried state in ruins dating as far back as 2,000 B.C.

LET'S BREAK BREAD TOGETHER

Today, such noontime gatherings are largely a thing of the past. But the flavorful breads that were served are not. Our family of quality variety breads recapture that "fresh-from-the-oven" taste of the home-baked breads of a hundred years ago.

CRACKED WHEAT
This bread owes its distinctive flavor to two things. The ingredients—cracked, rather than crushed, whole wheat grits, sesame seeds and pure honey. And the baking process—it's slow baked to preserve all the flavor the ingredients contain.

HOLLAND KRUNCH
A golden-cracked top is the main taste attraction of this fine-textured loaf. We add rice flour to the unusual white flour to allow the top to crack into a crunchy crust. And we slow bake it to give it a chewy taste that's unique to say the least.

BUTTERMILK
A rich bread with a rich taste, thanks to premium buttermilk solids, a top that's split then crowned with white flour and our patient slow baking process. All Buttermilk shares with other white breads is color.

A CENTURY AGO the midday meal was a family affair. It was a time to relax and enjoy good food, company and, inevitably, delicious home-baked bread.

These are just three of the seven members of our first family of quality variety breads. Your family will also like the tastes of Dutch Dill, Bavarian Pumpernickel, French Sourdough, Up-Side-Down White and Up-Side-Down Wheat. Try one on your family the next time you all break bread together.

Economic law still rules food prices

the per capita red meat consumption in the European community went up 25 per cent. It rose 50 per cent in Taiwan and Spain, and 150 per cent in Japan.

Now consider that it takes about 7 pounds of corn to produce a pound of beef, and about 4 pounds to produce a pound of pork. You can see why economic growth and the dietary changes resulting from it has a real effect on grain demand.

During the past 6 years, world grain use has increased at an average rate of 30 million metric tons per year. Now, let's put that abstract figure into perspective. Thirty million metric tons is equal to the combined annual wheat crops of Canada, Australia, and Argentina.

Economic growth is a large part of the explanation. The other important factor is population growth. In 1950, there were about two and a half billion people in the world. Today, there are around three and three-quarters billion. By the year 2000, there will be probably be from six to seven billion. This last year, the total number of people in the world grew by 75 to 80 million.

What does all this mean as far as food prices in this country? Can world food production keep up with the demand?

Thankfully, it can in the foreseeable future. Studies show that through 1985, world food production will probably stay a little ahead of demand.

On a per capita basis, world food production has gained over population growth at an annual rate of about three-fourths of one per cent for the last 20 years. This should continue.

But to keep up with the growing need for food, particularly in the lesser developed countries where population is increasing rapidly, more production is clearly needed.

What does this mean in terms of our own agricultural production and export policies? Shall we wall off American farm production from the world's growing need; can we actually afford to take such a step? There has been talk in some circles that we should, that we should attempt to lower America's own food costs by stopping agricultural exports.

What would happen if we actually did this — how would such action affect world stability— both economic and social — if we pulled our food off the world market? What would happen in our own country?

To begin with, American farmers can still produce far more grain than this country can consume domestically. So shutting down agricultural exports would mean drastically curtailing farm production in order to avoid huge surpluses that would have to be stored at the taxapayers' expense. Farm subsidies, similar to those of the past — but far more expensive — would have to be brought into play to prevent the ruination of the farm economy. The American consumer would end up paying a good deal of his food expense through the hidden cost of subsidies, rather than through the cash register.

We would be losing valuable foreign exchange ($17.7 billion from agricultural exports in calendar 1973) at a time when imported products and goods are costing us more and more. Last year, this country's oil imports cost $9.3 billion and still we did not have all we wanted. This year, the price of crude oil has risen two to four-fold. We cannot pay for this oil and other imports if we cut off our sales of our most competitive commodities.

We need every bit of trade surplus we can get. To cut off agricultural exports would be ruinous. Any lowering of food costs would be temporary, followed by very high costs as farmers cut production, increasing their costs per bushel and per pound of food.

When it is all said and done, there are many valid reasons why food now costs more. Demand is growing, bad weather cut production in 1972, social programs such as the food stamp program have pumped billions of dollars directly into the buying power that competes in retail food stores.

Food production is part of the general economy just like any other business enterprise. If production, handling, and transportation costs rise significantly, they are eventually reflected right back into the retail prices for food.

Food is still the best buy we have in this country, and it still takes an average of less than 16 per cent of our disposable income. This is the lowest per capita food bill in the world. We want moderate food prices for consumers and decent incomes for farmers. These goals are fully consistent. Farmers now are responding to the price signals that consumers want more food by all-out production of crops.

In addition, we have lifted the import quotas on some dairy products, on beef, and on wheat to help ease the consumer's burden, and people keep eating these products. We must remember that the best cure for high prices is free prices. And we should never underestimate the power of the pricing mechamism to affect production. The higher food costs we now have are bringing forth the increased production we must have.

Beer Bisque served up in minutes

Sometimes occasions simply cryout for new recipes. for fresh ideas of foods to serve. Time is precious, appetites are keen, and a brief period of respite is especially appreciated.

Those are the times when one dish—one food that really hits the spot—is needed. But it has to be a dish which is quick, easily made, takes no advance planning yet is absolutely perfect for relaxation and renewal.

Relax. We have that dish for you. It's a bright, new unbelievably delicious Beer Bisque! It can be ready in five minutes, whether you make it for 2 or 20.

Beer Bisque belongs to a long tradition of beer soups. The difference is that this one starts with canned specialities—potato soup and tomato soup reconstituted with beer.

Serve it in mugs or cups because even the tiny pieces of potato and tomato can be easily supped.

BEER BISQUE

1 (10½ ounces) can condensed cream of potato soup
1 (11 ounces) can condensed bisque of tomato soup
1 (12 ounce) can beer
1 cup water

Combine soups and blend; gradually add beer and water; stir well. Heat until mixture bubbles, but do not boil. Lower heat and simmer gently for 5 minutes. Serve hot with popcorn garnish if desired.

Keep potatoes fresh and dry

When you have leftover cooked potatoes to store in the refrigerator, if you place them in a plastic bag with an absorbent paper napkin they'll stay dry and fresh-tasting. The napkin takes away the moisture that normally oozes from the spuds.

Over-all cooking can be trimmed

If your fuel and food bills made last winter hard work, let this spring's fancy turn food wise. For April-light fashion, trim over-all cooking.

For fresh "raw" potential, watch seasonal food peaks and processed specials. Enjoy vegetables as instant appetizers, salads, snacks. Reach for fruits, in all forms, for cholesterol, cost, and calorie savings over many cooked confections, and a nutrient bonus. Home gardeners flower in April too.

Convenience foods can actually save both cooking time and costs. No-cook canned hams are a classic. Re-style your tuna salad, and recall that the sandwich was invented for royalty. Today's "garnishes" can make even the canned bean as hot and as rich as you please. Pickle your own relishes.

For fast cooking, slice frozen portioned turkey before cooking for rapid range-top recipes, perhaps cheaper now than last year. Stir-fry frozen fish fillet strips, with vegetables, for almost instant "one-work" cooking fashion.

Below are April food wise alerts. Watch store specials—if quality meats are featured and cooking time really counts, buy the "tender" cuts for short-cooking bonus. Shop hard, cook light. Be an early bird—have a picnic this month.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CATEGORY

Vegetable crop peaks this month include asparagus, cabbage, carrots, onions, radishes, and Mexican tomatoes. Processed vegetables will go up in cost, but frozen beans are one example of potential buys in the prepared category, compared with fresh supply. Check types, brands, grades and sizes.

Fruit crop peaks in April include some apples, bananas—which will cost more soon, Mexican cantaloupes, and grapefruit and oranges. Watch for features in canned grapefruit juice, canned blended citrus and chilled citrus juice, and frozen concentrated orange juice. Prunes should be plentiful source of premium iron nutrition. Frozen berries may be better buy this month—watch new supplies in strawberries, raspberries, and blueberries, and compare these with fresh strawberries from California and Florida.

NONMEAT PROTEINS

Mix and match in this category—pastas, grains, other food groups. Quick-cooking varieties may be worth the extra costs.

EGGS — Normal Easter price increase will be followed by relative savings. If in the 75 cent a dozen range, the economic buy is the larger size if price spread between sizes is less than 8 cents. Consider moving eggs from a soft boil or a casual scramble to an elegant souffle. an easy international casserole—depending on what else is in that oven.

SOY — Check store brands as well as new national-brand meat imitations or extenders. Soy additions may extend your meat loaf to spicy cold "pate" the next day; soy substitutes may dress up basic salads, snacks.

DAIRY — Add protein to snack beverages, easy-serve spreads, gelatines, with dry milk solids. Check heat-and-serve items such as frozen cheese ravioli for time and fuel savings. Compare costs of wheels and wedges of processed American, Danish Blue, Swiss types, over more specialized types and sliced cheeses. Consider making your own wine and cheese for a party without cooking.

NUTS — Watch for walnut and perhaps cashew values. Snack on "soynuts" and peanuts, too. Add to all courses, for "Meats" without heat, snacks with substances.

MEATS, POULTY, FISH

BEEF — April prices had been projected " quite a few cents higher"—but then some dropped like hemlines last month. If priced well, be ready—this may be temporary.

PORK — Watch imported hams—stocks were 20 per cent more abundant this January. Dollar exchange may make them even more right for your fast and fuelless functions.

POULTRY — Turkey should be seen much more this season, and the price loer! Investigate frozen porlower! Investigate frozen porlegs. Chicken broilers also offer a breath of savings—watch wholesale price drop pass-along at retail.

FISH — Start a quick family fashion in while fresh fish if your area offers these, or in whole or portioned packaged fish. Watch snack and salad potential in canned sardines—this year imports were 70 per cent higher. Consider fish stick portions as well as frozen fillets for fast and easy value.

First quarter profits down

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Hilton Hotel Corp.'s first quarter profits slipped slightly this year as tourism in Las Vegas, Nev., suffered at the height of the gasoline shortage.

Baron Hilton, owner of the international hotel chain, said Wednesday that the decline in earnings was primarily caused by the decrease in travelers to the Las Vegas resort.

"We are gratified," said Hilton, "that the energy crisis has not adversely affected our operations in general, other than in Las Vegas, where it was a contributing factor to the decline in earnings."

Revenues, he said, slipped from $91.8 million during the first quarter in 1973 to $91.2 million during the first three months of this year. Earnings per share fell from 69 cents to 58 cents.

Ladder safety

Spring fix-up and clean-up time is a good time to review safe ladder climbing rules — before you start climbing. The practices setting the scene for accidents, according to the American Ladder Institute: unbalanced climbing and-or over-reaching. Each causes a shift that could land you in the hospital —or worse.

This salad was born in Louisiana

This festive salad originated in Louisiana back in the days when oysters were an inexpensive food. Its popularity spread to the Middle West and then to the Pacific Coast.

This particular version is the adaptation of a home economist from the San Francisco Bay Area. (Two nearly identical versions appeared in an old church cookbook, the Altamont (Kansas) Methodist Episcopal Cook Book, compiled in 1908.)

If you are using the large Pacific oysters, cut them into pieces. Even when cut up, they can take a little more heat than the oysters from East Coast waters and the Gulf of Mexico, which should be barely heated through.

You'll find that the crunchy texture and rich flavor of the toasted slivered almonds is a pleasing contrast to the subtle taste and soft "mouth feel" of the oysters.

OYSTER-ALMOND SALAD

2 jars (10 ounces each) or 1 pint fresh raw oysters, Gulf, Pacific or Eastern
1 cup thinly sliced celery
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
1-3rd cup coarsely chopped sour pickles
1 cup coarsely crushed saltine crackers
3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup slivered almonds, toasted
½ cup mayonnaise

Simmer oysters in their liquor just until edges curl. Drain well and chill. (Save liquor to use for soup.) If oysters are large, cut into pieces; leave small oysters whole. Combine chilled oysters with sliced celery, seasoned salt, pickles and cracker crumbs.

Shell hard-cooked eggs; chop two and add to salad along with about 1-3rd cup of the almonds and the mayonnaise. Mix carefully; chill until serving time. Spoon mixture onto salad greens on platter. Slice remaining egg; garnish salad with egg and remaining almonds. Makes about 6 servings.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

by Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors

W. A. "BILL" SNOW, of Ontario, has become a celebrity at Betsy Ross because of the entertaining (and perceptive) cartoons he doodles on napkins while awaiting service. This is not to say that service is slow; just that he is adept at transscribing an idea with a few well-chosen lines. ED SIMONS has compiled three books of the "doodles" left in the coffee shoppe almost daily. Although he works for Rose Industrial, Metal Products Mgf., we think of BILL as an "artiste extraordinaire." Thank you, MR. SNOW, for the insights, laughs, and subtle hints.

KEVIN TAYLOR had a birthday Party at Betsy Ross #1 April 6th. Guests were RICKY, JUDY, & DANIEL GARCIA, TYRONE & ELAINE RICE, DUANE KEYS, LATONYA, ADRIENNE, BARBARA & ANDREW TAYLOR, and WELLDONE PETTIE.

Regular customers of Betsy Ross at 969 E. Holt, Pomona, may have noticed the constancy of LIANA BRAZO. She is finishing her lucky 13th year with the Company, despite the demands of a young grandson and taking care of her Mother. DIANE loves baseball, roots for the Dodgers, attends games when possible, and especially enjoys the World Series.

Pupils in the Pomona Community Nursery School, with RAE HARRIS, teacher/director, touring Pomona Valley Center Betsy Ross last month were JASON BRUCE, JAMES CARR, BRYAN & CANDY FINCH, JENNIFER KIMBALL, BRANDAN MYERS, DYLAN SHEPHARD, DARRYL SIDDEL, MICHAEL THOMPSON and BILLY WOODELL on Tuesday. Wednesday BETTY DAVENPORT showed ALLEN, LINDA & TANYA BROWN, WENDEL CHAMBLISS, DAVID CHINN, BRYAN COATS, TINA DE POLA, STEVE FOREMAN, CHARLIE GRAHAM, BILLY IVERSON, BRENDA SCOLASO, and MARIE SCOFAT through the shoppe.

SUSAN McCUTHEON recently had a tonsilectomy, and her only request was for her Mother to go down to Betsy Ross for some bubblegum ice cream! Touching.

It's a great fulfillment to be able to meet and wait on our customers, because they are so nice, but it's even a greater treat to be remembered by them with beautiful camelias like those brought us by MR. & MRS. B. PACE. We have that remember us every now and then, and we would like to take this opportunity publically to thank them." STAFF OF UPLAND COFFEE SHOPPE.

'Mr. Roberts'

Gallery Theater presents comedy of World War II

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

ONTARIO — Gallery Theater's production of "Mr. Roberts" is a rollicking presentation of the well-known comedy, giving full vent to the robust humor of the crew of the World War II freighter in the South Pacific, but also developing with sensitivity and poignance the interesting, troubled characters of serveral of the officers.

The most intriguing character on deck is The Captain, played with red-necked venom by Carl Hossler. In a waspish, insightful characterization reminiscent of James Cagney, Hossler deftly blends the pitiful pride, the rage and the anguish of the embittered man who has risen from busboy to captain of a ship and finds himself in charge of the lives of the college-boy types who have bedeviled and humiliated him in civilian life. Hossler does a savagely convincing job.

Duane Thomas handles the less-complex role of the romantic idealist, Lt. Roberts, with his customary persuasiveness. He, too, is a man torn with helpless rage, fighting to keep the crew in line, to keep them from being treated like slaves, and endlessly struggling to get into combat, to follow the convoy westward, to keep his rendezvous with death.

Shaun Fesler as the woman-hungry Ens. Pulver is exuberant and hilarious, particulary in his scenes with the captain, of whom he is terrified, and with the Navy nurse he tries unsuccessfully to seduce.

Richard Mitchell offers a warm, understanding Doc; rotund Doug Dowd is a comic Dolan; and Vicki Christensen is a sprightly nurse, though tending a little toward the cutsie.

Crew members are George Walters Bill Ennis, Steve Parkes, Paul Adelson, Buck Buchanon, Joel Gossett, Vann Alton Daniels, Paul Turner, Ray Douglas and Steve Breithaupt. Bill Everton Jr. is the military policeman. They are all funny, enthusiastic and convincingly GI.

Director Mark Shipley keeps the crew moving better than the captain can. The changes of tempo are nicely though out and the mood is imaginatively varied. Technical director Loren Wilton's set is spare, evocative and versatile.

Joshua Logan would find the Gallery production of his play throughly seaworthy. It plays at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights.

Nuclear fuel study scheduled

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has entered into contracts totaling about $12.8 million for design work and engineering studies to expand uranium enrichment capacity here and elsewhere.

When buying eggs, if there is less than a 7 cent price spread between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, you're probably getting a better bargain by picking the larger size.

It's important to use U.S. Grade AA or A eggs for frying and poaching, while Grade B with their less thick whites and flatter yolks are good for general cooking.

MRS. TIMOTHY EGAN

The bride wore a candlelight chiffon gown fashioned with full sleeves of tiny pleats. A yoke of embroidered lace enhanced the fitted bodice. Her full cathedral skirt extended into a sweep train. Her bouffant veil of French illusion was held by a cap of matching lace. She carried white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Bernard Rensky was matron of honor and best man was Gary Pendergast. Bridesmaids were Misses Geraldine Mullock, Melinda Egan, Theresa Olsen and Barbara Onglow.

Ushers were Bill Mullock, Terry Egan, Jerry Haas and David Craig.

A reception at Red Hill Country Club followed the service.

Among the out-of-town guests was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Mullock of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Lampshade refurbishing tips given

Many lampshades are washable, particularly those made of fabric that are sewn not glued. Any trim, in color or pasted-on, should be removed or else not washed by the following method.

Refurbishing consists of filling the bathtub or dish sink with enough warm water to cover the shade. Add detergent and swish to dissolve.

First, vacuum the shade inside and out to remove surface dirt. Then immerse the shade in the water and agitate by moving from side to side and moving up and down. For stubborn dirt, rub with a well-lathered soft-bristled brush. Rinse the shade in several changes of clean water. Dip up and down.

Dry the shade by tieing a string to the middle of the frame. Then hang it over the bathtub or from a clothesline outdoors to drip dry. Or pat dry with a bathtowel.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanip,
- normal hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage, used.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenace are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guarantee mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.
